Little Kids Wage Fights On Toyland Battlefields

By JOHN DeFRAIN
Star Staff Writer

"Boom-p!" That terrible sound tells you that the Sonic Blaster air gun has boom-ped-off, so to speak, another enemy commando in a great battle at a Lincoln toy department

The good guy with the big gun is not too surprisingly a little kid. The enemy is lying dead on the ground with a smile from ear to ear. And a handful of startled adults are trying to act perturbed by the incident. But anyone can tell they simply want to test for themselves the four-foot, bazooka-like cannon.

That's why the toy department can be likened to a great battlefield. The kids are battling each other with the toys (or for them). And the adults are making a mental battle of wits out of the whole affair as they try to have some fun with the fascinating things without looking rather childish.

You can't blame the oldsters for being inquisitive. Today's toy department is a magnificent "Great Society": all the amazing and awesome things America has created are reproduced or embellished for the delightful world of the child.

Let's go back to guns for instance: There's a Defender Dan machine gun that looks like something from army surplus. It fires and ejects bullets; the barrel even recoils.

You can also get blow guns, time bombs, a Gung Ho commando kit, magnetic darts, pineapple grenades, tommy guns, machete knives, walkie talkies and Secret Sam, "the most amazing secret weapon ever!" (The U.S. government is carefully guarding this toy to make sure it doesn't get into enemy hands)

Of course if you're one who doesn't go in for conflict, and don't care to be the first person on your block to have the power to destroy your neighbor's pet rooster, you can look into some other exciting gifts:

—Coney Island (in miniature, naturally).

—Your own football team for only $5.77.

—Flashy Flickers.

—The Muscles Tyrone Action Bank.

—Rock 'Em and Sock 'Em Robots featuring the Blue Bomber.

—Boob Tube race game.

—Pretzel Jetzel, a jet age pretzel factory.

—Tiger Electric guitar (not as powerful as the Beatles', but it'sll raise your roof.)

—Uncle Fester's Mystery Light Bulb (whatever that is.)

—Lie and Spy Detectors.

—A model guillotine with man and his detachable head

—A Gigantic Frankenstein or Mummy or Creature or Witch or Bride of Frankenstein or Hunchback of Notre Dame or Godzilla or Wolf Man or Dracula . . .

—A frost-free refrigerator, beauty parlor (not forstfree), grand piano (12" long), or genuine movie star type jeweled bed.

—Magilla Gorilla, Peter Potamus, and Horrible Hamilton ("It crawls, it bites!")

—Naturally there's some electric trains. But racing cars are now cool. And you might like the four-speed. "climbs like a tank" Fat Cat, or Firebird 99, Sting Ray, Johnny Express tractor trailer, or possibly the V-Rrroom Power Wrecker. Also, there's nothing like a four-banger dragster.

Sounds pretty awesome. doesn't it?

BONN, VIET NAM POLICY BLASTED

. . . End Of 'Bandit War' Wanted

Moscow (AP)—Demonstrations against the U.S. role in Viet Nam broke out Wednesday in Moscow as the Soviet posture toward Washington took on a look of granite hardness.

The demonstrations came against the background of Premier Alexei Kosygin's contention that U.S. policies forced the U.S.S.R. to increase its military budget "against our own wishes."

Since the news of Kosygin's interview saying this had yet to be published inside the Soviet Union, the demonstrations seemed part of an effort on every level to publicize the Soviet attitude on Viet Nam (See story on Page 2.)

All Over Russia

(Similar demonstrations, in fact, have taken place in many areas of the Soviet Union over the past week. There seemed a suggestion in this that if Soviet consumer spending in the newly announced 1966 budget should suffer because of increased military appropriations, the demonstrations would emphasize that blame should be directed toward the United States.)

While the premier attacked U.S. prosecution of the Viet Nam conflict, he indicated his main concern was Europe and U.S. policy toward West Germany. In this context, he mentioned the decision to increase the Soviet military budget by five per cent.

Kosygin ranked Viet Nam with Germany as a primary source of aggravation of Soviet-U.S. relations. He maintained that a meeting of himself and President Johnson would "not be feasible" so long as the Viet Nam war continued.

He made these remarks in an interview with James Reston of the New York Times.

U.S. Doing It

"It is the United States which is setting the military tone and whipping up military psychosis," Koysgin said. "It is of your doing, this generation of tensions of the world."

(In Washington, a State Department press officer deplored what he called "the extreme distortion" represented in Kosygin's views, saying that much of the criticism of U.S. Viet Nam policy and U.S. efforts to create a NATO nuclear force was essentially a repetition of "critical statements about the United States which have been broadly spread by the Soviet press and radio for some time.")

Wednesday, shortly after publication of the Monday interview, the U.S.S.R. issued a new statement condemning U.S. actions in Viet Nam.

It ignored British appeals for a new Geneva peace conference on Viet Nam and called on the 14 members of the 1954 Geneva conference, which partitioned Viet Nam, to condemn the Americans and demand an end to the "bandit war against the Vietnamese people."

Britain and the U.S.S.R. are co-chairmen of that 1954 conference. The British have tried to persuade the Russians to arrange a new Geneva meeting.

Hits It Hard

In the interview Kosygin hit hard at the German question, reflecting bitter Soviet objection to any thought of West German participation in Atlantic Alliance nuclear forces. He said:

"In Europe, for example, the United States is trying to build up tensions, create an atmosphere conducive to war. You want to create the multilateral force, the Atlantic nuclear force . . . But these only result in uniting the forces of one camp. Any unification of forces in that camp must be directed against us. It compels us to muster our own forces and react to what you do.

"We are against this concept, but it is very strong in the United States and we have to take it into account in thinking 10 or 15 years ahead. The fact is that the United States is increasing its military budget every year. We want to reduce our military budget, but can't because of the U.S. police . . . We will announce an increase in our military budget, an increase of five per cent. This we are doing against our own wishes because of the U. S. policies."

The United States, said Kosygin, is the "principal barrier" to efforts aimed at reducing tensions around the world.

"We could have the best possible relations with the American people," he added. "We value the American people's wisdom, talents and abilities—all their achievements. We are ready to learn from them and develop technology and science and to organize production."

This sort of statement from a Soviet official is rare; it was not immediately published in the U.S.S.R.

McNamara Details Air Shift, Hints TFX To Be A Bomber

Washington (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara spelled out plans Wednesday for overhauling the nation's airpower — confirming that the long-range bomber force will be shrunk by about two thirds and more reliance shifted to missiles.

But while saying outmoded B52s and B58s will be shelved over the next half dozen years, he hinted that the controversial TFX, being developed as a fighter, will be adapted as an advanced bomber.

McNamara also told of plans to cut down the continental air defense system and to eliminate the Navy's extension of the early warning system And he said military airlift capability will be improved by 29%

This dramatic overhaul of the nation's air might was linked to a "reduced Soviet bomber threat" and to "basic force levels and weapons systems changes."

Troop Drops Outmoded

The actions will be other steps in the drastically changing pattern of America's armed forces. The most recent major shift was transformation of the 1st Cavalry Division into an airmobile unit geared to rush into action in swarms of helicopters. Gradually the helicopter has made paratroop assaults almost obsolete

McNamara disclosed the new plan in announcing the list of 149 military bases at home and abroad to be closed, reduced or consolidated. Comparatively few of them are major.

He said the base realignment will save $410 million a year, free 93,691 acres of land, and reduce personnel by 53,010 "without decreasing military effectiveness or limiting our current and future activities in Southeast Asia." The realignment of the bomber force and closing of their bases will save $127.5 million a year, he said.

Keeping N-Ability

McNamara, telling of the cutback of the long-range bomber force, said

"The basic bomber force and the base structure of the Strategic Air Command will be adjusted while maintaining the required strategic nuclear capability. This will be accomplished by phasing out of the inventory all the older models of the B52 bombers and all B58 bombers."

While McNamara did not mention numbers of bombers, a study of the shift in air bases showed that the present force of long-range bombers —600 B52s and all 80 supersonic B58s — will be reduced by 1971 to 255 later models of the eight-jet B52s.

The hint of a new bomber came from McNamara's statement listing the changed status of air bases. He added: "Certain other bases from which B52 operations are being removed are being retained for a new mission which will be disclosed subsequently." He gave no details.

But informed sources said, "The full decision on the strategic offensive forces has not been announced . . . We have reason to believe that the one to be finally announced will closely incorporate most of the Air Force's ideas on the subject."

This was interpreted as meaning McNamara is expected to approve adaption of the TFX, now being developed as a fighter, into a bomber version to be called the B111

D. L. TYRRELL

Mayor, Councilmen Shocked By Death

City Council members and Mayor Dean Petersen expressed shock and sorrow Wednesday after hearing of the death of councilman and former mayor D. L. Tyrrell.

"In the death of Del Tyrrell I have lost a wonderful friend, Lincoln has lost an outstanding citizen and the community has lost a great leader," Mayor Petersen said.

Recalling Mr. Tyrrell's long record of public service, the mayor said, "'all of us need to thank God for his willingness to share so unselfishly of his time. his talents and his substance. But most of all he will be remembered for and we should be grateful for his ability to give of himself. This he has done from the last full measure of devotion."

Flags Lowered

Mayor Petersen ordered flags on city buildings to be lowered to half-mast Wednesday afternoon in respect for Mr. Tyrrell.

Councilman Lloyd Hinkley, a longtime friend, said he was grieved by Mr. Tyrrell's death, saying, "Lincoln has lost a fine leader and I have lot a close personal friend.

"Del was everyone's friend and everyone that has known him will feel the loss of his friendship. We all had the highest respect for him. We genuinely felt the warmth of his friendship," Hinkley added.

Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis, who had served for 6½ years with Mr. Tyrrell, expressed shock.

Wonderful Person

"This is quite a loss," said Mrs. Boosalis. "The whole city will miss him We haven't really realized until now how much we depended on him."

Carroll Thompson, elected to the council last May, spoke of Mr. Tyrrell's contributions to municipal government and said, "He exemplifies the type of public servant that has made Lincoln a good city with good government. He was a wonderful person to work with on the council."

Councilmen John Mason and John Comstock termed the death "a real loss, not only to his family, but to the city. He will really be missed."

"His experience was invaluable to the council", Mason said, "We won't be able to replace that loss."

Council members Wednesday would not discuss the selection of a new councilman to finish Mr. Tyrrell's term, which is up in 1967.

The City Charter provides that in case of the death of an incumbent councilman, the council will elect a new member "by an affirmative vote of four members."

This person will serve "until a successor has been duly elected and qualified."

Renowned Researcher Dr. A. L. Smith Sr. Dies

DR. ARTHUR SMITH

Dr Arthur L. Smith Sr, world-renowned researcher in heart disease and a resident of Lincoln since 1916, died Wednesday at the age of 85.

Dr. Smith, a 1912 graduate of the University of Nebraska, was best known for his development of an instrument to photograph the electric currents of the heart after the currents are amplified by an electronic apparatus. The change in the heart before and after exercise is recorded by the device and a diagnosis made.

Dr. Smith was also internationally known for his work in the recording of fetal heart sounds.

He was awarded a fellowship by the Missouri Valley Medical Society in 1954 in recognition of his long years of research in heart diseases.

Dr. Smith was a graduate of Rush Medical College of the University of Chicago. He had done postgraduate work with heart specialists at the Universities of Vienna and Paris. For three years, he was a professor of anatomy at the University of Tennessee and for a number of summers was an instructor in heart diseases at the University of Paris and Lausanne, Switzerland.

Dr. Smith was a member of the Nebraska Medical Society, a fellow of the American Medical Association, American Heart Association, American College of Physicians, and American College of Cardiology, a diplomat of the American Board of Internal Medicine, a member of the World Congress of Cardiology, past chief of staff at St. Elizabeth Hospital, former president of the American Society of Clinical Radiology, and vice president of the American College of Angiology.

In addition, he started a Boy Scout troop and served as its leader from 1928 until 1934. For this, he was honored at a reunion in 1960 by some 60 former troop leaders and their wives.

Dr. Smith is survived by his widow, Helen (Beth); a son, Dr Arthur L Smith Jr with whom he had worked for many years, and a daughter, Mrs. Sharon Cushman of Scottsdale, Ariz.

Gemini 6 Crewmen Rehearse

Space Center, Houston, Tex. (AP)—Yearning for a cup of coffee the Gemini 7 pilots soared on in space Wednesday as their Gemini 6 sister ship on earth sped through crucial pre-launch tests—a make-believe blastoff and a rehearsal of their date in space.

In their fifth day of a world record 14-days in space, Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Boran and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr. listened hopefully as the Gemini 6 crew finished early tests, leaving the spacecraft.

The wives of the Gemini 7 astronauts went to mission control center and watched and listened as their husbands flew over the United States on their 61st orbit.

Distinguished

"Say something nice," mission control said. "We've got a couple of distinguished visitors here," meaning the wives.

The wives broke up laughing when Lovell replied from space: "Bah. Humbug."

"For your information, the Gemini 6 sim (dress rehearsal) flight is on," said mission control.

Flight director Christopher C. Kraft told the Gemini 7 astronauts that a decision would be made Thursday when to have them enlarge their orbit to a circle, and when to launch Gemini 6 in pursuit.

Borman sneezed while talking to one of the tracking ships during the 64th orbit, then politely added: "Excuse me." He apparently sneezed more than once, and doctors kept a close eye on his medical data for any signs of an oncoming cold.

"I think you have a spade first — the first sneeze in space," mision control said.

Three Persons Die In Crash

Three persons were killed and another injured in a head-on collision of two autos four miles east of Pawnee City on Neb. 50 Wednesday afternoon.

The State Safety Patrol in Lincoln identified the dead as:

Benedict Rottinghaus, 60, of Seneca, Kan.

His wife, Marcella, 53.

John Wissler, 83, of Pawnee City.

The Patrol said Mr. Rottinghaus was driving his car east and Mr. Wissler was westbound and apparently making a left turn when the crash occured.

Gemini 6 Crewmen Rehearse

Space Center, Houston, Tex. (AP)—Yearning for a cup of coffee the Gemini 7 pilots soared on in space Wednesday as their Gemini 6 sister ship on earth sped through crucial pre-launch tests—a make-believe blastoff and a rehearsal of their date in space.

In their fifth day of a world record 14-days in space, Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Boran and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr. listened hopefully as the Gemini 6 crew finished early tests, leaving the spacecraft.

The wives of the Gemini 7 astronauts went to mission control center and watched and listened as their husbands flew over the United States on their 61st orbit.

Distinguished

"Say something nice," mission control said. "We've got a couple of distinguished visitors here," meaning the wives.

The wives broke up laughing when Lovell replied from space: "Bah. Humbug."

"For your information, the Gemini 6 sim (dress rehearsal) flight is on," said mission control.

Flight director Christopher C. Kraft told the Gemini 7 astronauts that a decision would be made Thursday when to have them enlarge their orbit to a circle, and when to launch Gemini 6 in pursuit.

Borman sneezed while talking to one of the tracking ships during the 64th orbit, then politely added: "Excuse me." He apparently sneezed more than once, and doctors kept a close eye on his medical data for any signs of an oncoming cold.

"I think you have a space first — the first sneeze in space," mision control said.

Three Persons Die In Crash

Three persons were killed and another injured in a head-on collision of two autos four miles east of Pawnee City on Neb. 50 Wednesday afternoon.

The State Safety Patrol in Lincoln identified the dead as:

Benedict Rottinghaus, 60, of Seneca, Kan.

His wife, Marcella, 53.

John Wissler, 83, of Pawnee City.

The Patrol said Mr. Rottinghaus was driving his car east and Mr. Wissler was westbound and apparently making a left turn when the crash occured.

Security Aide Bundy Resigns

Austin, Tex. (AP)—McGeorge Bundy, last of President John F. Kennedy's key advisers still in the White House, is leaving to become president of the Ford Foundation.

Bundy's resignation and President Johnson's acceptance of it "with genuine regret" were announced at the White House press center here Wednesday. Bundy has been presidential assistant for national security affairs since the beginning of the Kennedy administration.

Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers left the future status of Bundy's office in doubt.

Moyers' words indicated the position might be further downgraded in importance. He stressed that Johnson feels

McGEORGE BUNDY

Not The Same

Under Johnson, Bundy never filled quite the same role that he performed for Kennedy.

Under Kennedy, Bundy was at the core of policy decisions. Because there was some belief that he was outranking Secretary of State Dean Rusk in such matters, Bundy felt called upon to deny that he was running "a little State Department" in the White House.

Moyers said Johnson will have increasing direct contacts with Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and persons serving under them on security matters.

"The President has until the first of March to decide what he will do about Mr. Bundy's office," Moyers commented.

There is some speculation that Bundy's deputy, Robert Komer will be called on to fill the position.

To Be Available

Bundy will remain on his White House job until Feb. 28 and he wrote Johnson that trustees of the Ford Foundation agreed to his request "that I shall always be free to accept any special assignment from you."

Moyers commented that Johnson was anxious to know that Bundy's services would be available when needed.

As president of the Ford Foundation he will receive about $75,000 a year. His present salary is $28,500.

Heald Retiring

The present Ford Foundation president, Henry T. Heald is retiring. There has been wide speculation that Bundy would succeed him.

Bundy wrote Johnson that "I leave with great regret, but the trustees of the Ford Foundation have offered me another opportunity which it is not in my heart to reject, and I believe that after five years here it is right for me to move on."

Replying in a handwritten note dated Wednesday, Johnson said Bundy's service "has represented the highest order of public service. . . The personal esteem which you earned from President Kennedy is matched by my own. You take away with you the confidence and admiration of all my colleagues in the administration who have been your associates in these momentous years."

Russians Demonstrate Against U.S. 'Aggression'

Moscow (UPI) — An estimated quarter-million Russians demonstrated throughout Moscow Wednesday to denounce American "aggression" in Viet Nam.

Western newsmen saw tens of thousands of demonstrators at several rallies throughout the city. By early evening, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported the number had reached 250,000.

The demonstrations were organized in advance and reflected increasing nationwide sentiment against the United States.

Police apparently banned any demonstration outside the U.S. embassy itself and both uniformed officers and plainclothesmen were stationed in front of the embassy building.

A score of placard-bearing demonstrators showed up at the embassy, nevertheless, and others brought petitions attacking the United States. U.S. officials at the embassy said the petitions could not be accepted since the embassy was closed as is the custom on Wednesday afternoons.

A half dozen youths marched to the embassy from a demonstration of more than 2,000 persons in Kropotkin Square.

Soviet police and security agents waiting on the street ordered them to lay down their posters — "hands off Viet Nam"—and leave.

Another group of about 25 Russians pulled up to the embassy in taxis to deliver the petitions.

The large demonstrations came in parks, stadiums and squares throughout the Soviet capital.

Demonstrations outside the embassy were apparently banned to forestall any recurrence of the rock-throwing melee that resulted from a similar protest over Viet Nam by students last March. U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kolher protested then and Soviet authorities indicated such incidents would not be repeated.

There were reports during the day that a mass demonstration had been planned at the embassy.

Apparently the organizers of the demonstration changed their plans in mid-march and were deflected toward the huge square, which fronts the nearby Kiev Railway Station. There, a group of about 2,000 held a rally and heard speakers denounce U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

De Gaulle To Be In Runoff—'Naturally'

Paris (AP) — Charles de Gaulle formally announced his candidacy for the Dec. 19 runoff presidential election and aides said he won't scrimp on campaigning this time.

After two days of reflection, De Gaulle told his cabinet that he "naturally" was remaining in the race for another seven-year term. Officials said he would use most of the campaign time allowed him on the state-owned radio and television networks.

He used the networks only sparingly in his campaign for the first round of voting that took place Sunday.

De Gaulle will face Francois Mitterrand, 49, the sharp-tongued leftist backed by the Communists, Socialists, part of the Radical-Socialist Party and his own small non-communist group. Mitterrand was runnerup in Sunday's test with 31.71% of the popular vote.

De Gaulle led the field in the first round with 44.63%, far short of the "massive" endorsement he expected. A total of 50% plus one was required for election on the first ballot. Only the top two contenders can enter the runoff.

The president's decision to stay in the race was announced to a news conference by Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte.

Jean Lecanuet, a man with potential influence on the runoff outcome, announced he would remain silent until Thursday. A center-left candidate, Lecanuet finished third Sunday with 15.57% of the vote.

Lecanuet, blamed by the Gaullists for depriving the president of a first ballot victory, met with his own aides and later announced that his followers had agreed on a position in the runoff and other matters.

French Minister Seeks Full Ties With Europeans

Rome (AP)—Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France conferred with Italian officials Wednesday at a meeting designed to bring France back to full participation in the European Community.

Italian Treasury Minister Emilio Colombo, serving as president of the European Community Council of Ministers, spoke with Couve de Murville for 50 minutes. The two ministers called in their experts for a discussion of European policies. That meeting lasted 30 minutes.

An Italian government spokesman called the meeting "particularly cordial." But there was no immediate announcement of what had transpired.

City Councilman D. L. Tyrrell Dies

D. L. (Del) Tyrrell, city councilman and former Lincoln mayor, died Wednesday of an apparent heart attack after a prolonged illness. He was 70.

Mr. Tyrrell was stricken at his floral shop at 1133 No. Cotner about noon. He was taken by a Fire Department resuscitator squad to a hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

A lifetime Lincoln resident, Mr. Tyrrell was appointed to the City Council in 1957, elected in his own right in 1959 and re-elected to a four-year term in 1963.

He served for five months as interim mayor in 1963, filling the unexpired term of Bartlett E. (Pat) Boyles, who was appointed to the District Court bench.

A member of the Grace Lutheran Church, Mr. Tyrrell served on the board of trustees for Midland College in Fremont from 1959 to 1962. He was a past president of the Northeast Lincoln Rotary Club, a director of Goodwill Industries and a member of the Bethany Businessmen's Club.

Mr. Tyrrell graduated from Lincoln grade and high schools and the Lincoln Business College.

He served as president of the League of Municipalities in 1964, as a member of the Park and Recreation Advisory Board and also the Mayor's Committee for the Employment of the Handicapped.

He is survived by his widow, Marie; two sons, Clement L. and Chandler A.; a sister, Mrs. Dalton Miller of Lincoln; four grandchildren and and three great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at 3 p.m. Friday at the Grace Lutheran Church. Burial will be at Wyuka Cemetery.

McDonald's Resignation In Shakeup

San Francisco (AP)—Former United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald resigned Wednesday from the executive council of the AFL-CIO, the first step in an expected major shakeup in the top policy-making body of the giant labor federation.

McDonald, defeated several months ago by former Steelworkers Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel, submitted his resignation in a letter to the executive council. It met here on the eve of the federation's biennial convention.

Four other former union presidents still on the 29 man council also did not show up for the meeting.

"I think these people who didn't come are making informal resignations," said a spokesman for AFL-CIO President George Meany.

They included James B. Carey, ousted by Paul Jennings as president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, following a vote-stealing scandal unearthed by the Labor Department earlier this year.

The other former union presidents who did not appear and are expected to quit the council are C.A. Knight of the Oil and Chemical Workers Union, William L. McFetridge of the Building Service Employes Union and William C. Birthright of the Barbers Union.

There are four other former union presidents still on the council. They were reported earlier to be slated to be eased into retirement from the council.

Pontiff Ends Council With 'Go In Peace'

Vatican City (AP)— Pope Paul VI, a windblown figure in white against the dark gray stone of St. Peter's Basilica, Wednesday brought Roman Catholicism's greatest general council to an end with three simple words: "Ite in pace" —Go in peace.

The Roman Catholic pontiff spoke with upraised arms as he faced the 2,400 bishops, assembled for the last time in council.

With this the Vatican Ecumenical Council passed into history. But it left Roman Catholicism with a blueprint for modernization bound to occupy the church for decades, even centuries, to come.

Church, World

In his final speech at a ceremonial closing in St. Peter's Square, the Pope said he hoped the council's work would renew not only the church but all the world.

He published a papal brief officially closing the 21st council in the 2,000 years of Roman Catholicism. In it the Pope described the council as the greatest ever held, whether in size, in subjects treated or in the needs it met.

He declared the council's decisions binding on all Catholics and invalid anything undertaken by anyone against those decisions whether knowingly or in ignorance.

In Sunlit White

Progressive and conservative prelates alike — those who had argued for a truly up-to-date Catholicism and those who had urged sticking to the traditional ways — streamed across the sunlit square in white vestments as the service started.

Princes and premiers, dukes and duchesses, were among special delegations sent by almost 100 nations to witness the splendor of the council's final moments.

Places of honor also went to the 99 Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox observers who sat in the council through its months of work. The entire body of bishops, too, filled tribunes built on the broad elevated expanse atop the basilica steps.

Pope John XXIII conceived the idea of calling the council in January, 1959, to bring an updating into the church and the minds of its 500 million members. He lived long enough to see its opening phase in 1962. Pope Paul took up the task and saw it through.

Ayub, Shastri See Kosygin On January 4

Moscow (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri and Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan will meet with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin Jan. 4 in an attempt to solve the Indo-Pakistani conflict, it was announced here Wednesday.

The two Asian leaders will confer in Tashkent, Uzbekistan, one of the Soviet Union's Central Asian republics.

Kosygin will take part in the meeting "when necessary in conformity with the wishes of both sides," the Soviet news agency Tass said.

The Soviet government asked Shastri and Ayub to meet on Soviet soil in an attempt to facilitate a peaceful settlement of the conflict over Kashmir.

Mixed Force Defense Urged By Gen. Power

. . . Advocates Replacing Phased Out Bombers

Palm Springs, Calif. (AP) — Gen. Thomas S. Power, retired chief of the Strategic Air Command, said Wednesday it would in his opinion "be a great mistake" to phase out bombers with out replacing them.

Gen. Power

"I do not think we should place our entire deterrent posture on a single weapon such as ballistic missiles, but rather we should have a mixed force which gives us the flexibility to handle any type of attack upon this country," he said.

Gen. Pawer's comment followed the announcement by the Secretary of Defense that there would be sharp reductions in the numbers of B52 bombers maintained in the future.

"Our strategic mission has been one of deterrence — the prevention of general nuclear war through the maintenance of a posture of overwhelming military superiority, and I underscore the word overwhelming," Gen. Power said.

'Military Superiority'

"The reason we haven't had a nuclear war is quite simple, in my opinion," he said, "it is just this: We have not been as strong or a little bit stronger than the Sino-Soviet bloc. The truth of the matter is that we have had overwhelming military superiority to the point where if any knowledgeable nation seriously consdered engaging in a nuclear exchange with the United States, if they were really knowledgeable, they would have to reject it because they would know they would be destroyed both literally and figuratively as a viable nation. This has prevented a nuclear war and anything we do to weaken this posture would be a great mistake."

Stepped-Up Emphasis On Programs Sought

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The 1964-65 annual report of the City-County Planning Commission made public Wednesday called for renewed emphasis on planning programs now under way with the hope that "a significant part of them will be completed."

Compiled by Commission Chairman E. J. Faulkner and addressed to the City Council and the Lancaster County Board of Commissioners, the report outlined the commission's program for 1965-66, asking for:

—Completion of the origin and destination study.

—Extension of the Southeast Radial.

Closing 'Important'

—Extension of the Northeast Radial and the bypass around the University of Nebraska campus. "It is important that the University's program of closing 14th, 16th and 17th Streets through the campus be expedited," the report said.

Adoption of the proposed system of distributor streets to the downtown area as outlined in the comprehensive plan and the Barton-Aschman report.

—Opening of 33rd through Antelope Park.

—Continued development of 15th between the Capitol and the University as an important civic center.

Faulkner said the commission recognizes that many of the programs urged "depend solely on the availability of funds."

As for achievements during the past year, the report noted that an airport zoning ordinance was recommended to and adopted by the council and that the commission had completed its work on a revised county zoning resolution.

Fewer Subdivisions

The report also noted that subdivision activity in Lincoln and Lancaster County was at a "markedly lower level during the twelve-month period, Aug. 1, 1964, to July 31, 1965, than during the prior commission year.

Nineteen subdivisions were given final approval, incorporating 811 lots, as compared to 27 subdivisions approved, incorporating 1,485 lots in 1963-64, it said, adding that routine subdivision permits issued in the last 12 months totaled 114, compared to 141 noted in the prior report.

Dempster's Offer Meets Stone Wall

Lincoln Star Special

Beatrice — Efforts to reach agreement on a new contract at the Dempster Mill Manufacturing Company at Beatrice suffered a major setback Wednesday night when members of Local 46 of the International Association of Machinists turned thumbs down on the latest company offer.

Rejection of the proposal came on a three to one vote. Money was reported not one of the main causes of the rejection.

No Comment

Company president Warner McCarthy had no comment on what steps the company would take next. A week ago he had placed a seven-day deadline on efforts to reach agreement on a new contract. He said Wednesday night that the company would announce their plans after noon Thursday.

International representative George Vogel is slated to present the company with a list of the areas of disagreement prior to noon. Vogel said that he informed McCarthy Wednesday night of the rejection and asked him to hold off any decision until he could furnish him with the list.

Vogel said the differences included a disagreement over the effective date of the contract. The company had dated the proposal effective Wednesday. The union wants it dated back to Dec. 1, retroactive to the date the previous contract expired.

Vogel also said that there was a disagreement concerning four firemen and operating engineers who were written out of the bargaining unit. He declared the union didn't want to exclude the men without their permission.

Vogel indicated there were other differences, but he said he didn't feel they were insurmountable.

Hohnbaum Going To Norfolk Job

Norfolk (UPI) — Mayor Edward Vrzal announced that Dean Hohnbaum of Lexington has been appointed the new city administrator here to succeed Craig Stuve.

Hohnbaum is manager of the Lexington Chamber of Commerce and a former manager of the York Chamber of Commerce. He will assume his new duties Feb. 1.

Konvalin Enters Innocent Plea To Robbery Charge

Omaha (AP) — Alvin George Konvalin pleaded innocent Wednesday to a robbery charge filed in connection with the Monday holdup of the Lamplighter Inn at the southwest edge of Omaha.

He was bound over to District Court under $70,000 bond by municipal Judge Eugene Leahy.

Konvalin, 45-year-old ex-convict with a record of scrapes with the law dating back more than 25 years, was arrested in the Lincoln area Monday night after a chase involving 14 law enforcement officers' cars. He had eluded pursuers in the Omaha area earlier.

The motel was robbed of about $350 about 4:30 a.m. Monday by a man wearing a silk stocking mask and armed with a shotgun.

Konvalin was released from the Nebraska Penitentiary in 1961 after serving a five-year term on burglary and habitual criminal charges. He has been living in Lincoln.

Leadership On Roads Up To Governor

. . . Omahans Told

Omaha (AP)—State Sen. Terry Carpenter describes Omaha's highway problems as critical and suggested a contact with the top man, Gov. Frank Morrison.

The Scottsbluff senator told a South Omaha gathering that applications sent to the State Highway Engineer John Hossack "are merely going through the motions." The engineer, he said, is subject to the governor.

Carpenter said highway leadership is up to the governor.

Repeats Tax Opposition

The senator reiterated his opposition to the state income tax law, describing it as "move by the relatively few to shift the tax burden from themselves to others."

He charged that a lot of information presented by income tax proponents was passed off as facts when it was nothing but "theories and opinions."

Taxpayers, he continued, have no assurance what their tax bill will be and little assurance their returns will be protected from what he called "bureaucratic snoops."

Carpenter said no Democrats will file for governor until Morrison "files for the Senate," something many observers have said Morrison might do. He said he'd like to see Lt. Gov. Phil Sorensen, a pro-income tax man file for governor," adding "I think he will."

Committees Will Urge Withholding Knotwell Claim

Norfolk (AP) — Councilman Jack Dahlgren told the Norfolk City Council the police and finance committees have decided to recommend that the city withhold payment of $813.62 claimed by former Police Chief Otis Knotwell. The council agreed.

Attorney Vincent Kirby appeared before the council Nov. 1 and asked that Knotwell's claim for salary and vacation pay be honored. The claim was filed June 7 following Knotwell's resignation, after he was suspended for the month of May by Mayor Ed Vrzal.

Knotwell faces trial in Madison County District Court on four counts of public embezzlement resulting from investigation of shortages in police funds. He has pleaded innocent to the charges.

Police, Soldiers Become Bakers In Greek Strike

Athens (AP) — Police and soldiers turned bakers Wednesday to avert a shortage of bread as 4,000 of the country's 20,000 bakers started a five-day strike for higher wages and better working conditions.

A commerce ministry spokesman said police and soldiers manned 876 of 888 bakeries in the Athens and Piraeus areas.

Although the bread was not up to perfection, one housewife said: "I was amazed by the tasty bread these policemen and soldiers turned out today." Another commented: "It's poorly baked."

The union of bakers contended the strike was a success.

California Youth First Enrollee In Pine Ridge Center

Chadron (UPI)—The newly-opened Pine Ridge Job Corps Center received its first enrollee Tuesday night with the arrival by plane of 16-year-old David Prior of Torrance, Calif.

The corps center officially opened Monday.

Center officials said up to 25 enrollees were expected by nightfall. At full strength, the camp will hold up to 100 youths.

There are approximately 30 staff members.

The youths will primarily do conservation work under the direction of the U.S. Forestry Service. Each will be at the camp from six months to one year.

A second group of youngsters is expected in January.

. . . Advocates Replacing Phased Out Bombers

Palm Springs, Calif. (AP) — Gen. Thomas S. Power, retired chief of the Strategic Air Command, said Wednesday it would in his opinion "be a great mistake" to phase out bombers with out replacing them.

Gen. Power

"I do not think we should place our entire deterrent posture on a single weapon such as ballistic missiles, but rather we should have a mixed force which gives us the flexibility to handle any type of attack upon this country," he said.

Gen. Pawer's comment followed the announcement by the Secretary of Defense that there would be sharp reductions in the numbers of B52 bombers maintained in the future.

"Our strategic mission has been one of deterrence — the prevention of general nuclear war through the maintenance of a posture of overwhelming military superiority, and I underscore the word overwhelming," Gen. Power said.

'Military Superiority'

"The reason we haven't had a nuclear war is quite simple, in my opinion," he said, "it is just this: We have not been as strong or a little bit stronger than the Sino-Soviet bloc. The truth of the matter is that we have had overwhelming military superiority to the point where if any knowledgeable nation seriously consdered engaging in a nuclear exchange with the United States, if they were really knowledgeable, they would have to reject it because they would know they would be destroyed both literally and figuratively as a viable nation. This has prevented a nuclear war and any thing we do to weaken this posture would be a great mistake."

Stepped-Up Emphasis On Programs Sought

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The 1964-65 annual report of the City-County Planning Commission made public Wednesday called for renewed emphasis on planning programs now under way with the hope that "a significant part of them will be completed."

Compiled by Commission Chairman E. J. Faulkner and addressed to the City Council and the Lancaster County Board of Commissioners, the report outlined the commission's program for 1965-66, asking for:

—Completion of the origin and destination study.

—Extension of the Southeast Radial.

Closing 'Important'

—Extension of the Northeast Radial and the bypass around the University of Nebraska campus. "It is important that the University's program of closing 14th, 16th and 17th Streets through the campus be expedited," the report said.

Adoption of the proposed system of distributor streets to the downtown area as outlined in the comprehensive plan and the Barton-Aschman report.

—Opening of 33rd through Antelope Park.

—Continued development of 15th between the Capitol and the University as an important civic center.

Faulkner said the commission recognizes that many of the programs urged "depend solely on the availability of funds."

As for achievements during the past year, the report noted that an airport zoning ordinance was recommended to and adopted by the council and that the commission had completed its work on a revised county zoning resolution.

Fewer Subdivisions

The report also noted that subdivision activity in Lincoln and Lancaster County was at a "markedly lower level during the twelve-month period, Aug. 1, 1964, to July 31, 1965, than during the prior commission year.

Nineteen subdivisions were given final approval, incorporating 811 lots, as compared to 27 subdivisions approved, incorporating 1,485 lots in 1963-64, it said, adding that routine subdivision permits issued in the last 12 months totaled 114, compared to 141 noted in the prior report.

Winds Of Change

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Airplanes once were hitting up to 200 miles an hour and people thought it was really something. Then, along came the B47, flying at speeds up to 600 miles an hour and they were the sleekest things in the skies. It was a little more than 10 years ago that the first of these stratojets streaked across the skies of Lincoln and people were pretty much awe-struck.

Now the last B47 has left the deactivated Lincoln Air Force Base because, among other things, its 600 miles an hour is pretty passe. This very day, we have men hurtling through space at a fantastic speed of 17,500 miles an hour. It would seem that such a speed is surely the ultimate but we wouldn't bet a dime on it. In between, we have other more conventionally manned aircraft such as the long-range B52 and B58 bombers. We have other more advanced jets on the drawing boards and all of them seem destined for a secondary place, at best, in the defense of the nation.

Higher And Faster

But, you might caution, the men in space, even at 17,500 miles an hour, are not a military capability. Space is not being explored for military purposes but rather, for the cause of science and for the ultimate exploration of other planets in the universe. Those are nice peaceful thoughts but hardly worth the effort it takes to express them.

If nothing else, the tremendous power we have developed in our space programs, up to 60 million horsepower by some nations, has clearly demonstrated the military potential of space. We have sufficient rocket power to lift tons of things into orbit around the world—things, for instance, such as manned nuclear space stations.

We do not need to have refinement of that idea, however, to see the substitute being proposed for such things as the manned bomber. The United States currently has some 1,400 missiles that could rain destruction upon the world in a matter of minutes. The closing of the Lincoln Air Force Base and this week's departure of the last B47 should serve to impress upon the people of Lincoln and Nebraska the magnitude of the changes that are taking place in the world. Scientists and engineers exist today in number far in excess of those of any previous time in history. The demand for knowledge has become so extensive that the uneducated person has hardly a chance in the world. To guard against such a lack of education is, indeed, one of the most serious problems that faces society today.

All of this, of course, does not spell infallibility on the part of defense administrators who want to place nearly total reliance upon the more advanced hardware of our day. To abandon manned aircraft as a military weapon is a concept that is most difficult to accept. The manned bomber and fighter are things we have come to live with in the military world and seem as fundamental to us as the soldier with a gun in his hand. But what about that soldier with a gun in his hand? He is no longer the fundamental part of the nation's defense. He is fighting and dying today in Viet Nam but not in the kind of war we came to know through the two world holocausts of this century.

In Viet Nam the foot soldier is engaged in a political battle as well as a military one. It has been said that we could end the war in Viet Nam in a day, and that we could. We could end it in a couple of hours if we wanted to engage in nuclear warfare. We could end it in a relatively short period of time even without nuclear warfare.

But what we seek in Viet Nam is the freedom of South Viet Nam and failure for the aggressive tactics of the communists from the north. To do this has been judged to demand more than a plain military victory. We must win in a moral sense and the victory must be one of the people of South Viet Nam as well as the armed might of the United States.

The kind of war we are fighting in Viet Nam we can fight in any part of the world without the kind of advanced human hardware represented by the maned bomber and used to the extent that was prevalent in World War II. It seems that we have predicated our defense on the theory that we will not engage in warfare with a power beyond our capacity to subdue with conventional means of war. If we do engage an enemy beyond our conventional capacity, it would seem that we have committed ourselves to nuclear war. The theory may seem foreboding but it is difficult to imagine us in a conventional land, sea and air war with Russia, for instance.

Not Beyond Capacity

These are some of the things we contemplate at this time of closing up shop for the Lincoln Air Force Base. Beyond this, we consider the fact that Lincoln has been most fortunate in having the men and women of the Strategic Air Command with it for the past 11 years and is genuinely sorry to see them leaving. They have been a tremendous asset to Lincoln and wherever they go and whatever they do, the same thing will be discovered of them again.

McNamara Closest To The President

WASHINGTON — President Johnson was presiding over a cabinet meeting last summer. He asked Tony Celebrezze, then secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, to discuss medical care for the elderly.

Celebrezze talked ernestly for about 10 minutes. He was thorough but verbose. After he finished the President turned to his secretary of defense.

"What do you think about it, Bob?" he asked.

Secretary McNamara, who is not supposed to understand civilian problems, then summarized the problem of Medicare in three concise sentences. He covered all that Celebrezze did but did it in about 30 seconds.

This explains why Robert McNamara, a Republican and former president of one of the world's biggest corporations, has become the closest cabinet member to a Democratic President who likes to be known as a country boy from Texas. It also explains why McNamara is being considered as "assistant President."

Lyndon Johnson consults Bob McNamara on almost everything, ranging from the Northeast power blackout to civil rights, from the question of poverty in the Appalachians to poverty in the big cities. He is competent, forthright, intelligent. I have watched every Secretary of Defense since the job was created, and by all odds, McNamara has been the best.

This, however, does not make him a wise counselor on foreign policy, and here he has pulled some tragic booboos.

Recently McNamara spent one day flying to Saigon, a day and a half in Saigon, and one day flying back, to give President Johnson and the nation his conclusions. It's doubtful whether even a man with McNamara's computer brain can arrive at sound conclusions in so short a time. Nevertheless, he assured the American people, publicly, that "We have stopped losing the war," though previous Pentagon statements had indicated we were winning it.

Privately, McNamara found his military commanders in South Viet Nam so gloomy that they saw the war dragging on for 10, 20, even 30 years. One planning paper anticipated that fighting in Viet Nam would last until the year 2000.

The military commanders reported to McNamara that the Viet Cong had fought with a fury and fanaticism unmatched since the Japanese suicide stands in World War II. Though pounded by bombs and scorched by napalm, the Viet Cong still comes out of the jungle to engage in fierce, primitive, hand-to-hand fighting.

American commanders also told McNamara that despite our intensive bombing of North Vietnamese railroads, bridges and highways, communist strength had increased from 40,000 to 240,000. Furthermore, the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese had more supplies than ever before.

This meant that last February's policy of bombing North Viet Nam had been a complete failure. The policy was recommended by McNamara and the Joint Chiefs of Staff for two reasons:

1. To prevent troops and supplies from coming south.
2. To pound North Viet Nam into a position where they would be willing to talk peace.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Mrs. C., in Texas, sends me a clipping about a year-old child who choked to death on an aspirin tablet. And she is correct in recognizing this as a danger, but she then jumps to some conclusions that don't fit. She writes:

Molner

"Over 1,000 children died in 1964 from taking aspirin tablets, which used to be hard and were easily swallowed. More recently in an advertisement a picture shows how tablets now disintegrate the minute they reached the throat . . ."

I'm afraid Mrs. C. is adding 2 and 2 and getting 22. Just the same, she raises some important points.

Yes, hundreds of children die from aspirin — but not from taking just one tablet. In their innocence, they eat a whole handful or a bottleful. In such relatively huge quantities, aspirin (as well as a lot of other things) become a poison. Statistically, aspirin kills or endangers more small children than any other single poison.

Why? Several reasons. Almost everybody keeps aspirin in the house. Used properly, it is one of the safest medicines known. It doesn't burn like acid, or smell or taste offensive like many common poisons found in the home.

Perhaps some babies think the tablets are candy. Or they have seen adults take aspirin, and what babies see done, they try to do.

But dosage is based on size. One tablet, for a 15-pound baby, is as powerful as 10 tablets for a 150-pound adult. A handful of tablets is the equivalent of 10 handfuls for an adult, a massive and too often a lethal dose.

To save lives of children we have to keep aspirin and every other medicine locked up out of reach. Such things as simple iron compounds for anemia can be deadly, too, but they aren't found in as many households.

As to strangling on a tablet, yes, it can happen, but it isn't because the tablet disintegrates too quickly. The opposite is the case. Any small, solid object, if a child gets it in the windpipe, can be deadly. A baby's windpipe is very tiny. That is why croup, for example, is such a mean ailment for a baby. Only a little swelling of the tissues can shut off a large percentage of the windpipe's cross section, and the baby struggles to get any breath at all. At the age of two or three years the windpipe has grown enough so that the same amount of swelling does not obstruct as large a proportion of the air passageway.

For safety, don't let a small child have anything hard, and of a size that can get into the windpipe. I've warned from time to time against letting the little ones get hold of peanuts, popcorn, or chewing gum. The same goes for anything of similar size, whether candy, peas, beans, buttons, beads. Or pills, including aspirin tablets.

A bit of soft food, or something that dissolves or disintegrates very quickly can be coughed up by the child. Something hard can become so firmly lodged in the windpipe that no air can get past.

If aspirin needs to be given to a baby, the safer way is not in tablet form at all. Crush the tablet (or more usually just part of a tablet) and mix it into a spoonful of milk.

Dear Dr. Molner: My brother-in-law claims an egg is very easily digested if boiled for half an hour. I say 10 minutes is enough. We are oldsters and I say a soft-boiled or poached egg is best for us and easily digested. Are eggs good for a women of 82? And how many a week? — MRS. H.L.V.

The best way to cook an egg is so the white is firm — and I don't mean hard as a rock, or frizzled, unless you prefer it that way. As long as the white is firm, there is no difference in digestibility. So cook yours for 10 minutes and eat it, and let your brother-in-law wait another 20 minutes if he thinks he gains anything by it.

At your age, eat as many eggs as you find agreeable to your taste, whether soft-boiled, hard-boiled, poached, fried, scrambled, coddled, or deviled.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is pink eye and how it is transmitted? Is it a self-limiting infection? What if it is left untreated? —M.B.

Pink eye is an acute and contagious inflammation. It's a form of conjunctivitis, if you'd like a more formal term. The conjunctiva, or lining of the eye, is infected.

Several kinds of germs can be involved: Streptococcus, staphylococcus, influenza virus. It is usually self-limiting, meaning that eventually the patient fights off the germ. However, in untreated cases it may become chronic and linger on and on.

For practical purposes, follow two rules: First, since it is highly contagious, especially among children, keep the patient isolated; second, treatment, particularly if the strep or staph germ is involved, speeds up the recovery greatly.

Note To B.A.R.: Anyone with chronic asthma who smokes is not showing good sense. If he has been smoking for only three years, it shouldn't be hard for him to break the habit. If he continues, he is asking for trouble.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a thickening of the pleura at the bases of both lungs. Will this eventually affect the entire lungs? At times it is painful. — L.M.

This thickening is due to some infection in the past — tuberculosis, pneumonia, pleurisy or whatever. If the infection no longer is active, there will be no further involvement of the lungs.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

In The Name Of Science

Edward J. Kelsey, 16, a senior in a Washington, D.C., high school spent most of his Thanksgiving holiday flipping pennies in the name of scientific research.

He found in 17,950 flips that heads came up 464 times more than tails. This caused him to conclude scientifically that the present American pennies are tail heavy. When he pointed out this flaw to the U.S. mint it answered his letter curtly. It observed that pennies are made to spend, not flip, and it didn't make any difference about the weight of one side or the other.

This crass lack of appreciation for an inquiring young mind was not shared in education circles. Kelsey's high school teachers quickly made him a model for comparison.

Then the Washington Junior Science and Humanities Symposium got even more enthusiastic. It selected Kelsey's paper on imbalanced pennies as the one of six papers submitted for reading before the symposium, and for study.

This leaves us a little cold. All we can see in this exercise is a strong durable thumb and a mind geared to monotony. And we suspect that a good deal of the same is going on today in the name of science in many places. Nothing of consequence was added to the sum total of human knowledge or human understanding.

We don't blame the boy so much because he is young and he was probably better off flipping pennies than practicing some deliquency out of doors, or eating too much of his Thanksgiving turkey.

But we can't say as much for the adult managed symposium which is old enough to recognize a scientific undertaking, but apparently cannot.

Wesleyan's Great Teaching

After eight successful years, what can you say about a program that might be new? In the case of Nebraska Wesleyan's Great Teaching program, you don't have to say much of anything — it speaks for itself.

It has brought to Lincoln and the campus in University Place an improved academic climate. It has substantially raised the level of faculty excellence and thereby created for students a place of learning with many advantages.

It has done this because the purpose of the program is to raise funds with which to improve salary and training levels among the faculty at Wesleyan. In this, its eighth year, the program is pointing toward a goal of $50,000 in contributions from all people and we know the goal will be reached.

It will be reached because people have come to understand and appreciate the fact that education is the key to the future of the world. People know today that the young person who fails to reach the highest academic goals of which he is capable has failed himself and society, and the consequences of any substantial pattern such as that are awesome.

The $50,000 goal will be reached, too, because people have pride and confidence in Wesleyan, a private educational institution whose doors are open to all and one that has an enviable alumni across the nation. Thus, the drive for funds is one with an unquestionable purpose among people whose responsibility is clear. What more can or need be said than that?

Farm Program's Other Side

Out in this crop raising country the U.S. Department of Agriculture with its farm program is believed to be wholly devoted to raising the farmer's income to liveable standards. It is supposed to get prices up.

Quite to the contrary, as viewed by a thoughtful eastern newspaper, which editorialized recently in behalf of the USDA for selling high protein wheat in order to keep prices of private stocks down. But it observed that this service would not reduce the cost of bread and other baked goods. The cost of this mixing wheat was too small to affect the baker's prices. But somehow the action was a famous victory

The editorial noted that the price premium for high protein wheat has risen from 3 to 18 cents a bushel the past year and it was feared that such a rise would become infectious, causing general wheat prices to rise.

Out in this country we can see several flaws in the department's act of mercy. First it didn't reduce the price of bread. The consumer made no gain. Second it operated against the proper interest of the wheat producer who is trying to get a sufficient price for his produce to keep him on his feet.

But it does show the conflict of interest in the agricultural problem, namely the eastern consumers' position and the position of the farmer. The USDA has an obligation to both. But in this instance we cannot see that it helped either side.

Man Sells Viet Cong Flags, Cop Stands By To Protect

WASHINGTON — So there was some character selling Viet Cong flags at 10 bucks a crack in a downtown hotel lobby the other day and there was I wondering how come he was still all in one piece.

How long, do you suppose, would a man selling Rising Sun flags have lasted in a Washington hotel lobby in, say, 1943? About 45 seconds? Perhaps a whole minute before some public-spirited citizen grabbed him and tossed him under the nearest moving truck?

But apparently we are beyond outrage. We have "progressed" to the point where across the street from the White House one can see the swastika, the symbol of the enemy of yesterday, displayed along with the Viet Cong flag, the banner of the enemy of today. The recent peace demonstration was just such a carnival of bad taste.

Yet, as many persons know and others learned on the recent CBS-TV citizenship test, a man is within his constittuional rights to take the enemy's side in an argument, so long as he doesn't urge that the U.S. Government be overthrown by force. I chatted about this briefly with a policeman whose duty it was to protect from physical harm the man selling Viet Cong flags.

The policeman was very careful to tell me that he was only doing his duty. "According to my orders," the policeman said with some embarrassment, "nobody can interfere with this guy's right to demonstrate."

A bystander asked if the policeman would interfere with a citizen's "right" to slam the flag salesman in the mouth. The policeman said, "Now, now, calm down. You know I'd have to arrest you. After you did it, of course."

There was a pregnant silence, while the policeman gazed thoughtfully at the ceiling. However, nobody seemed to want to get arrested for his country that day, so I moved on. Next, I talked to a youngster who was holding a furled Viet Cong flag. He was about to go out and join the march. I asked him if he'd ever heard of Stephen Decatur.

"Who's he?" he said. "A friend of Dr. Spock or Norman Thomas?"

"No. I imagine he would have been in the opposite camp. He was an American hero who said, 'Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong!' "

"Please," he said annoyed. "No old cliches. It's my right not to agree. And my right to be a conscientious objector to Army service, too, if I feel that way."

William Robbins

Holdrege, Neb.

My heart has been saddened since reading of the passing of my former teacher and friend, Mr. William A. Robbins. In 1907-08, he was a teacher in the Lincoln Business College in the Oliver Theater building. I was a lanky youth of six foot three and weighed less than 150 pounds. I was 19 years old, and he was a fine looking young man of about 32. I was retarded in arithmetic. My earlier teachers knew the subject but not how to teach it. Mr. Robbins both knew arithmetic and how to teach it. Under his tutelage, I mastered it.

I have the picture of our large graduating class in 1908. How different Mr. Robbins looked then compared to the fine picture The Star carried. The same would be true of me and the small remnant remaining from 1908.

Mr. Robbins' attitude toward a student was so different from that of other teachers. His was a calm and quiet approach to a problem and its solution.

As I did not become a businessman but a Congregational minister instead, he gave me his encouragement. We had much in common, as we met at church conferences and I called on him at the schools. Surely he will be a perennial inspiration to the many youth who knew him.

The Punishment

Lincoln, Neb.

I was sickened by the outcome of the Duane Pope trial. Sentencing this pathetic young man to death serves no useful purpose, except to satisfy our need for vengeance. If capital punishment has a deterrent value, which I doubt, why did Duane Pope come to Nebraska to rob a bank and kill? Why did he not go to Iowa or Minnesota where there is no capital punishment?

To those who accept the idea that capital punishment has some deterrent value, I ask that they use their influence so that we might have some motion picture and television coverage of the execution, so that we may all see, if they have some deterrent value?

I sympathize with the families of the victims. But the dead cannot be brought back to life, no matter how much vengeance is wreaked. Society needs Duane Pope alive so that it can learn more about what made him kill and thus hopefully prevent someone else from doing the same.

Between now and the execution, all Nebraskans, in particular the Legislature, should reflect on these words of Alan Paton:

"An offender must be punished . . . I don't argue about that. But to punish and not to restore, that is the greatest of all offenses . . . If man takes unto himself God's right to punish, then he must also take upon himself God's promise to restore. . . There's a hard law, that when a deep injury is done to us, we never recover until we forgive."

The Drop-Outs

Hastings, Neb.

An official of the Selective Service system has been credited with saying: "School drop-outs should be drafted for military duty, where they could not drop out." But neither military nor civilian authorities ever thought of suggesting that college and university students in general be drafted for military service.

And yet educators want Americans to understand that college and university students can see through a problem much faster than school drop-outs can see through a problem. Therefore, drafting students in general should be far more reasonable than drafting drop-outs. There would be great rejoicing in the camps in South Viet Nam and in the camps throughout America if students would not wait to be drafted but paraphrased a Spanish-American War song: "We are coming, tell Johnson, five hundred thousand strong, to liberate South Viet Nam and to avenge the wrong, to avenge the wrong!"

It is time for Americans to remember that the American flag stands for self-sacrifice for the good of all. They that have the greatest opportunities and privileges are in a position to make the greatest sacrifice for the general welfare of America.

We must never forget that the school drop-outs are rejects, but in event they are drafted for military service, they may become cornerstones of the Great Society, as the stones the builders reject have a peculiar characteristic of becoming cornerstones.

This very day, we have men hurtling through space at a fantastic speed of 17,500 miles an hour. It would seem that such a speed is surely the ultimate but we wouldn't bet a dime on it. In between, we have other more conventionally manned aircraft such as the long-range B52 and B58 bombers. We have other more advanced jets on the drawing boards and all of them seem destined for a secondary place, at best, in the defense of the nation.

Higher And Faster

But, you might caution, the men in space, even at 17,500 miles an hour, are not a military capability. Space is not being explored for military purposes but rather, for the cause of science and for the ultimate exploration of other planets in the universe. Those are nice peaceful thoughts but hardly worth the effort it takes to express them.

If nothing else, the tremendous power we have developed in our space programs, up to 60 million horsepower by some nations, has clearly demonstrated the military potential of space. We have sufficient rocket power to lift tons of things into orbit around the world—things, for instance, such as manned nuclear space stations.

We do not need to have refinement of that idea, however, to see the substitute being proposed for such things as the manned bomber. The United States currently has some 1,400 missiles that could rain destruction upon the world in a matter of minutes. The closing of the Lincoln Air Force Base and this week's departure of the last B47 should serve to impress upon the people of Lincoln and Nebraska the magnitude of the changes that are taking place in the world. Scientists and engineers exist today in number far in excess of those of any previous time in history. The demand for knowledge has become so extensive that the uneducated person has hardly a chance in the world. To guard against such a lack of education is, indeed, one of the most serious problems that faces society today.

All of this, of course, does not spell infallibility on the part of defense administrators who want to place nearly total reliance upon the more advanced hardware of our day. To abandon manned aircraft as a military weapon is a concept that is most difficult to accept. The manned bomber and fighter are things we have come to live with in the military world and seem as fundamental to us as the soldier with a gun in his hand. But what about that soldier with a gun in his hand? He is no longer the fundamental part of the nation's defense. He is fighting and dying today in Viet Nam but not in the kind of war we came to know through the two world holocausts of this century.

In Viet Nam the foot soldier is engaged in a political battle as well as a military one. It has been said that we could end the war in Viet Nam in a day, and that we could. We could end it in a couple of hours if we wanted to engage in nuclear warfare. We could end it in a relatively short period of time even without nuclear warfare.

But what we seek in Viet Nam is the freedom of South Viet Nam and failure for the aggressive tactics of the communists from the north. To do this has been judged to demand more than a plain military victory. We must win in a moral sense and the victory must be one of the people of South Viet Nam as well as the armed might of the United States.

The kind of war we are fighting in Viet Nam we can fight in any part of the world without the kind of advanced human hardware represented by the maned bomber and used to the extent that was prevalent in World War II. It seems that we have predicated our defense on the theory that we will not engage in warfare with a power beyond our capacity to subdue with conventional means of war. If we do engage an enemy beyond our conventional capacity, it would seem that we have committed ourselves to nuclear war. The theory may seem foreboding but it is difficult to imagine us in a conventional land, sea and air war with Russia, for instance.

Not Beyond Capacity

These are some of the things we contemplate at this time of closing up shop for the Lincoln Air Force Base. Beyond this, we consider the fact that Lincoln has been most fortunate in having the men and women of the Strategic Air Command with it for the past 11 years and is genuinely sorry to see them leaving. They have been a tremendous asset to Lincoln and wherever they go and whatever they do, the same thing will be discovered of them again.

McNamara Closest To The President

WASHINGTON — President Johnson was presiding over a cabinet meeting last summer. He asked Tony Celebrezze, then secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, to discuss medical care for the elderly.

Celebrezze talked ernestly for about 10 minutes. He was thorough but verbose. After he finished the President turned to his secretary of defense.

"What do you think about it, Bob?" he asked.

Secretary McNamara, who is not supposed to understand civilian problems, then summarized the problem of Medicare in three concise sentences. He covered all that Celebrezze did but did it in about 30 seconds.

This explains why Robert McNamara, a Republican and former president of one of the world's biggest corporations, has become the closest cabinet member to a Democratic President who likes to be known as a country boy from Texas. It also explains why McNamara is being considered as "assistant President."

Lyndon Johnson consults Bob McNamara on almost everything, ranging from the Northeast power blackout to civil rights, from the question of poverty in the Appalachians to poverty in the big cities. He is competent, forthright, intelligent. I have watched every Secretary of Defense since the job was created, and by all odds, McNamara has been the best.

This, however, does not make him a wise counselor on foreign policy, and here he has pulled some tragic booboos.

Recently McNamara spent one day flying to Saigon, a day and a half in Saigon, and one day flying back, to give President Johnson and the nation his conclusions. It's doubtful whether even a man with McNamara's computer brain can arrive at sound conclusions in so short a time. Nevertheless, he assured the American people, publicly, that "We have stopped losing the war," though previous Pentagon statements had indicated we were winning it.

Privately, McNamara found his military commanders in South Viet Nam so gloomy that they saw the war dragging on for 10, 20, even 30 years. One planning paper anticipated that fighting in Viet Nam would last until the year 2000.

The military commanders reported to McNamara that the Viet Cong had fought with a fury and fanaticism unmatched since the Japanese suicide stands in World War II. Though pounded by bombs and scorched by napalm, the Viet Cong still comes out of the jungle to engage in fierce, primitive, hand-to-hand fighting.

American commanders also told McNamara that despite our intensive bombing of North Vietnamese railroads, bridges and highways, communist strength had increased from 40,000 to 240,000. Furthermore, the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese had more supplies than ever before.

This meant that last February's policy of bombing North Viet Nam had been a complete failure. The policy was recommended by McNamara and the Joint Chiefs of Staff for two reasons:

1. To prevent troops and supplies from coming south.
2. To pound North Viet Nam into a position where they would be willing to talk peace.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Mrs. C., in Texas, sends me a clipping about a year-old child who choked to death on an aspirin tablet. And she is correct in recognizing this as a danger, but she then jumps to some conclusions that don't fit. She writes:

Molner

"Over 1,000 children died in 1964 from taking aspirin tablets, which used to be hard and were easily swallowed. More recently in an advertisement a picture shows how tablets now disintegrate the minute they reached the throat . . ."

I'm afraid Mrs. C. is adding 2 and 2 and getting 22. Just the same, she raises some important points.

Yes, hundreds of children die from aspirin — but not from taking just one tablet. In their innocence, they eat a whole handful or a bottleful. In such relatively huge quantities, aspirin (as well as a lot of other things) become a poison. Statistically, aspirin kills or endangers more small children than any other single poison.

Why? Several reasons. Almost everybody keeps aspirin in the house. Used properly, it is one of the safest medicines known. It doesn't burn like acid, or smell or taste offensive like many common poisons found in the home.

Perhaps some babies think the tablets are candy. Or they have seen adults take aspirin, and what babies see done, they try to do.

But dosage is based on size. One tablet, for a 15-pound baby, is as powerful as 10 tablets for a 150-pound adult. A handful of tablets is the equivalent of 10 handfuls for an adult, a massive and too often a lethal dose.

To save lives of children we have to keep aspirin and every other medicine locked up out of reach. Such things as simple iron compounds for anemia can be deadly, too, but they aren't found in as many households.

As to strangling on a tablet, yes, it can happen, but it isn't because the tablet disintegrates too quickly. The opposite is the case. Any small, solid object, if a child gets it in the windpipe, can be deadly. A baby's windpipe is very tiny. That is why croup, for example, is such a mean ailment for a baby. Only a little swelling of the tissues can shut off a large percentage of the windpipe's cross section, and the baby struggles to get any breath at all. At the age of two or three years the windpipe has grown enough so that the same amount of swelling does not obstruct as large a proportion of the air passageway.

For safety, don't let a small child have anything hard, and of a size that can get into the windpipe. I've warned from time to time against letting the little ones get hold of peanuts, popcorn, or chewing gum. The same goes for anything of similar size, whether candy, peas, beans, buttons, beads. Or pills, including aspirin tablets.

A bit of soft food, or something that dissolves or disintegrates very quickly can be coughed up by the child. Something hard can become so firmly lodged in the windpipe that no air can get past.

If aspirin needs to be given to a baby, the safer way is not in tablet form at all. Crush the tablet (or more usually just part of a tablet) and mix it into a spoonful of milk.

Dear Dr. Molner: My brother-in-law claims an egg is very easily digested if boiled for half an hour. I say 10 minutes is enough. We are oldsters and I say a soft-boiled or poached egg is best for us and easily digested. Are eggs good for a women of 82? And how many a week? — MRS. H.L.V.

The best way to cook an egg is so the white is firm — and I don't mean hard as a rock, or frizzled, unless you prefer it that way. As long as the white is firm, there is no difference in digestibility. So cook yours for 10 minutes and eat it, and let your brother-in-law wait another 20 minutes if he thinks he gains anything by it.

At your age, eat as many eggs as you find agreeable to your taste, whether soft-boiled, hard-boiled, poached, fried, scrambled, coddled, or deviled.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is pink eye and how it is transmitted? Is it a self-limiting infection? What if it is left untreated? —M.B.

Pink eye is an acute and contagious inflammation. It's a form of conjunctivitis, if you'd like a more formal term. The conjunctiva, or lining of the eye, is infected.

Several kinds of germs can be involved: Streptococcus, staphylococcus, influenza virus. It is usually self-limiting, meaning that eventually the patient fights off the germ. However, in untreated cases it may become chronic and linger on and on.

For practical purposes, follow two rules: First, since it is highly contagious, especially among children, keep the patient isolated; second, treatment, particularly if the strep or staph germ is involved, speeds up the recovery greatly.

Note To B.A.R.: Anyone with chronic asthma who smokes is not showing good sense. If he has been smoking for only three years, it shouldn't be hard for him to break the habit. If he continues, he is asking for trouble.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a thickening of the pleura at the bases of both lungs. Will this eventually affect the entire lungs? At times it is painful. — L.M.

This thickening is due to some infection in the past — tuberculosis, pneumonia, pleurisy or whatever. If the infection no longer is active, there will be no further involvement of the lungs.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

In The Name Of Science

Edward J. Kelsey, 16, a senior in a Washington, D.C., high school spent most of his Thanksgiving holiday flipping pennies in the name of scientific research.

He found in 17,950 flips that heads came up 464 times more than tails. This caused him to conclude scientifically that the present American pennies are tail heavy. When he pointed out this flaw to the U.S. mint it answered his letter curtly. It observed that pennies are made to spend, not flip, and it didn't make any difference about the weight of one side or the other.

This crass lack of appreciation for an inquiring young mind was not shared in education circles. Kelsey's high school teachers quickly made him a model for comparison.

Then the Washington Junior Science and Humanities Symposium got even more enthusiastic. It selected Kelsey's paper on imbalanced pennies as the one of six papers submitted for reading before the symposium, and for study.

This leaves us a little cold. All we can see in this exercise is a strong durable thumb and a mind geared to monotony. And we suspect that a good deal of the same is going on today in the name of science in many places. Nothing of consequence was added to the sum total of human knowledge or human understanding.

We don't blame the boy so much because he is young and he was probably better off flipping pennies than practicing some deliquency out of doors, or eating too much of his Thanksgiving turkey.

But we can't say as much for the adult managed symposium which is old enough to recognize a scientific undertaking, but apparently cannot.

Wesleyan's Great Teaching

After eight successful years, what can you say about a program that might be new? In the case of Nebraska Wesleyan's Great Teaching program, you don't have to say much of anything — it speaks for itself.

It has brought to Lincoln and the campus in University Place an improved academic climate. It has substantially raised the level of faculty excellence and thereby created for students a place of learning with many advantages.

It has done this because the purpose of the program is to raise funds with which to improve salary and training levels among the faculty at Wesleyan. In this, its eighth year, the program is pointing toward a goal of $50,000 in contributions from all people and we know the goal will be reached.

It will be reached because people have come to understand and appreciate the fact that education is the key to the future of the world. People know today that the young person who fails to reach the highest academic goals of which he is capable has failed himself and society, and the consequences of any substantial pattern such as that are awesome.

The $50,000 goal will be reached, too, because people have pride and confidence in Wesleyan, a private educational institution whose doors are open to all and one that has an enviable alumni across the nation. Thus, the drive for funds is one with an unquestionable purpose among people whose responsibility is clear. What more can or need be said than that?

Farm Program's Other Side

Out in this crop raising country the U.S. Department of Agriculture with its farm program is believed to be wholly devoted to raising the farmer's income to liveable standards. It is supposed to get prices up.

Quite to the contrary, as viewed by a thoughtful eastern newspaper, which editorialized recently in behalf of the USDA for selling high protein wheat in order to keep prices of private stocks down. But it observed that this service would not reduce the cost of bread and other baked goods. The cost of this mixing wheat was too small to affect the baker's prices. But somehow the action was a famous victory

The editorial noted that the price premium for high protein wheat has risen from 3 to 18 cents a bushel the past year and it was feared that such a rise would become infectious, causing general wheat prices to rise.

Out in this country we can see several flaws in the department's act of mercy. First it didn't reduce the price of bread. The consumer made no gain. Second it operated against the proper interest of the wheat producer who is trying to get a sufficient price for his produce to keep him on his feet.

But it does show the conflict of interest in the agricultural problem, namely the eastern consumers' position and the position of the farmer. The USDA has an obligation to both. But in this instance we cannot see that it helped either side.

William Robbins

Holdrege, Neb.

My heart has been saddened since reading of the passing of my former teacher and friend, Mr. William A. Robbins. In 1907-08, he was a teacher in the Lincoln Business College in the Oliver Theater building. I was a lanky youth of six foot three and weighed less than 150 pounds. I was 19 years old, and he was a fine looking young man of about 32. I was retarded in arithmetic. My earlier teachers knew the subject but not how to teach it. Mr. Robbins both knew arithmetic and how to teach it. Under his tutelage, I mastered it.

I have the picture of our large graduating class in 1908. How different Mr. Robbins looked then compared to the fine picture The Star carried. The same would be true of me and the small remnant remaining from 1908.

Mr. Robbins' attitude toward a student was so different from that of other teachers. His was a calm and quiet approach to a problem and its solution.

As I did not become a businessman but a Congregational minister instead, he gave me his encouragement. We had much in common, as we met at church conferences and I called on him at the schools. Surely he will be a perennial inspiration to the many youth who knew him.

The Punishment

Lincoln, Neb.

I was sickened by the outcome of the Duane Pope trial. Sentencing this pathetic young man to death serves no useful purpose, except to satisfy our need for vengeance. If capital punishment has a deterrent value, which I doubt, why did Duane Pope come to Nebraska to rob a bank and kill? Why did he not go to Iowa or Minnesota where there is no capital punishment?

To those who accept the idea that capital punishment has some deterrent value, I ask that they use their influence so that we might have some motion picture and television coverage of the execution, so that we may all see, if they have some deterrent value?

I sympathize with the families of the victims. But the dead cannot be brought back to life, no matter how much vengeance is wreaked. Society needs Duane Pope alive so that it can learn more about what made him kill and thus hopefully prevent someone else from doing the same.

Between now and the execution, all Nebraskans, in particular the Legislature, should reflect on these words of Alan Paton:

"An offender must be punished . . . I don't argue about that. But to punish and not to restore, that is the greatest of all offenses . . . If man takes unto himself God's right to punish, then he must also take upon himself God's promise to restore. . . There's a hard law, that when a deep injury is done to us, we never recover until we forgive."

The Drop-Outs

Hastings, Neb.

An official of the Selective Service system has been credited with saying: "School drop-outs should be drafted for military duty, where they could not drop out." But neither military nor civilian authorities ever thought of suggesting that college and university students in general be drafted for military service.

And yet educators want Americans to understand that college and university students can see through a problem much faster than school drop-outs can see through a problem. Therefore, drafting students in general should be far more reasonable than drafting drop-outs. There would be great rejoicing in the camps in South Viet Nam and in the camps throughout America if students would not wait to be drafted but paraphrased a Spanish-American War song: "We are coming, tell Johnson, five hundred thousand strong, to liberate South Viet Nam and to avenge the wrong, to avenge the wrong!"

It is time for Americans to remember that the American flag stands for self-sacrifice for the good of all. They that have the greatest opportunities and privileges are in a position to make the greatest sacrifice for the general welfare of America.

We must never forget that the school drop-outs are rejects, but in event they are drafted for military service, they may become cornerstones of the Great Society, as the stones the builders reject have a peculiar characteristic of becoming cornerstones.

Man Sells Viet Cong Flags, Cop Stands By To Protect

WASHINGTON — So there was some character selling Viet Cong flags at 10 bucks a crack in a downtown hotel lobby the other day and there was I wondering how come he was still all in one piece.

How long, do you suppose, would a man selling Rising Sun flags have lasted in a Washington hotel lobby in, say, 1943? About 45 seconds? Perhaps a whole minute before some public-spirited citizen grabbed him and tossed him under the nearest moving truck?

But apparently we are beyond outrage. We have "progressed" to the point where across the street from the White House one can see the swastika, the symbol of the enemy of yesterday, displayed along with the Viet Cong flag, the banner of the enemy of today. The recent peace demonstration was just such a carnival of bad taste.

Yet, as many persons know and others learned on the recent CBS-TV citizenship test, a man is within his constittuional rights to take the enemy's side in an argument, so long as he doesn't urge that the U.S. Government be overthrown by force. I chatted about this briefly with a policeman whose duty it was to protect from physical harm the man selling Viet Cong flags.

The policeman was very careful to tell me that he was only doing his duty. "According to my orders," the policeman said with some embarrassment, "nobody can interfere with this guy's right to demonstrate."

A bystander asked if the policeman would interfere with a citizen's "right" to slam the flag salesman in the mouth. The policeman said, "Now, now, calm down. You know I'd have to arrest you. After you did it, of course."

There was a pregnant silence, while the policeman gazed thoughtfully at the ceiling. However, nobody seemed to want to get arrested for his country that day, so I moved on. Next, I talked to a youngster who was holding a furled Viet Cong flag. He was about to go out and join the march. I asked him if he'd ever heard of Stephen Decatur.

"Who's he?" he said. "A friend of Dr. Spock or Norman Thomas?"

"No. I imagine he would have been in the opposite camp. He was an American hero who said, 'Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong!'"

"Please," he said annoyed. "No old cliches. It's my right not to agree. And my right to be a conscientious objector to Army service, too, if I feel that way."

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Geriatric Pills Now Available For Pets

By ROBERT PETERSON

Last weekend we visited some friends whose family circle includes a faithful old Collie. Like many of his human contemporaries, this superannuated canine was a bit rheumy-eyed and gray at the temples, and walked with a labored gait. When he came in the house he limped and whimpered as he lay down for a nap in front of the fireplace.

"He's got arthritis," said my host, "but we're hoping his new geriatric pills will be helpful."

It was news to me that geriatrics has extended its benefits to dogs. But sure enough, the printed label on the pooch's pill container stated, "Geriatric Wafers. A dietary enzyme and hormone supplement for aging dogs and cats." The label listed the various chemical ingredients and noted that the product is sold only through graduate veterinarians.

It's good to know that veterinary science is interested in helping dogs and cats avoid the ills of aging. And why not? These loyal, lesser creatures deserve and doubtless desire a tranquil, comfortable old age just as the rest of us, and if they spoke our language they'd probably be asking for Social Security.

Everyone wants to be popular and feel important. Dale Carnegie made a fortune telling people how to win friends and influence people. In a recent magazine article psychiatrist Leo Rosten says, "If you want to be popular, I can promise you the way to do it. Just ask people for advice. You don't havet o follow it—just ask. If you ask for advice people will say, 'Now there's a sound, sensible fellow.'"

He's got something there. As most of us grow older we feel a particular affection for those who make us feel superior and sagacious by asking our advice. Of course, we may not know what we're talking about. But we love to believe that based on our vast experience we've got a pretty good sclution to every human problem.

This column recently quoted industrialist William Black as saying more money should be appropriated to fight disease killers. "Let's put first things first," said Black. "Grants for the arts, park beautification and wild life preserves are fine, but first let's conquer the dread diseases which kill and cripple humans."

One who shares his sentiments is Dr. Hans Selye, famed director of the Institute of Medicine at the University of Montreal. "Governments are now spending billions duplicating one another's efforts to land a man on the moon," he writes in the new Medical Opinion and Review. "How can we doubt that with an equal investment of money and talent a systematic attack on the plagues of later life could also succeed?

"Of course, governments are intent on prestige, admiration and the gratitude of the community of nations, but I find it difficult to imagine what could have greater import to all mankind, or excite keener sentiments of admiration and prestige, than the cure of cancer, the reduction of mental illness, or fundamental control of the aging process."

Construction At NU Dorm Starts Again

Construction at the new women's dormitory on the University of Nebraska campus resumed Wednesday after a one-day halt due to union picketing.

A picket was on duty to protest sidewalk construction undertaken by a non-union operator on a small tractor, according to NU construction engineer Noel Smith.

However, other workers had already reported to work when the picketing began, he said, and they remained on the job. The sidewalk construction will be completed by Thursday, Smith said.

The earlier union protest, directed Tuesday at Copeland Construction Co. of Kansas City was resolved when Copeland agreed to use a hoist owned by Kingery Construction Co., of Lincoln, Smith said.

Protesting workers were equipment operating engineers.

The dormitory, located at 17th and Vine, will be completed in time for occupancy by students during the second semester, Smith said.

Geriatric Pills Now Available For Pets

By ROBERT PETERSON

Last weekend we visited some friends whose family circle includes a faithful old Collie. Like many of his human contemporaries, this superannuated canine was a bit rheumy-eyed and gray at the temples, and walked with a labored gait. When he came in the house he limped and whimpered as he lay down for a nap in front of the fireplace.

"He's got arthritis," said my host, "but we're hoping his new geriatric pills will be helpful."

It was news to me that geriatrics has extended its benefits to dogs. But sure enough, the printed label on the pooch's pill container stated, "Geriatric Wafers. A dietary enzyme and hormone supplement for aging dogs and cats." The label listed the various chemical ingredients and noted that the product is sold only through graduate veterinarians.

It's good to know that veterinary science is interested in helping dogs and cats avoid the ills of aging. And why not? These loyal, lesser creatures deserve and doubtless desire a tranquil, comfortable old age just as the rest of us, and if they spoke our language they'd probably be asking for Social Security.

Everyone wants to be popular and feel important. Dale Carnegie made a fortune telling people how to win friends and influence people. In a recent magazine article psychiatrist Leo Rosten says, "If you want to be popular, I can promise you the way to do it. Just ask people for advice. You don't havet o follow it—just ask. If you ask for advice people will say, 'Now there's a sound, sensible fellow.'"

He's got something there. As most of us grow older we feel a particular affection for those who make us feel superior and sagacious by asking our advice. Of course, we may not know what we're talking about. But we love to believe that based on our vast experience we've got a pretty good solution to every human problem.

This column recently quoted industrialist William Black as saying more money should be appropriated to fight disease killers. "Let's put first things first," said Black. "Grants for the arts, park beautification and wild life preserves are fine, but first let's conquer the dread diseases which kill and cripple humans."

One who shares his sentiments is Dr. Hans Selye, famed director of the Institute of Medicine at the University of Montreal. "Governments are now spending billions duplicating one another's efforts to land a man on the moon," he writes in the new Medical Opinion and Review. "How can we doubt that with an equal investment of money and talent a systematic attack on the plagues of later life could also succeed?

"Of course, governments are intent on prestige, admiration and the gratitude of the community of nations, but I find it difficult to imagine what could have greater import to all mankind, or excite keener sentiments of admiration and prestige, than the cure of cancer, the reduction of mental illness, or fundamental control of the aging process."

If you would like a booklet "65 Ways of Finding More Fun in Retirement" write to Robert Peterson, "Life Begins at Forty," c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Construction At NU Dorm Starts Again

Construction at the new women's dormitory on the University of Nebraska campus resumed Wednesday after a one-day halt due to union picketing.

A picket was on duty to protest sidewalk construction undertaken by a non-union operator on a small tractor, according to NU construction engineer Noel Smith.

However, other workers had already reported to work when the picketing began, he said, and they remained on the job. The sidewalk construction will be completed by Thursday, Smith said.

The earlier union protest, directed Tuesday at Copeland Construction Co. of Kansas City was resolved when Copeland agreed to use a hoist owned by Kingery Construction Co., of Lincoln, Smith said.

Protesting workers were equipment operating engineers.

The dormitory, located at 17th and Vine, will be completed in time for occupancy by students during the second semester, Smith said.

Choral Concert Sunday At Peru

Peru (UPI)—Choral works ranging from a 16th century motet, "A Magnum Mysterium," to selections from the contemporary English composer Benjamin Britton's "Ceremony of Carols," will highlight Sunday's Christmas concert by the Peru State College choir at 3 p.m. in the college auditorium.

The public is invited to attend the concert.

The concert is under the direction of Hugh Thomas, instructor of vocal music at Peru State.

$145,000 Awarded To Boys Town

San Francisco (AP) — Father Flanagan's Boys Town in Nebraska was awarded $145,000, the result of 30 years' labor in a California peach orchard and seven years of court litigation.

The State District Court of Appeals upheld the will of Charles Christen, who died in June, 1957. Christen's will had been contested by his two brothers and two sisters, who had been left $10 each.

Started Orchard In 1917

Christen and his partner, Joseph P. Kelly, started the orchard in 1917 near Marysville, Calif., in the Sacramento Valley. They retired in 1948 and moved to a small cabin at Noyo on the northern California coast.

Christen's will left everything to Kelly, and if Kelly died first the money was to go to Boys Town.

Kelly died two months before Christen, leaving half of his $121,000 fortune to Boys Town.

Christen left $137,000. His brothers and sisters filed suit in April, 1958, claiming undue influence by Kelly. The case was continued in 1962.

Mendocino County Superior Court Judge Robert Winslow of Ukiah, Calif., ruled that "with principal and accrued interest, $145,000 goes to Father Flanagan's."

The case was appealed to the state court last October, and the appellate decision was announced Wednesday.

Keene Removed From Road Toll

The State Accident Records Bureau Wednesday removed the name of Floyd M. Keene of Walthill from the list of Nebraska traffic fatalities this year.

Mr. Keene, 71, was killed Oct. 17 in a tractor accident on Highway 77 south of Walthill in northeast Nebraska.

The Accident Records Bureau said investigation indicates the accident occurred on a segment of the highway which was under construction and not open to traffic so the fatality will be considered a farm death.

The revisions placed the 1965 traffic fatality total at 351, compared to 406 on the same date a year ago.

Ross Is Leaving Hospital Position

Omaha (AP) — Edwin F. Ross, administrator of University Hospital, has resigned, it was announced by the University of Nebraska College of Medicine.

Ross will become executive director of Fairview Park Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, on Feb. 1.

Ross has been administrator of University Hospital since September, 1962.

No successor to Ross has been named.

Mr. Keene, 71, was killed Oct. 17 in a tractor accident on Highway 77 south of Walthill in northeast Nebraska.

The Accident Records Bureau said investigation indicates the accident occurred on a segment of the highway which was under construction and not open to traffic so the fatality will be considered a farm death.

The revisions placed the 1965 traffic fatality total at 351, compared to 406 on the same date a year ago.

Omaha Mother, 2 Daughters Die In Crash

Green River, Wyo. (AP)—A head-on auto crash near Green River claimed the lives of five persons—a mother and her two daughters from Omaha and a middle-aged couple from Rawlins, Wyo.

Dead are Mrs. Raymond McKenna, 39, and her two daughters, Vicky, 15, and Patricia, 8, Omaha, and Edward Murphy, 54, and his wife Jeanette, 52, of Rawlins.

The Highway Patrol said Mrs. McKenna apparently was driving from Spokane, Wash., to Omaha, and her husband was following in another car. He was taken to a Rock Springs hospital in shock Tuesday night.

The patrol said the cars collided on a dry, straight section of U.S. Highway 30, about five miles east of Little America. Patrolmen said the visibility was "good."

The McKennas only recently moved to Omaha.

Campground Rules Change Approved

. . . BY PLANNING UNIT

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City-County Planning Commission Wednesday recommended approval of amendments to the zoning ordinance relating to campgrounds, but would not agree with Planning Director Douglas Brogden on the size of individual campsites.

As passed by the commission, the amendments would add "pick-up campers" to the types of campers regulated by the ordinance; reduce the required front yard from 100 feet to 30 feet when the front yard abuts on a public right-of-way with a width of greater than 200 feet and would permit a trailer to be used as an office on the campground.

Brogden had recommended that the required area per campsite be 7,000 square feet, after an earlier proposal had suggested an area of 2,500 square feet.

'Not In Spirit'

"We believe the proposed 2,500 square feet is much too small," Brogden said. "This overcrowding will not be in the spirit of camping and if the present density of campsites is maintained, approximately five campsites per acre can be developed; if the density is increased, 14 could be developed per acre."

The commission settled on a 5,000 square feet minimum and threw out an amendment establishing rights-of-way for interior roads.

The commission recommended approval of the plot plan for the new St. Elizabeth Hospital, to be located on 70th St., south of O St., after having previously approved the construction of the hospital at that location.

Traffic Problems

In recommending the action Brogden said he felt the hospital would not "unduly increase traffic problems in the general area" and noted that the area between hospital land and O St. can still be developed with single family houses.

Also approved was an amendment to the zoning ordinance increasing from 60 feet to 75 feet or seven stories the height to which public, institution or school buildings can be constructed.

The change will allow the applicant for the amendment, Union College, to build two 70 foot high dormitories.

Other business:

—County change of zone from agricultural to business, requested by Albert Holland to build a service station and bulk plant, on property approximately seven miles south of Pioneers Blvd. on U.S. 77 near the old Roca road, approved.

—Special permit requested by Gateway Manor to erect a sign near the private driveway, 225 No. 56th, approved.

First Aid Questions Put To Reeb Friends

Selma Ala. (UPI) — An attorney for three white men charged with the murders of civil rights worker Rev. James Reeb of Boston attempted to prove Wednesday that the minister may have died because his friends did not give him first aid.

Reeb and two fellow Unitarian ministers were attacked last March 9 as they left a Negro restaurant where they had dinner. The three white ministers, all from out of state, were in Selma to help with a civil rights drive.

Those charged with the attack are Namon O'Neal Hoggle, a 30-year-old mechanic, his brother William Stanley Hoggle, a 36-year-old salesman, and Elmer Cook, 41, a novelty firm manager.

Depositions

The state introduced depositions from Birmingham physicians who stated that a massive head injury suffered by Reeb in the attack was the basic cause of his death.

The Rev. Orloff Miller of Boston, one of Reeb's companions on the night of the attack, took the stand in the courtroom of Circuit Judge L. S. Moore Wednesday and identified Cook as the "lead man" in the club-swinging assault.

The Rev. Clark Olson of Berkeley, Calif., Reeb's other companion on the night of the attack, previously had singled out Cook as the man who led the attack.

In his cross-examination of Miller, defense attorney Joe Pilcher questioned the minister closely about the condition of Reeb during the 94-mile ambulance trip to Birmingham.

"He was breathing hard. He was, from my perspective, unconscious and in great pain," Miller said.

Pilcher then asked Miller whether he was a Boy Scout in his childhood. Miller replied he was and the defense attorney then asked Miller to recall Boy Scout first aid techniques for heping an unconscious man. Miller said Reeb was placed on a stretcher and kept warm.

Rapid-Fire

"Were his feet elevated? There was no tube in his mouth to give him oxygen? As a matter of fact, there was little done, was there?" Pilcher asked in rapid-fire succession.

"There appeared to be nothing that could be done," Miller replied.

"I'm not asking you what there appeared to be," Pilcher shot back.

"I did nothing because I knew nothing to do," Miller replied. He added with great force:

"I wish to God that I had known."

South Viet Nam Gift Loaded Train Due In Omaha Tuesday

Omaha (UPI) — Omaha will be one of the main stopping points for the American Christmas train which is carrying contributions to the people of South Viet Nam under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Young Republicans, and Young Democrats.

Other main stops on the schedule of the train which will leave Washington, D.C. according to Mike Boyle, Douglas County Young Democrat chairman, are Philadelphia, Indianapolis, Chicago, Des Moines, Denver, Salt Lake City and Oakland.

The train will be loaded in Omaha next Tuesday and will arrive in San Francisco for loading on ships on approximately Dec. 22. Some 100 freight cars will make up the train load of food, clothing, soap, school supplies and toys.

Boyle announced that Nebraska Consolidated Mills has started off the industrial contribution to the train in Nebraska with a donation of 1,000 pounds of flour. The 650 cases of soap collected by the U.S. Marine Corps reserve also will make up the freight car leaving from Nebraska next Tuesday.

Individual contributions of tools and clothing are particularly needed, Boyle said.

Nationwide Hunt Begun For Lincoln East Head

Lincoln Public Schools are searching throughout the nation for a principal to head the new East Educational Complex scheduled to open September, 1967.

Personnel Director Dr. Carroll Sawin has sent letters to numerous universities announcing the available position. None of Lincoln's three high school principals wants the new job, Sawin reported.

The $5 million East Complex is to be a junior-senior high school for several years until enrollment justifies moving out the junior high. Because the building will be completely air-conditioned, it will be used for secondary summer school. It also will house the vocational and adult education program.

Sawin said he hopes to have the principal, who will be paid between $13,500 and $15,000 depending on experience and background, hired by March. The new head will start working in September 1966, helping to build a staff, arrange scheduling, and participate in final planning decisions for the school.

According to Sawin, the district is looking for a married man between 30 and 45 years old with a doctorate degree in educational administration. A list of qualifications indicates only that a married man is "preferred," but the personnel director said "we wouldn't look too seriously at an unmarried man."

Other qualifications include strong academic preparation in a teaching field, successful experience as a secondary school principal in a school of more than 600 students, experience in working at college level desirable, and experience working with student teacher program essential.

'Man of Culture'

The qualifications also demand that the principal "be a man of culture," have the ability to make and carry out decisions, have personal and professional integrity and be knowledgeable of current educational trends.

Sawin added the principal will have to develop a smooth working relationship between institutions of higher learning and the public schools and will have to work with a student teacher program.

Trailer Pulls Loose, Hits Car; 2 Okay

Two Lincoln men escaped serious injury Wednesday when a 40-foot trailer, which broke away from its tow truck, demolished the car in which they were riding, police said.

The trailer, being towed by a pick-up truck driven by Thomas Gartner, 23, of 1240 West O, traveled almost 700 feet during its unguided journey.

The Gartner truck and trailer were eastbound on O when the trailer came loose, police said.

It traveled 450 feet on a diagonal line across O into the path of the westbound car driven by Arthur L. Kelly, 48, of 3045 Orchard.

Kelly and passenger Leland D. Schwab of 3917 So. 40th suffered minor abrasions in the ensuing crash which destroyed the car, police said.

The trailer turned north and rolled 161 feet, then turned east, smashed a pop cooler at Miller's Service Station, 320 West O, threaded its way through the driveway, which was lined with gas pumps, and came to rest on the apron of the drive 84 feet away.

Sabah's Kuwait Is Committed To Growing Role

Kuwait (AP)—This fabulously rich little oil country, banker for development projects in the Arab world, is committed to a growing role in inter-Arab affairs under its new ruler, Sheikh Sabah as-Salem as-Sabah, 51, who ascended the throne on the death of Sheikh Abdullah at 70 on Oct. 26.

The national assembly voted confidence in the government of Premier Sheikh Jaber al-Ahmad on the basis of his Arab unity plans and "positive neutrality."

Great Teaching Drive Goes Past Half Way Mark

Nebraska Wesleyan University's Great Teaching program passed the half way mark at Wednesday's first report luncheon.

E. N. "Jack" Thompson, general chairman, said volunteer solicitors reported $26,027 was received during the first two days of the campaign.

Goal for the Great Teaching Program is $50,000.

"We're off to a good start," Thompson said, "and should be near our goal by the Friday report meeting."

The report luncheon Friday will feature a talk by W. Clement Stone, president of Combined Insurance Company of America.

The Great Teaching Program helps to attract and retain great teachers to the Nebraska Wesleyan University faculty according to Charles E. Sconyers, director of development.

Nationwide Hunt Begun For Lincoln East Head

Lincoln Public Schools are searching throughout the nation for a principal to head the new East Educational Complex scheduled to open September, 1967.

Personnel Director Dr. Carroll Sawin has sent letters to numerous universities announcing the available position. None of Lincoln's three high school principals wants the new job, Sawin reported.

The $5 million East Complex is to be a junior-senior high school for several years until enrollment justifies moving out the junior high. Because the building will be completely air-conditioned, it will be used for secondary summer school. It also will house the vocational and adult education program.

Sawin said he hopes to have the principal, who will be paid between $13,500 and $15,000 depending on experience and background, hired by March. The new head will start working in September 1966, helping to build a staff, arrange scheduling, and participate in final planning decisions for the school

According to Sawin, the district is looking for a married man between 30 and 45 years old with a doctorate degree in educational administration. A list of qualifications indicates only that a married man is "preferred," but the personnel director said "we wouldn't look too seriously at an unmarried man."

Other qualifications include strong academic preparation in a teaching field, successful experience as a secondary school principal in a school of more than 600 students, experience in working at college level desirable, and experience working with student teacher program essential

The qualifications also demand that the principal "be a man of culture," have the ability to make and carry out decisions, have personal and professional integrity and be knowledgeable of current educational trends.

Sawin added the principal will have to develop a smooth working relationship between institutions of higher learning and the public schools and will have to work with a student teacher program

Expect Governor To OK Moving Aeronautics Department

Gov. Frank Morrison is expected to approve Thursday the moving of the State Aeronautics Department to the Lincoln Municipal Airport's general aviation building.

State Administrative Services Director Willard Townsend and Gene Budig, Morrison's administrative assistant, said Wednesday the transfer plan is awaiting the governor's return from a Texas trip.

Townsend said the State Institutions Department would take over Aeronautics' space in the Statehouse, freeing space for the state's new computer.

The IBM computer is scheduled to arrive Feb. 1, and remodeling and other preliminary installation work must begin by Dec. 15 if a critical schedule is to be met.

Aeronautics Director James Sandstedt said the department welcomes the move, explaining, "We are dealing with aviation and most of the people with whom we do business fly into Lincoln."

Both Sandstedt and Townsend estimated the move will cost Aeronautics about $15,000 in rental fees for the remainder of the biennium.

Sandstedt said no appropriation was made by the Legislature for the transfer, but other funds in the budget may be used and later replaced by a deficit appropriation.

Some savings in the current communication equipment costs may result from quarters at the airport, Sandstedt noted.

Temporary office space has been made available at the airport, which means personnel and equipment can begin moving immediately, he said.

Townsend said Morrison's approval of the transfer is expected Thursday.

He said air conditioning units, knocking out a wall and extensive wiring are a few of the changes that must be made in the Institutions Department area for the new computer.

The computer, costing $7,070 per month rental, is scheduled to begin fulltime operation April 1.

Alternatives to the Aeronautics transfer was moving out the Department of Banking, or temporarily using the East Senate Chamber. The latter had been proposed originally.

Regional Anti-Poverty Director Will Confer With Gov. Morrison

Don Thomason, Kansas City regional director for the Economic Opportunity Program, will confer Friday with Gov. Frank Morrison, State Technical Assistance Director Ron Jensen reported Wednesday.

Jensen said Thomason, recently appointed to the post, is currently visiting with governors in his 11-state region.

Thomason and Morrison will discuss the current status of the $10 million worth of anti-poverty projects in Nebraska and lay groundwork for future undertakings, according to Jensen.

Apples For Jets

Beirut, Lebanon (AP)—Sheikh Najib Al-Muddin, chairman of Middle East Airlines, has offered to buy three VC10 jetliners at $10 million each if Britain will take half payment in applies. He said the British offered to take $330,000 worth annually for 10 years as 10% payment and would announce in a fortnight whether they could import more apples.

Meeting Set To Consider Second Semester Ag Scholarships

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The State Rural Rehabilitation scholarship Advisory Committee will meet Wednesday to consider the possible granting of additional scholarships for the second semester of the current school year, State Agriculture Director Pearle F. Finigan said Wednesday.

The Agriculture Department granted nearly $90,000 in scholarships to 147 students from Nebraska farm and ranch families for the current school year.

However, approximately $9,000 from which 13 to 15 scholarships might be offered is still available because of declined grants or other reasons.

From Applicants on File

Richard Shugrue, scholarship program administrator, said recipients of the second-semester scholarships, if granted, will be selected from deserving applicants on file. Nearly 500 were received last summer.

Scholarships up to $800 annually for three years or $600 annually for four years are available on the basis of financial need for children of ranch or farm families desiring to attend public-operated colleges or trade schools in the state.

The scholarships are granted by the department on the recommendations of the state advisory committee and local Farmers Home Administration (FHA) committees.

Shugrue said information and applications for 1966-67 scholarships are available for the department or local FHA offices.

Needed By Feb. 15

He said applications should reach local FHA offices before Feb. 15 and the department hopes to announce scholarship grants by mid-April.

He estimated 40 to 50 new scholarships will be approved for the next school year plus the anticipated renewal of about 100 existing scholarships.

Because approximately $160,000 was available when the program was initiated, Shugrue said, approximately 150 scholarships will be carried for the next three years.

After that, the number will drop to 100 scholarships annually on the basis of approximately $80,000 that will be available each year.

Train Service Halted; Inquiry Set By State

The State Railway Commission Wednesday ordered an inquiry to determine why the Missouri Pacific Railroad apparently has discontinued freight train service between the small eastern Nebraska towns of Otoe and Avoca without commission authority.

The commission said rains last summer washed out tracks between the two towns and service has not yet been restored.

The communities are east of Lincoln.

C Of C Directors Want Liquor Vote

Directors of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce took steps Wednesday leading to a citywide referendum in 1966 or 1967 on the question of liquor-by-the-drink.

The action was unanimous after the Chamber executive committee, by a 5-1 vote, asked for a motion which would direct the Chamber's publicity committee to prepare a plan and method for bringing the question to a referendum.

The plan will be reviewed by the Chamber's executive committee and the board of directors before a final decision is made on whether to push for a vote.

Came Alive With Poll

The question came alive in October after the publicity committee had conducted a voluntary poll of Lincoln citizens for suggestions on an improved Lincoln. The greatest number of suggestions called for action on the liquor-by-the-drink question. The committee subsequently proposed to Chamber directors that a more thorough poll be approved to be followed, if the poll supported the earlier results, by efforts to get some civic organization to bring forth a referendum. The proposal was passed on to the executive committee.

While Wednesday's action was unanimous there was hesitation on thrusting the Chamber of Commerce into the controversial question. The result was a spirited off-the record debate.

It began when President Tom Pansing asserted that "the Chamber is not taking a position for or against liquor-by-the-drink. But the question has not been presented to Lincoln citizens for 19 years."

Liquor by the drink was defeated heavily in 1945.

Pansing noted that "in 19 years there is a new generation of Lincoln residents, the city is much larger, its problems have changed and so have state laws and the customs. This indicates that the question should be reviewed."

This brought a flurry of comments, both for and against the Chamber's position.

Tired of 'Hypocrisy'

One director advocating the community's decision said he was tired of Lincoln's "hypocrisy" on the matter of drinking. He said, "We all know that every Lincoln resident who wishes it can drink liquor by the bottle or by the drink in more places than he can patronize. A fee will get him membership in social clubs and in bottle clubs. Only the stranger who comes here for a convention or the visitor who might wish to drop into a public bar can't because there are no such bars."

Another director asserted that Lincoln is being hurt competitively by refusing to offer the town's visitor's that which other cities give.

But there were other directors who feared that sponsorship of the question would place a false image on the Chamber.

The directors also voted to commend the Lancaster County Board of Supervisors, which has consented to employ someone to check real estate transactions before they are submitted to the state tax commission. This was in response to the state board raising Lancaster County's residential real estate valuations 28% recently. It is claimed the state used real estate transfers which did not eliminate a typical transactions.

Schoolmen Will Decide Stand On Bills

The Nebraska County Superintendents Association, which opened a three-day meeting in Lincoln Wednesday, is expected to take official stands on key 1965 legislation pertaining to education.

Included among the laws to be discussed is LB301, which creates 19 educational service units covering the state as agencies to provide supplementary educational services to local school districts.

A bill concerned with additional school district consolidation procedures, LB892, and LB452, which allows for the formation of federations of school districts, will also be considered by the group.

Several proposals including one which would permit the combining of two or more counties under one superintendent and legislation to clarify free high school transportion to neighboring states will be considered for recommendation for legislation during the 1967 Legislature session.

Nike Sites Will Close In March

Washington (AP)—The Defense Department said Wednesday that the two Nike Hercules missile sites near Lincoln, Neb., and the one near Plattsmouth, Neb., will be phased out and inactivated by March, 1966.

The facilities will be declared excess.

It had been disclosed earlier that the sites were tagged for inactivation.

Royal Air Force Crash Fatal To 7

Kinloss, Scotland (AP)—A Royal Air Force long-range Shackleton reconnaissance plane with seven crew men aboard crashed into the sea north of Scotland Wednesday.

Wreckage was picked up, including an empty rubber dinghy, but there was no sign of survivors. The four-engined Shackleton was on a training flight in clear weather.

C Of C Directors Want Liquor Vote

Directors of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce took steps Wednesday leading to a citywide referendum in 1966 or 1967 on the question of liquor-by-the-drink.

The action was unanimous after the Chamber executive committee, by a 5-1 vote, asked for a motion which would direct the Chamber's publicity committee to prepare a plan and method for bringing the question to a referendum.

The plan will be reviewed by the Chamber's executive committee and the board of directors before a final decision is made on whether to push for a vote.

New Delhi Food Ration Required

New Delhi, India (AP)—Food rationing returned to New Delhi Wednesday for the first time in more than a decade. A serious food shortage looms in the months ahead.

The program got off to a shaky start amidst hoarding, skyrocketing blackmarket prices, forged ration cards and failure of the officials to get cards issued to the majority of the city's citizens.

Only 650,000 cards were issued in this city of nearly three million persons before the rationing became effective, according to the Times of India.

Raiding Parties

Police raiding parties seeking hoarders arrested one man with one ton of wheat hidden in his house.

Several shops had no wheat or rice for sale as supplies have been cleaned out in a recent buying spree.

Reports from Jaipur, 200 miles south of New Delhi, said wheat and rice is not available on the open market or in government fair price shops. Buyers are reported to be scurrying around the stores but going home with empty bags.

In Bhubaneswar, Irissa state on the Bay of Bengal, members of the state assembly demanded an inquiry into a report that children are being sold by families unable to obtain food.

Trade Prevented

A government official replied that two children had been offered for sale, but other people intervened preventing the move.

In New Delhi, wheat is reported to be selling in the black market for 100 rupees per quintal ($21 per pound).

One week ago the price of wheat on the market was 60 rupees ($12.10).

Authorities froze all wheat and rice stocks effective from midnight Tuesday and ordered it delivered to the food directorate for distribution to authorized ration ships. They are reported to be receiving only one hundredth of the supply which was estimated to be on hand locally.

The ration order authorized 10 ounces of wheat or rice daily for adults in the capital and five ounces for children.

From Dec. 15, sugar comes under rationing with one half pound per person weekly.

The last rationing was 11 years ago during a bad crop year in localized areas.

JAMES E. KENNEDY

Bank Robber-Athlete Made Most Wanted

Washington (UPI)—An Ohio bank robber who was a three-letter man while in prison made the FBI's 10 most wanted list on Wednesday.

He is James Edward Kennedy, who has been hunted since escaping the Cuyahoga County Jail in Cleveland Nov. 10, 1964, by sliding down a rope of bedsheets with four other prisoners.

At the time of the escape, Kennedy had been brought from federal penitentiary at Marion, Ill., to stand charges for armed robbery in Cleveland.

The FBI warned that Kennedy has committed armed bank holdups and robberies during his 11-year criminal career and must be considered etxremely dangerous.

A native of Massachusetts, the 28-year-old fugitive has police records both in that state and throughout Ohio.

While serving penitentiary sentences, Kennedy has participated on prison football, baseball and boxing teams. Kennedy, a southpaw, is also known as an avid follower of the American League baseball.

Despite his sports interest, the escaped convict has been closely associated with homosexuals, according to the FBI.

The wanted man is marked by tattoos and scars. The word "Love" is tatooed on his left hand, an eagle and the initials "J.E.K." on his upper left arm. He has scars on his right eyelid, under his right eye, under the chin, on the back of his neck and on his upper right arm.

Kennedy stands 5'7" and weighs 160 pounds. He has a medium build, a ruddy complexion, brown hair and brown eyes.

Labor Meet Sets Strong Political Tone

San Francisco (AP)— The AFL-CIO set a strong political tone for its convention Wednesday, pledging to defend Democratic liberals in the 1966 congressional elections from a "gang-up" by conservative and right wing foes.

The big labor federation conceded in a report by the executive council to the delegates on the eve of its 10th anniversary convention that the political fight will be tough.

"The race to defend liberal congressmen elected in 1964 as well as elect new legislators will be difficult in the face of the thin margins which brought many of them to Washington," the report said.

"Their vote for progressive legislation has brought them a gang-up from the John Birch Society and the political arms of the National Association of Manufacturers and the American Medical Association," it said.

The AFL-CIO has a major stake in protecting the big Democratic edge in Congress in order to win labor legislation it failed to get this year in the first session of the 89th Congress.

These measures include repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, which permits states to outlaw union shop contracts under which all employes must join th union.

Honesty Need Is Stressed

. . . For Co. Officials

Omaha (AP) — Two veteran county commissioners who were among 500 on hand for the annual meeting of the Nebraska County Officials Association said Wednesday that honesty is the most important requirement for county government posts.

This observation was shared by John Lervig, 67, Gosper County commissioner for 23 years, and H. A. Obermeier, 70, Hamilton County commissioner for 15.

Today's Nebraskans demand more from their county governments, the two men said. They indicate a closer interest in an understanding of government.

Commissioners, supervisors, clerks and registers of deeds are meeting at the Castle Hotel. Highway commissioners, engineers, treasurers, clerks of the district court and veterans service officers are meeting at the Paxton. County welfare directors are meeting at the Diplomat Hotel.

Tiemann Favors Taxation Study For What's Best

Omaha (AP)—Norbert T. Tieman of Wausa, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, said Wednesday he favors a committee to study the philosophy of taxation and to determine what is best for Nebraska if the state must broaden the tax base.

In an Omaha appearance Tiemann said the study should be financed by private money.

He predicted the income tax will be turned down by the voters and added: "I think there are sufficient revenues being generated by present tax laws to operate state government for at least one biennium, provided they are administered by a chief executive who is a well-qualified business man."

He also said he believes real estate taxes "are at their saturation point."

Col. Allan, 69, Dies Of Cancer; Omaha Native

Washington (AP) — Col. Carlisle Visscher Allan, U.S. Army retired, 69, died Wednesday in Walter Reed Army Hospital of cancer. He was a native of Omaha, Neb., and lived here the last 20 years.

Allan entered West Point Military Academy from the University of Illinois and was president of his class when he was graduated in 1919. After getting a master of arts degree at Columbia University, he returned to West Point as an instructor in English and history.

After serving in World War II he was military attache in Berne, Switzerland. He retired from active duty after 30 years of service in 1948.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services wil be held at 11 a.m. Friday, in the Ft. Myer, Va., Chapel. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Music Contest Sites Announced

Fremont (AP) — Midland College music instructor Walter Olsen Wednesday announced the sites for the District Two music contest festival set for April 21-23.

Olsen is coordinator of the festival.

Omaha Westside High School will host the Class A event; Wahoo and Schyler, Class B, and Howells and Bennington, Class C.

Olsen noted that some 5,500 students from east central Nebraska took part in the festival last year.

Viet Cong Shatter Ranger Battalion

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—The hunted turned on the hunter and the Viet Cong knocked out a Vietnamese ranger battalion Wednesday in a wasteland between U.S. Marine bases at Da Nang and Chu Lai.

A strong communist force, screened in canefields, encircled and virtually destroyed the battalion—perhaps 500 elite fighters—in a three-hour battle.

A disptach from the scene, in the Tam Ky area 360 miles northeast of Saigon, said only about a third of the rangers escaped to the lines of a reserve company and six of their U.S. advisers were reported lost, two killed and four missing.

In contrast, the Viet Cong broadcast an offer of a 12-hour Christmas truce. The Red guerrillas promised to halt operations from 7 p.m. Dec. 24 until 7 a.m. Dec. 25 "to allow people on the other side to celebrate Christmas in peace" if they laid down their arms and dropped intelligence activity in that period.

Offer Weighed

Once bitten by Viet Cong occupation of a strategic valley while government troops observed a comparable holiday cease-fire, U.S. and Vietnamese authorities weighed the offer warily.

A State Department spokesman in Washington, Robert J. McCloskey, called on the communists in Viet Nam to give a "real Christmas present to the world" by opening peace negotiations. The truce offer was considered a propaganda exercise, but American officials said it would be studied.

U. S. air fleets carried the war to the communists with bombing strikes at targets ranging from Red-held sectors of the Mekong Delta to supply routes and bridges in the Dien Bien Phu area, 800 miles to the north. Jet planes of the nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise alone flew 131 combat sorties over the delta, south of Saigon.

Ground fire was reported to have downed a U.S. Marine F4 Phanton jet on one of various missions over North Viet Nam. The fate of the pilot and his observer was not determined.

Long Range Strike

B52 jets from Guam, part of the long range bomber force that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara proposes to reduce to about a third of its present strength by 1971, hit for the second day at objectives in Tay Ninh province, 45 miles northwest of Saigon.

Another decline in American combat deaths were registered for the week ended last Saturday. With the death roll approaching 1,400, U. S. military headquarters reported 19 Americans were killed in that seven-day period. Wounded totaled 161 and two were missing. Forty Americans were killed in the previous week, Nov. 21-27.

Losses of South Viet Nam's armed forces, still carrying the brunt of the war effort, were 126 killed, 183 wounded and 217 missing or captured. The allied forces were reported to have killed 650 Viet Cong and captured 58.

The Vietnamese ranger battalion decimated near Tam Ky was described as one of the best in South Viet Nam's army. It was hunting for three Viet Cong battalions believed to be near the 50-mile strip between Da Nang and Chu Lai when the communists struck.

'Overran Us'

"They simply overran us," said Capt. Gene Rogers, 30, of Meridian, Tex., a senior U.S. adviser who fought through the battle uninjured.

North Viet Nam issued a series of announcements related to the war. Radio Hanoi broadcast them to the world:

—President Ho Chi Minh, speaking at a conference of Hanoi women, urged the women to "step up production, practice economy, overcome hardships and be ready to make sacrifices whenever necessary" to defeat the United States.

—A North Vietnamese economic mission has opened talks in Moscow with Deputy Premier Vladimir N. Novokiv and other Soviet authorities in "a cordial and friendly atmosphere." The exact aims of the mission, which arrived in the Soviet capital Monday, were not disclosed.

—The Viet Cong is framing slogans for the fifth anniversary Dec. 20 of its political agency, the National Liberation Front. Among them: "The 14 million people in the south, shoulder to shoulder with their 17 million compatriots in the north, are determined to crush the American imperialist aggressors and the gang of traitors to the homeland, to liberate the south, defend the north and liberate the homeland."

Pakistani Claim Five

Rawalpindi, Pakistan (AP) — Five more Indian soldiers have oeen killed in two clashes on the cease-fire line, a government spokesman said. He reported three were killed in an encounter near Wagah, 200 miles east of Rawalpindi, and two in Burki, nearby. There was no mention of Pakistani losses.

Non-Farm Employment Grows To Record 61.8 Million

Washington (UPI) — Non-farm payroll employment rose by 65,000 to a record high of 61.8 million workers in November, the government reported Wednesday.

It was the 13th consecutive month the figure increased, demonstrating a "sustained strength" in the nation's economy, the Labor Department said.

The November gain was particularly significant because employment normally drops by about 200,000 at this time of the year, according to Harold Goldstein, spokesman for the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The total was 2.4 million above the level of November, 1964.

November Decline

After seasonal adjustment, figuring the usual decline in November, non-farm payroll workers increased by 300,000. Of this gain, 110,000 came in manufacturing, 50,000 in contract construction and 40,000 in trade.

Only a strike against General Motors Corp. in October, 1964, has interrupted a steady rise in this category during the last 57 months.

The job increase since February, 1961, has totaled 7.9 million, of which 4.2 million came in the past two years.

The number of hours worked in an average week by a factory employe in November remained at the October level of 41.4 hours, up a half-hour from a year earlier. It represented the highest November work week in 21 years.

Overtime, at 3.8 hours a week in November, was close to the October level of 3.9 hours and was a half-hour above the figure a year before.

Partly because of these factors, average weekly earnings in manufacturing reached an all-time high of $109.30 in November, up 42 cents from October and $5 above the November, 1964, level.

Earlier this month, the Labor Department said the unemployment rate for November dropped to 4.2%, its lowest since August, 1957.

Medicare Opposition Predicted

By JOHN ARMSTRONG
Associated Press Writer

Nebraska medical leaders agree a sizable percentage of the state's doctors will boycott the sweeping Medicare health program for the aged when it goes into effect next July.

At this point they said a more exact determination of the extent of the boycott in Nebraska cannot be made.

Nebraska's state plan for participation in Medicare was the first one approved by federal officials, and the state has led the nation in preparing for the massive program for the elderly.

"Whether to participate or not participate in Medicare is a decision which must be made by each individual doctor," said State Health Director E. A. Rogers. "I'm sure a good number of doctors will chose not to take part in the program, and that's their prerogative."

Dr. Otis Miller of Ord, president of the Nebraska Academy of General Practice, said he knows many doctors who will not participate. Dr. Miller himself has decided to boycott the federal health program.

Won't Accept

Dr. Willis Wright of Omaha, president of the State Medical Society, said "a lot of doctors won't participate," but he feels the question of participation is "overrated."

"If a doctor decides not to participate," Dr. Wright said, "his patients simply must receive the Medicare payments and pass them on to the physician, rather than the physician's receiving the payments directly from the federal government."

Dr. Wright said the percentage of nonparticipation probably will be greatest among general practitioners. He noted the Nebraska Academy of General Practice has taken a stronger stand against Medicare than have other medical groups in the state.

The academy, which claims 380 members, recently adopted a statement labeling Medicare "socialized medicine" which forces "physicians and hospitals to be under the bureaucratic control of the federal government and the unwilling guardians of the federal treasury."

"It is ethical, proper, moral and legal not to participate in such socialistic schemes on an individual basis," the statement said.

The American Medical Association (AMA) has advised that doctors could face prosecution under federal antitrust law if they act in concert through a medical organization to boycott the Medicare program.

However, the AMA said it's legal for doctors acting independently to decide against participation in the health program.

Prepared Statement

The statement, prepared by an unidentified source, reads in part:

"I will not participate in Medicare because I am ethically and morally bound to protect you from inferior care.

"I will not sign federal forms and I will not accept federal fees.

"If you need to go to the hospital, I will ask the hospital to admit you in the same manner as I have always done. If the hospital refuses your admittance because it requires that I sign a federal form and agree to government control (which I will not do), it may be necessary for you to find a physician who practices socialized medicine."

Ex-Nebraskan Haylett Dies In Rochester

A. Eugene Haylett, 62, executive vice president of the Rochester, Minn., Chamber of Commerce, died Wednesday in Rochester of cancer. He had been hospitalized since September 15.

Mr. Haylett was a native Nebraskan, a former student of the University of Nebraska and a graduate of Doane College in Crete. Prior to his leaving for Rochester in October of 1951 he served as manager of the Chamber of Commerce at Scottsbluff.

Among other positions he held while in Nebraska were football coach at Fremont and athletic and publicity director at Doane College.

During his illness, Mr. Haylett was recognized by the American Chamber of Commerce Executive Association as one of the first certified chamber executives in the nation. Under his leadership, the Rochester Chamber also received accreditation status earlier this year from the U.S. Chamber of Commrce.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth, his daughter, Mrs. John (Jane) Abney, a brother, Ward H., of Manhattan, Kan., a sister, Mrs. Fannie Cather, of Belle Plaine, Kan., and three grandchildren in Lubbock, Tex.

Services will be held at 9:30 a.m. Friday in the Congregational Church at Rochester. Graveside services and burial will be Saturday at Wyuka Cemetery in Lincoln.

Two-Mile Power Line OK'd For Single Customer

The Nebraska Power Review Board Wednesday granted the North Central Public Power District of Creighton authority to construct two miles of electric transmission line to serve a single farmer in Pierce County.

Gene Doerr, who farms near Plainview, had complained that power received from the Eden Valley Light Co., a small farmers' cooperative, was inadequate and caused his equipment to burn out.

The Eden Valley firm had contested the Creighton company's application to serve Doerr.

Medicare Opposition Predicted

By JOHN ARMSTRONG
Associated Press Writer

Nebraska medical leaders agree a sizable percentage of the state's doctors will boycott the sweeping Medicare health program for the aged when it goes into effect next July.

At this point they said a more exact determination of the extent of the boycott in Nebraska cannot be made.

Nebraska's state plan for participation in Medicare was the first one approved by federal officials, and the state has led the nation in preparing for the massive program for the elderly.

"Whether to participate or not participate in Medicare is a decision which must be made by each individual doctor," said State Health Director E. A. Rogers. "I'm sure a good number of doctors will chose not to take part in the program, and that's their prerogative."

Dr. Otis Miller of Ord, president of the Nebraska Academy of General Practice, said he knows many doctors who will not participate. Dr. Miller himself has decided to boycott the federal health program.

Won't Accept

Dr. Willis Wright of Omaha, president of the State Medical Society, said "a lot of doctors won't participate," but he feels the question of participation is "overrated."

"If a doctor decides not to participate," Dr. Wright said, "his patients simply must receive the Medicare payments and pass them on to the physician, rather than the physician's receiving the payments directly from the federal government."

Dr. Wright said the percentage of nonparticipation probably will be greatest among general practitioners. He noted the Nebraska Academy of General Practice has taken a stronger stand against Medicare than have other medical groups in the state.

The academy, which claims 330 members, recently adopted a statement labeling Medicare "socialized medicine" which forces "physicians and hospitals to be under the bureaucratic control of the federal government and the unwilling guardians of the federal treasury."

"It is ethical, proper, moral and legal not to participate in such socialistic schemes on an individual basis," the statement said.

The American Medical Association (AMA) has advised that doctors could face prosecution under federal antitrust law if they act in concert through a medical organization to boycott the Medicare program.

However, the AMA said it's legal for doctors acting independently to decide against participation in the health program.

Prepared Statement

The statement, prepared by an unidentified source, reads in part:

"I will not participate in Medicare because I am ethically and morally bound to protect you from inferior care.

"I will not sign federal forms and I will not accept federal fees.

"If you need to go to the hospital, I will ask the hospital to admit you in the same manner as I have always done. If the hospital refuses your admittance because it requires that I sign a federal form and agree to government control (which I will not do), it may be necessary for you to find a physician who practices socialized medicine."

Reserve Board Is Defended

New York (AP) — William McChesney Martin, Federal Reserve Board chairman, contended Wednesday the Reserve intends to maintain its independence to act on U.S. money policy "unless and until the law is changed."

In an address to the Life Insurance Association of America Martin said the basic aim of the Reserve and President Johnson's administration is the same — to promote the well-being of the nation's economy.

However, he said the board "cannot take monetary measures that are contrary to our best judgment, or refrain from taking measures that we consider necessary."

Heavy Applause

Martin received heavy applause from the audience of nearly 1,000 insurance executives when he told them:

"Unless and until the law is changed, I should consider it a violation of my oath of office to vote for or against a policy measure for any reason other than my best judgment of that measure on its merits."

It was Martin's first public comment on the board's boost in the bank discount rate from 4 to 4½%. The board also raised the ceiling on time deposits of 30 days or more from 4½ to 5½%. The actions have led to a general rise in the cost of borrowing.

No Criticism

The reserve's interest increases were counter to the expressed policy of the President, who sought to keep interest rates down. Martin did not criticize the President, nor did he criticize administration monetary policy.

Some congressmen have called for investigations of the interest rate boost.

Martin said the interest rate boost was intended "not to reduce the pace of the economy's expansion but to moderate mounting demands for bank credit that might jeopardize that pace by overstimulating the economy."

The Johnson administration has contended that increased interest rates would tend to halt the nation's remarkable economic expansion, now in its 58th month.

AP Special Correspondent

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin's outburst of anger at the Johnson administration indicates a Russian mood of frustration, and perhaps the collapse of any Soviet hope of political settlement in Viet Nam.

The man who blasted U.S. policies this week was a different Kosygin from the one of just a year ago. Then he was cautiously promoting the idea of good relations with the United States.

Behind the anger of Kosygin and others who share the collective leadership with him may be a feeling that U.S. policies have played into the hands of the regime's opponents at home, possibly even imperiling the positions of Kosygin and Communist Party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The war in Viet Nam, the constant taunts of the Red Chinese that the Kremlin collaborates with the Americans to seek a solution, and the worry over "European security" — which to the Kremlin means only the question of Germany — appear to have bolstered hard-line elements in the Soviet Communist Party.

Kosygin seemed remarkably sensitive, in his New York Times interview, about questions involving internal Soviet affairs. He mentioned that he would be obliged four months hence — at the 23rd Soviet Communist Congress in March — to report on the next five-year plan. He may run into serious difficulties at that time. If so, he probably will lay much of the blame upon U.S. policies.

A rash of demonstrations in the U.S.S.R. against U.S. policy can hardly be regarded as coincidence These seem part of a campaign to prepare the public for bad news so far as consumer hopes are concerned, and to blame the Americans if the military and heavy industry eat up Soviet wealth.

Year Ago

A year ago Kosygin announced a reduction of $666 million in the military budget. He said this, with an expected U.S. reduction at the time, would be "a certain positive step in the direction of reducing international tension."

This week Kosygin said the U.S.S.R. wanted to cut arms expenditures but it could not because of U.S. policies in Viet Nam and West Germany. He said further that a Johnson visit would be impossible until war's end in Viet Nam, and apparently he saw no end in sight

Between last December and now, Kosygin tried to apply Soviet influence to the Viet Nam situation, and found himself thwarted and rebuffed by China's threat to support a worldwide breakaway communist movement.

If there had been some inclination in North Viet Nam to go to a conference table on terms short of demanding full U.S. surrrender, that seems to have vanished.

The North Viet Nam regime is pictured by British newsman James Cameron, who has visited Hanoi, as utterly confident of victory, even if it should take a long time. Victory, in the Hanoi view, would be complete U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam.

This confidence apparently was bolstered by the outbreak of protests in the United States, which the communists seem to want to regard as irresistible pressure on the Johnson administration to withdraw from Viet Nam.

Thus, the stalemate has deepened. For the Brezhnev Kosygin regime, the Asian situation represents an insurmountable obstacle to reduction of East-West tensions. It is all the more so when it is coupled with deep Soviet suspicion of any German role in Atlantic nuclear defenses.

Indeed, the German issue alone would be enough to hand a weapon to militarist-minded elements for enforcing their demands on Soviet planners. The German issue, in fact, probably is the more important.

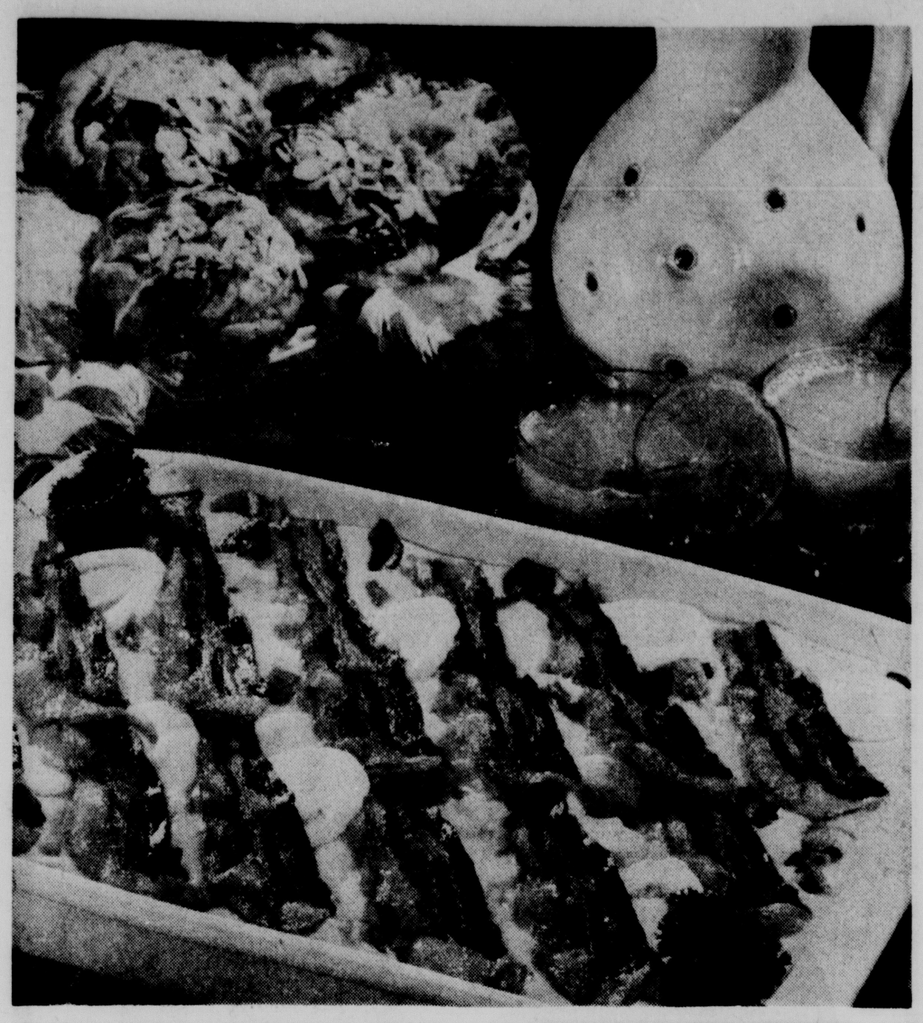
OPEN EVERY NIGHT 'TIL CHRISTMAS

FOOD

Christmas morning brunch



Brunch is now an American institution. It fits our casual way of living perfectly. Served buffet-style, a Christmas morning brunch is a wonderful way to have a relaxed and enjoyable family meal or entertain friends easily.

Bacon and Eggs Mornay is a meal-in-a-dish, an excellent entree to serve for brunch, lunch or supper. This casserole is easy to prepare and serve, and gives everyone's favorite breakfast foods, bacon and eggs, a touch of glamour. To make the last-minute preparation of brunch as easy as possible, the sauce and eggs may be cooked early in the day or the night before, and stored in the refrigerator until serving time. The bacon, too, could be prepared early, stored in the refrigerator and quickly warmed in a skillet over very low heat just before using.

For a company brunch, serve Bacon and Eggs Mornay plain, in heated patty shells or on toasted English muffins. The menu could include glasses of chilled tangerine or orange-pineapple juice garnished with wheels of lime, piping hot sweet rolls, butter balls and plenty of hot coffee or chocolate. An elegant dessert could be added, perhaps peaches or bananas flambe or ice cream topped with cherries jubilee.

BACON AND EGGS MORNAY

1 pound bacon
¼ cup diced onion
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon paprika
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 cup shredded American cheese (¼ pound)
⅔ cup chopped peeled tomato
¼ cup diced green pepper
8 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
6 patty shells or butter toasted English muffins, optional

Fry bacon util crisp and save 3 tablespoons drippings. Save 12 bacon strips for top of casserole. Break remaining slices into 1-inch lengths. Saute onion in drippings until soft. Blend in flour, salt and paprika. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add mustard, cheese, tomato and green pepper; stir and heat. Pour ½ of the sauce into a shallow 1½ quart baking dish. Add ⅓ of the egg slices and ½ of the small bacon pieces. Repeat. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) until heated, about 20 minutes. Top with remaining egg slices and bacon strips and return to oven to heat, about 5 minutes. Serve as is or in heated patty shells or on buttered toasted English muffins. Yield: 6 servings.

OVEN JOYS

QUICK POPPY SEED COOKIES

Prepare 1 package cookie mix according to directions on the package. Chill for 1 hour or until dough is easy to handle. Shape into 1-inch balls. Dip in ¼ cup toasted poppy seed. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes or or until done.

Yield: 4 dozen cookies.

To toast sesame seed, place sesame seed in a shallow pan. Toast in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 to 22 minutes or until golden brown.

KRUMKAKE

1 egg
½ cup sugar
1 cup whipping cream
1¼ cups flour
½ tsp. b. powder
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla

Beat the egg. Add sugar and vanilla. Add whipping cream. Then add dry ingredients and beat until smooth. When krumkake is hot, put teaspoon of batter on iron and bake until light brown. Roll on stick immediately when krumkakes are still hot.

BROWN AND SERVE SWEET ROLLS

Bake 2 packages brown and serve rolls (12 rolls per package) according to directions on the package. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add 2 tablespoons light corn syrup, ½ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed, and 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Add ¼ cup chopped pecans and pour over the tops of the rolls. Serve warm.

Yield: 24 rolls.

CARAWAY SEED PARTY ROLLS

Prepare 1 box hot roll mix according to directions on package, add ¼ cup caraway seeds to dry mix. Let rise according to directions. Punch down and work dough on a lightly floured board, kneading about 1 minute. Pinch off pieces of dough and roll between palms to 5 inch lengths. Shape into bowknots. Place on lightly greased cookie sheets. Beat 1 egg white until foamy and brush over top of rolls. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons caraway seeds. Let rise until double in size. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 degrees F.) 15 minutes.

Yield: 2 dozen party-size rolls.

Russians' Mood Said Frustration

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

WRITE . . . to RITA

The world is full of smart women — with secrets. In this column, as those who have read it before already know — secrets are shared. These little hush-hush gems often give a lift and a lilt to the homemaker who isn't aware of shortcuts, and new ideas. We hope that you will continue with your generosity.

One of our readers did. This morning she tells us what to do with old and worn Christmas tree balls —

So, to get the ball rolling — Christmas tree balls, that is — here on the instructions:

The idea uses old Christmas tree balls. Use any balls of which you are tired. If they have a design on them they must be of the type that can be readily covered by paint. If the balls are faded or already have a design on them cover them with one or two coats of spray paint or paint with a brush. Solid color balls that have a good color need not be painted unless you wish them to be a different color.

If you wish, you may sprinkle the balls with a contrasting or matching color of glitter while they are still wet from the painting. Or, you may sprinkle one half of each ball with the glitter, leaving the other half plain. Try gluing a decal on some of the plain sides. A row of sequins may be glued between the two halves. A few jewels may be glued here and there on the glittered sides and among the sequins. Don't overdo the balls. A few ornaments tastefully placed will be much prettier than too many.

Another method of decorating with glitter would be to write a name or greeting with a tube of glue, such as Elmers or Sobo, on one side of a ball. Sprinkle with glitter while the glue is still wet. Besides decorating the tree, the balls with the names could be used in place of placecards on the Christmas table. They could also be used to identify stockings hung on the mantle. Just hang a ball with the owners' name above each stocking. Pretty, don't you think?

For other decorations on the balls use decals or pictures that you cut from old greeting cards, magazines, etc. Some designs that would be very good are Santas, Christmas trees, snow scenes, churches and angels. There are many other designs. Designs that are on thin paper are easier to apply. If necessary cut slits around the edges of the design, before applying glue, to make picture fit better. A decal on one side, a greeting or name on the other, would make a pretty ball. You could put decals on both sides and apply a line of glitter around the seam of the ball.

'Granny' Dress Began As Joke

The nationwide "granny-dress" fad, so popular among today's fashion conscious teen-age girls, had its beginning on television star Sam Riddle's three shows.

Granny dresses are simply what the name implies: ankle-length dresses, usually with an empire waist, trimmed with lace and ruffled sleeves and executed in provincial prints and even homespun. However, there are many variations on this basic theme. How did it really begin?

Well, host Sam Riddle one day teased a girl on the show about her extremely short skirt. As a joke, she turned up the next day wearing the first Granny dress.

Girls who saw the show stormed the stores in search of Grannies. When they failed to find them in the stores, they made their own.

As more Grannies appeared on the streets, more girls tried to buy them. It quickly dawned on the stores that they had a good thing going.

The stores went to the manufacturers, who have been working feverishly ever since to keep pace with the demand.

One manufacturer, in little more than three weeks of production, reported he had sold more than 10,000. Another estimated he had sold 12,000 in the first three weeks of September — in Southern California alone!

While the style originated in California, where they are worn everywhere—at Disneyland, at teen-age night clubs, at the beach and even in school—the fad has spread across the nation. The speed with which the fad has caught on is attributed primarily to the television show, where almost all the guests wear Grannies.

"It's the first clothing trend that really makes the girls look feminine," Riddle says. "They just seem to have more poise and personality whenever they put on the Grannies."

Granny wearers give various answers when asked to explain the appeal of the dresses that look like refugees from the 19th Century.

"It's a fad and I wanted to be part of it," said a third.

"I think they're more fem-a fourth explained.

Riddle is glum about only one aspect of the entire Granny fad. His girl expressed a desire for a Granny. Benevolently, Sam told her to pick one out and have the bill sent to him. The young lady, lovely fashion model Adrienne Evans, headed straight for famed designer Mr. Blackwell, who obliged with a Granny and a bill for $700.

Appointed To Office

At the Tuesday meeting of the Jay-Husker Council of Girl Scouts board of directors, announcement was made by Mrs. Clifford Hardin, membership-nominating chairman, of the appointment of Mrs. Darrel Seng as first vice president of the council.

Also appointed to office was Mrs William Rapp of Crete, who will serve as troop camp chairman.

LIVE and LEARN

For that certain someone on the Christmas list who enjoys a novel pen, a nationally known company has created one made from Spanish silver. This isn't ordinary silver, because it went to the bottom of the sea 250 years ago. The silver was recovered and the pen company decided to use a part of it to make special writing implements. Each is packed in a handrubbed walnut box. Incidentally, only 4,821 of these pens are being manufactured.

Another invention in time for Christmas, which may decide the problem of what to give father, is a lightweight device that waxes and polishes a car. Father's muscles may relax, as electricity provides the power. And of course the waxer gets its electrical power from the car cigarette lighter socket.

Something new for the homeowner's Christmas box could be a device that puts an end to fumbling for slots in electrical outlets. An ivory-colored receptacle contains a neon bulb located inside the top molded pieces that provides enough light to see the plug plus the fact that it doubles for a night light.

For the sportsman on the list, inventors have come up with a new lightweight, durable golf club carrier that weights only a few ounces. Even with its light weight, this new piece of equipment is able to carry up to six woods and irons. It is not, however, supposed to be a permanent substitute for the golf bag of the more serious golfer.

If a cook book is on the list, you may tack this recipe in the front. Mrs. George Fox of Hartington has a way of making jelly from the juice of boiled red corncobs. The result? Well, it tastes like apple jelly. She clipped this method out of a farm magazine some ten years ago and is now giving it to friends for early Christmas gifts.

One grocery item to be introduced in early January will be a welcomed gift for all shoppers. Those weekly duties in the neighborhood store will be made much easier with the new clear plastic packages that take the guess work out of what meat looks like on the bottom. This new invention lets the food shopper know what's on all sides of what they are buying. The plastic tray can also be put right into the freezer.

Program Speakers

Impromptu talks on current events highlighted the dinner-meeting of the Lincoln Toastmistress Club Monday evening at the Hotel Capital.

Mrs. Randy Streeten served as topic mistress, and speakers were Mrs. Dorothy Cristo, Mrs. Irvin J. Mahoney, Mrs. Bryan Stromer and Mrs. Russell C. Trott. Mrs. Cristo also conducted a lesson on descriptive conversation.

Speakers for the evening's program, for which Mrs. Wallace C. Peterson served as toastmistress, were Mrs. Lavon J. Sumption, "Why Vietnam?"; Miss Ann Gustafson, "Our Government and Us"; Mrs. Josephine Eyen, "A Woman Courageous"; and Miss Cora Mae Briggs, "Is the Earth Expanding?"

FOOD

Christmas morning brunch

Brunch is now an American institution. It fits our casual way of living perfectly. Served buffet-style, a Christmas morning brunch is a wonderful way to have a relaxed and enjoyable family meal or entertain friends easily.

Bacon and Eggs Mornay is a meal-in-a-dish, an excellent entree to serve for brunch, lunch or supper. This casserole is easy to prepare and serve, and gives everyone's favorite breakfast foods, bacon and eggs, a touch of glamour. To make the last-minute preparation of brunch as easy as possible, the sauce and eggs may be cooked early in the day or the night before, and stored in the refrigerator until serving time The bacon, too, could be prepared early, stored in the refrigerator and quickly warmed in a skillet over very low heat just before using

For a company brunch, serve Bacon and Eggs Mornay plain, in heated patty shells or on toasted English muffins. The menu could include glasses of chilled tangerine or orange-pineapple juice garnished with wheels of lime, piping hot sweet rolls, butter balls and plenty of hot coffee or chocolate. An elegant dessert could be added, perhaps peaches or bananas flambe or ice cream topped with cherries jubilee.

BACON AND EGGS MORNAY

1 pound bacon
¼ cup diced onion
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon paprika
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 cup shredded American cheese (¼ pound)
⅔ cup chopped peeled tomato
¼ cup diced green pepper
8 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
6 patty shells or butter toasted English muffins, optional

Fry bacon util crisp and save 3 tablespoons drippings. Save 12 bacon strips for top of casserole. Break remaining slices into 1-inch lengths. Saute onion in drippings until soft. Blend in flour, salt and paprika. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add mustard, cheese, tomato and green pepper; stir and heat. Pour ½ of the sauce into a shallow 1½ quart baking dish. Add ⅓ of the egg slices and ½ of the small bacon pieces. Repeat. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) until heated, about 20 minutes. Top with remaining egg slices and bacon strips and return to oven to heat, about 5 minutes. Serve as is or in heated patty shells or on buttered toasted English muffins. Yield: 6 servings.

OVEN JOYS

QUICK POPPY SEED COOKIES

Prepare 1 package cookie mix according to directions on the package Chill for 1 hour or until dough is easy to handle. Shape into 1-inch balls Dip in ¼ cup toasted poppy seed Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes or or until done

Yield: 4 dozen cookies

To toast sesame seed, place sesame seed in a shallow pan Toast in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 to 22 minutes or until golden brown

KRUMKAKE

1 egg
½ cup sugar
1 cup whipping cream
1¼ cups flour
½ tsp. b. powder
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla

Beat the egg. Add sugar and vanilla Add whipping cream Then add dry ingredients and beat until smooth When krumkake is hot, put teaspoon of batter on iron and bake until light brown. Roll on stick immediately when krumkakes are still hot.

BROWN AND SERVE SWEET ROLLS

Bake 2 packages brown and serve rolls (12 rolls per package) according to directions on the package. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add 2 tablespoons light corn syrup, ½ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed, and 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Add ¼ cup chopped pecans and pour over the tops of the rolls Serve warm

Yield: 24 rolls.

CARAWAY SEED PARTY ROLLS

Prepare 1 box hot roll mix according to directions on package, add ¼ cup caraway seeds to dry mix. Let rise according to directions. Punch down and work dough on a lightly floured board, kneading about 1 minute. Pinch off pieces of dough and roll between palms to 5 inch lengths. Shape into bowknots Place on lightly greased cookie sheets. Beat 1 egg white until foamy and brush over top of rolls. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons caraway seeds. Let rise until double in size. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 degrees F.) 15 minutes

IT'S FUN to play Santa for children

It will be a happy Christmas for the foster children of Nebraska if the members of the Mrs. JayCees have their way. The organization not only will provide the funds for the gifts, but each child's expressed wish will be fulfilled as nearly as possible.

Following a Christmas luncheon Wednesday at the Black Coach Inn, the Lincoln Mrs. JayCees entertained a few of the community's foster children and their mothers.

THE TALK around the town

There is more news of Christmas guests this morning—We learned that Mr and Mrs. William Devries and their three children, Gretchen, Tommy and Marianne. will be arriving from Oxon Hill, Md., on Tuesday, Dec. 21, to spend the holidays with Mr. Devries' mother, Mrs. Donald Devries.

And joining the family group in time for Christmas will be another son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Devries and their children, Bill, David, Alice, Laura and Anne, of Omaha

* * *

Speaking of guests—We want to take you back to last weekend and news of a guest couple—Mr. and Mrs. John Knudsen of Creston, Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Knudsen came last Friday to surprise Mrs. Richard O. Joyce on her birthday, which was Saturday. The surprise had been planned by Mr Joyce.

* * *

Friday night seems to be a busy night around town—There's the Christmas party for the members of the Saturday Nite Club who will dine and dance on Friday evening at Hotel Cornhusker.

The guest couples at the dinner dance will be Mr. and Mrs. Lester Buckley, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sick and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Anderson of Hastings

Planning the details of the affair is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hirsch, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs James Austin, Mr. and Mrs. David Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Brubaker, Mr. and Mrs Harry Bull and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cooper.

* * *

It will be a Candy Cane Caper for the members of the Revelers Club Friday evening when they will meet for dinner and dancing at the Lincoln Country Club.

The colorful decorations of real candy canes are creations of a committee headed by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Phillips assisted by Mr and Mrs. Robert Ammon, Dr. and Mrs. Quentin Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Carrier, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Forke and Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Maness.

Introduced as new members of the club will be Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fijan and Dr. and Mrs. William R. Weyhrauch, and club guests for the evening will include Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Border, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Moreland, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Showers, Mr. and Mrs. George McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. John Pavich, and Mrs. David Hollenbaugh.

Director

Mrs. Gary O'Mara has been appointed to the professional staff of the Lincoln Council of Camp Fire Girls, and will serve as director of District 1 and of Camp Kiwanis during the summer.

THERE'S news of Christmas in suburban areas

There is just a little of everything going on in the suburban areas this morning, and unfortunately one of those little things that seems to be going around quite rapidly is the common cold; the common flu and the not-so-common chicken pox.

But there is a bright side to this so-called "season of sickness" and that is that everyone can get the nasty disease bugs out of their systems before the holidays arrive.

But aside from all the unpleasantees, there is still plenty of social news to hear about.

PARK MANOR

Returning sometime today will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peterson who have been in Chicago, Ill. since last Saturday The couple attended a home builders convention while in the "windy city" and also planned to spend some of their free time touring the exciting city.

Staying with the Petersons' three children—at home were Mrs. Peterson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Wells.

One monthly card group in the Park Manor area had its Christmas party last Saturday evening. The get-together was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs William Saylor, and the club members who were all present for the gay evening included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Drohman and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gross. Winning prizes for the high score that evening were Mrs Saylor and Mrs. Matthews and the two accepting the prizes for being low were Mr. Gross and Mrs. Drohman.

The members of the Park Manor knitting club will meet next Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Charles Mulvaney. The members will exchange gifts before heading for the State Hospital where the club will present small knitted items to the children—it sounds like a morning filled with fun for all.

FIENE HEIGHTS

It is with regret that we mention the departure of Mr. and Mrs Orville Hewitt. The couple moved early this week for their new home location which is at Chasefield AFB, Beeville, Tex. Suburbanites will remember Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt as busy people, socially speaking that is, and will particularly recall Mrs. Hewitt's active participation in the "TOPS" Club. But we know that this fun couple will soon be replaced by new residents who we hope will be moving in real soon—Who will they be? No one seems to know, but that's part of the fun of losing and gaining neighbors.

While we are on the subject of newcomers, we would like to mention Mr and Mrs. Tom Allen who have resided at 2523 Kessler Blvd. since the early part of November. The couple has four children, Cynthia Joy who is six years old and a first grader at Merle Beattie, Sheryl Marie who is five years old and a kindergarten student at Merle Beattie. At home are Mr. and Mrs. Allen's two sons, Raymond Scott who is four, and Ricky Curtis who is two years old. Before Mr. Allen received a new assignment in Lincoln with the Burlington Railroad, the family lived in Denton

LINCOLN HEIGHTS

Guests have come and gone in the Lincoln Heights area and at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Miller. Their visitors for a few days were Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bopf of Moline, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Bopf also came for a visit with Mrs. Bopf's mother, Mrs. Lillian Wright. At the end of their stay in Lincoln Mrs. Bopf and her mother, Mrs. Wright left on a short vacation trip to Los Angeles, Calif.—and Mr. Bopf? It was back home to Moline for him.

Yule Party

Making plans for their annual Christmas party are the members of Nebraska Alpha Chapter, Delta Theta Chi national educational sorority. The party will be held Saturday, Dec. 18, in the Mardi Gras Room of the Omaha Athletic Club.

WRITE . . . to RITA

The world is full of smart women — with secrets. In this column, as those who have read it before already know — secrets are shared. These little hush-hush gems often give a lift and a lilt to the homemaker who isn't aware of shortcuts, and new ideas. We hope that you will continue with your generosity.

One of our readers did. This morning she tells us what to do with old and worn Christmas tree balls —

So, to get the ball rolling — Christmas tree balls, that is — here on the instructions:

The idea uses old Christmas tree balls. Use any balls of which you are tired. If they have a design on them they must be of the type that can be readily covered by paint. If the balls are faded or already have a design on them cover them with one or two coats of spray paint or paint with a brush. Solid color balls that have a good color need not be painted unless you wish them to be a different color.

If you wish, you may sprinkle the balls with a contrasting or matching color of glitter while they are still wet from the painting. Or, you may sprinkle one half of each ball with the glitter, leaving the other half plain. Try gluing a decal on some of the plain sides. A row of sequins may be glued between the two halves. A few jewels may be glued here and there on the glittered sides and among the sequins. Don't overdo the balls. A few ornaments tastefully placed will be much prettier than too many.

Another method of decorating with glitter would be to write a name or greeting with a tube of glue, such as Elmers or Sobo, on one side of a ball. Sprinkle with glitter while the glue is still wet. Besides decorating the tree, the balls with the names could be used in place of placecards on the Christmas table. They could also be used to identify stockings hung on the mantle. Just hang a ball with the owners' name above each stocking. Pretty, don't you think?

For other decorations on the balls use decals or pictures that you cut from old greeting cards, magazines, etc. Some designs that would be very good are Santas, Christmas trees, snow scenes, churches and angels. There are many other designs. Designs that are on thin paper are easier to apply. If necessary cut slits around the edges of the design, before applying glue, to make picture fit better. A decal on one side, a greeting or name on the other, would make a pretty ball. You could put decals on both sides and apply a line of glitter around the seam of the ball.

'Granny' Dress Began As Joke

The nationwide "granny-dress" fad, so popular among today's fashion conscious teen-age girls, had its beginning on television star Sam Riddle's three shows.

Granny dresses are simply what the name implies: ankle-length dresses, usually with an empire waist, trimmed with lace and ruffled sleeves and executed in provincial prints and even homespun. However, there are many variations on this basic theme. How did it really begin?

Well, host Sam Riddle one day teased a girl on the show about her extremely short skirt. As a joke, she turned up the next day wearing the first Granny dress.

Girls who saw the show stormed the stores in search of Grannies. When they failed to find them in the stores, they made their own.

As more Grannies appeared on the streets, more girls tried to buy them. It quickly dawned on the stores that they had a good thing going.

The stores went to the manufacturers, who have been working feverishly ever since to keep pace with the demand.

One manufacturer, in little more than three weeks of production, reported he had sold more than 10,000. Another estimated he had sold 12,000 in the first three weeks of September — in Southern California alone!

While the style originated in California, where they are worn everywhere—at Disneyland, at teen-age night clubs, at the beach and even in school—the fad has spread across the nation. The speed with which the fad has caught on is attributed primarily to the television show, where almost all the guests wear Grannies.

"It's the first clothing trend that really makes the girls look feminine," Riddle says. "They just seem to have more poise and personality whenever they put on the Grannies."

Granny wearers give various answers when asked to explain the appeal of the dresses that look like refugees from the 19th Century.

"It's a fad and I wanted to be part of it," said a third.

"I think they're more fem-a fourth explained.

Riddle is glum about only one aspect of the entire Granny fad. His girl expressed a desire for a Granny. Benevolently, Sam told her to pick one out and have the bill sent to him. The young lady, lovely fashion model Adrienne Evans, headed straight for famed designer Mr. Blackwell, who obliged with a Granny and a bill for $700.

Appointed To Office

At the Tuesday meeting of the Jay-Husker Council of Girl Scouts board of directors, announcement was made by Mrs. Clifford Hardin, membership-nominating chairman, of the appointment of Mrs. Darrel Seng as first vice president of the council.

Also appointed to office was Mrs William Rapp of Crete, who will serve as troop camp chairman.

LIVE and LEARN

For that certain someone on the Christmas list who enjoys a novel pen, a nationally known company has created one made from Spanish silver. This isn't ordinary silver, because it went to the bottom of the sea 250 years ago. The silver was recovered and the pen company decided to use a part of it to make special writing implements. Each is packed in a handrubbed walnut box. Incidentally, only 4,821 of these pens are being manufactured.

Another invention in time for Christmas, which may decide the problem of what to give father, is a lightweight device that waxes and polishes a car. Father's muscles may relax, as electricity provides the power. And of course the waxer gets its electrical power from the car cigarette lighter socket.

Something new for the homeowner's Christmas box could be a device that puts an end to fumbling for slots in electrical outlets. An ivory-colored receptacle contains a neon bulb located inside the top molded pieces that provides enough light to see the plug plus the fact that it doubles for a night light.

For the sportsman on the list, inventors have come up with a new lightweight, durable golf club carrier that weights only a few ounces. Even with its light weight, this new piece of equipment is able to carry up to six woods and irons. It is not, however, supposed to be a permanent substitute for the golf bag of the more serious golfer.

If a cook book is on the list, you may tack this recipe in the front. Mrs. George Fox of Hartington has a way of making jelly from the juice of boiled red corncobs. The result? Well, it tastes like apple jelly. She clipped this method out of a farm magazine some ten years ago and is now giving it to friends for early Christmas gifts.

One grocery item to be introduced in early January will be a welcomed gift for all shoppers. Those weekly duties in the neighborhood store will be made much easier with the new clear plastic packages that take the guess work out of what meat looks like on the bottom. This new invention lets the food shopper know what's on all sides of what they are buying. The plastic tray can also be put right into the freezer.

Program Speakers

Bouquets of white chrysanthemums and pink gladioli formed the background in the Evangelical Covenant Church at Wakefield, Sunday, Dec. 5, for the candlelight wedding of Miss Beverly Joy Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Baker, Wakefield, and Dennis John Lapic, son of Mrs. Raymond Lapic of Hopkins, Minn., and the late Mr. Lapic. The 4 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Fred Jansson.

Wearing long-skirted frocks of red velveteen with brow veils in matching tone held by velveteen roses were Miss Rogene Nelson, the maid of honor, and Mrs. Ronald Hall, the matron of honor, both of Lincoln; and the junior bridesmaids, Miss Jennifer Baker and Miss Cynthia Baker, Pender. They carried nosegays of pink carnations.

Darrel Baker of Pender, brother of the bride, served Mr. Lapic as best man, and the corps of ushers included Edward Zellers, Sioux City, Ia.; Stanley Baier, Wayne; Edward Pittinger, South Sioux City; and Ronald Hall, Lincoln.

The bride's gown of white peau de soie was patterned with jeweled appliques of Chantilly lace in the rose motif. A high throatline and long sleeves accented the snug basque, and the skirt was caught into back fullness beneath a large rose of the silk and continued into a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was held by a cluster of silk petals traced with pearls, and she carried a cascade of pink sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Lapic will make their home in Lincoln, at 201 So. 30th.

Business Has Lured Women Away From Their Kitchens

The day is long gone when a woman's world is what she can see through her kitchen window. The lady who has the title of wife, mother and homemaker, has a hankering for other titles—in the business world. The number of women who are punching time clocks, dictating to secretaries, or who are comparing debits and credits in their own businesses increased by 5 million between the years of 1950—and 1964.

Mrs. Katherine B. Oettinger, chief of the Children's Bureau, Welfare Administration, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, gives you the following facts and figures.

What would happen if every woman working in the United States suddenly quit her job?

Where would we find enough teachers to see that our children get an adequate education?

What would business and industry do to replace women who are carrying out essential management functions, as well as working in shops and factories?

How would most restaurants manage to serve their patrons? Who would wait on us in the department stores?

How would nursing services be provided in our hospitals?

Who would staff the health and social agencies which look after many needs of our population?

Of course, no one thinks that every woman would or even could quit her job. The fact is, women do work and in ever-increasing numbers. We have passed the point in the history of our great Nation when we can any longer say that woman's place is only in the home.

Since World War II, there has been a quiet revolution underway. The women who entered the labor force during the War to help us win it have stayed on to work at peacetime jobs. What no one realized was that once women entered the labor force they were there to stay, regardless of traditional public attitudes about the need for women to remain in their homes.

Many of these women were working mothers. During the war years, their children received day care under provisions of the Lanham Act, which lapsed once the war effort was over.

But the need of mothers to find adequate day care arrangements for their children not only has continued but is increasing.

The number of working mothers more than doubled between 1950 and 1964, increasing by nearly 5 million. Between 1963 and 1980 we can expect an additional increase of 45 percent in the number of working women—many of them mothers.

Most women work for economic reasons. Many of them head one-parent families where the husband has deserted, where the parents are divorced or where the husband is dead. These women are the sole support of their children. They have a choice: they can go to work and support their children and maintain a home, they can put their children in some kind of foster care, or they can accept public assistance and stay at home to care for their children themselves.

The vast majority prefer to go to work.

There are other mothers who work because they have high aspirations for their children: they want them to go to college and unless the mother works to supplement her husband's salary, college may well be out of the question for their children.

Some mothers work because they think they can play a creative role in making life better for all of us.

Many of these women need day care for their children, especially young children. Nearly four million working mothers have children under 6. Nearly 6 million have children 6 to 17 years of age.

What is happening to these children?

a GAS Range or GAS Dryer

A new gas range or gas dryer is sure to make a hit with the lady of the house who has a practical bent. A modern gas range gives her the kind of help she wants in her kitchen. Automatically controlled burners to do the pot watching...cook and keep oven control to keep foods hot for serving. In the laundry a gas dryer gives her the kind of help she wants...fast, dependable clothes drying. And the lady with a practical bent knows that gas dries clothes at far, far less cost.

IT'S FUN to play Santa for children

It will be a happy Christmas for the foster children of Nebraska if the members of the Mrs. JayCees have their way. The organization not only will provide the funds for the gifts, but each child's expressed wish will be fulfilled as nearly as possible.

Following a Christmas luncheon Wednesday at the Black Coach Inn, the Lincoln Mrs. JayCees entertained a few of the community's foster children and their mothers.

THE TALK around the town

There is more news of Christmas guests this morning—We learned that Mr and Mrs. William Devries and their three children, Gretchen, Tommy and Marianne, will be arriving from Oxon Hill, Md., on Tuesday, Dec. 21, to spend the holidays with Mr. Devries' mother, Mrs. Donald Devries.

And joining the family group in time for Christmas will be another son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Devries and their children, Bill, David, Alice, Laura and Anne, of Omaha

* * *

Speaking of guests—We want to take you back to last weekend and news of a guest couple—Mr. and Mrs. John Knudsen of Creston, Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Knudsen came last Friday to surprise Mrs. Richard O Joyce on her birthday, which was Saturday. The surprise had been planned by Mr Joyce.

* * *

Friday night seems to be a busy night around town—There's the Christmas party for the members of the Saturday Nite Club who will dine and dance on Friday evening at Hotel Cornhusker.

The guest couples at the dinner dance will be Mr. and Mrs. Lester Buckley, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sick and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Anderson of Hastings

Planning the details of the affair is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hirsch, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs James Austin, Mr. and Mrs. David Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Brubaker, Mr. and Mrs Harry Bull and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cooper.

* * *

It will be a Candy Cane Caper for the members of the Revelers Club Friday evening when they will meet for dinner and dancing at the Lincoln Country Club.

The colorful decorations of real candy canes are creations of a committee headed by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Phillips assisted by Mr and Mrs. Robert Ammon, Dr. and Mrs. Quentin Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Carrier, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Forke and Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Maness.

Introduced as new members of the club will be Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fijan and Dr. and Mrs. William R. Weyhrauch, and club guests for the evening will include Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Border, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Moreland, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Scott, Mr. and Mrs Dale Showers, Mr. and Mrs. George McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. John Pavich, and Mrs. David Hollenbaugh.

Director

Mrs Gary O'Mara has been appointed to the professional staff of the Lincoln Council of Camp Fire Girls, and will serve as director of District 1 and of Camp Kiwanis during the summer.

THERE'S news of Christmas in suburban areas

There is just a little of everything going on in the suburban areas this morning, and unfortunately one of those little things that seems to be going around quite rapidly is the common cold; the common flu and the not-so-common chicken pox.

But there is a bright side to this so-called "season of sickness" and that is that everyone can get the nasty disease bugs out of their systems before the holidays arrive.

But aside from all the unpleasantees, there is still plenty of social news to hear about.

PARK MANOR

Returning sometime today will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peterson who have been in Chicago, Ill. since last Saturday The couple attended a home builders convention while in the "windy city" and also planned to spend some of their free time touring the exciting city.

Staying with the Petersons' three children—at home were Mrs. Peterson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Wells.

One monthly card group in the Park Manor area had its Christmas party last Saturday evening. The get-together was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs William Saylor, and the club members who were all present for the gay evening included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Drohman and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gross. Winning prizes for the high score that evening were Mrs Saylor and Mrs. Matthews and the two accepting the prizes for being low were Mr. Gross and Mrs. Drohman.

The members of the Park Manor knitting club will meet next Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Charles Mulvaney. The members will exchange gifts before heading for the State Hospital where the club will present small knitted items to the children—it sounds like a morning filled with fun for all.

FIENE HEIGHTS

It is with regret that we mention the departure of Mr. and Mrs Orville Hewitt. The couple moved early this week for their new home location which is at Chasefield AFB, Beeville, Tex. Suburbanites will remember Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt as busy people, socially speaking that is, and will particularly recall Mrs. Hewitt's active participation in the "TOPS" Club. But we know that this fun couple will soon be replaced by new residents who we hope will be moving in real soon—Who will they be? No one seems to know, but that's part of the fun of losing and gaining neighbors.

While we are on the subject of newcomers, we would like to mention Mr and Mrs. Tom Allen who have resided at 2523 Kessler Blvd. since the early part of November. The couple has four children, Cynthia Joy who is six years old and a first grader at Merle Beattie, Sheryl Marie who is five years old and a kindergarten student at Merle Beattie. At home are Mr. and Mrs. Allen's two sons, Raymond Scott who is four, and Ricky Curtis who is two years old. Before Mr. Allen received a new assignment in Lincoln with the Burlington Railroad, the family lived in Denton

LINCOLN HEIGHTS

Guests have come and gone in the Lincoln Heights area and at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Miller. Their visitors for a few days were Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bopf of Moline, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Bopf also came for a visit with Mrs. Bopf's mother, Mrs. Lillian Wright. At the end of their stay in Lincoln Mrs. Bopf and her mother, Mrs. Wright left on a short vacation trip to Los Angeles, Calif.—and Mr. Bopf? It was back home to Moline for him.

Yule Party

Making plans for their annual Christmas party are the members of Nebraska Alpha Chapter, Delta Theta Chi national educational sorority. The party will be held Saturday, Dec. 18, in the Mardi Gras Room of the Omaha Athletic Club.

WIVES
of Cornhuskers plan Christmas 'as usual'

When we say that the wives of the football champions—the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers—are planning Christmas 'as usual'—that is exactly what we mean. This year a post-season Bowl game—last year—a post-season Bowl game—and the year before that—and the year before that.

But always there has been Christmas at home.

This year, as in other years, three isn't too much time to enjoy the entire holiday period on the home front—so, Christmas begins a little early.

On Tuesday evening we found the wives of football team members at the home of Mrs. Mike Kennedy where they spent a major portion of the evening helping Mrs. Kennedy with her home decorating.

There was always time out for a cup of coffee, but it appeared that the 'time outs' came in relays—

While Mrs. Kennedy (seated left) Mrs. Lynn Senkbeil, (center) and Mrs. Kelly Petersen were indulging in a coffee break, the other three wives were serving as quarterbacks—calling the plays for the holiday motif.

Needless to say all six of the young wives will be headed for Miami after Christmas.

Brides-Elect Honored

A surprised honoree last Saturday evening was Miss Linda Suzanne Van Landingham, who has chosen Tuesday, Dec. 21, as the date for her marriage to Stephen Douglas Maraman of Bowling Green, Ky.

Entertaining at the surprise courtesy for the bride-elect were Mrs. Gene Curtis, Mrs. Mark Burroughs, Mrs. Don White and Mrs. Bernice Middleton who were hostesses at a party held in the recreation room of the Southview Baptist Church. A miscellaneous shower was presented to the honoree during the evening.

The wedding of Miss Van Landingham, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Van Landingham, and Mr. Maraman will take place at a 7 o'clock evening service, to be solemnized at the Southview Baptist Church.

Entertaining recently at a bridal courtesy was Mrs. Lee Bingham who was a luncheon hostess on Saturday, Nov. 27, honoring January bride-elect, Miss Gaylia Ann Casady. The guests, presented a one-gift shower to the honoree.

Miss Casady will become the bride of Harold Merle Johnson, Jr., on Jan. 30.

BRIDE

Bouquets of white chrysanthemums and pink gladioli formed the background in the Evangelical Covenant Church at Wakefield, Sunday, Dec. 5, for the candlelight wedding of Miss Beverly Joy Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Baker, Wakefield, and Dennis John Lapic, son of Mrs. Raymond Lapic of Hopkins, Minn., and the late Mr. Lapic. The 4 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Fred Jansson.

Wearing long-skirted frocks of red velveteen with brow veils in matching tone held by velveteen roses were Miss Rogene Nelson, the maid of honor, and Mrs. Ronald Hall, the matron of honor, both of Lincoln; and the junior bridesmaids, Miss Jennifer Baker and Miss Cynthia Baker, Pender. They carried nosegays of pink carnations.

Darrel Baker of Pender, brother of the bride, served Mr. Lapic as best man, and the corps of ushers included Edward Zellers, Sioux City, Ia.; Stanley Baier, Wayne; Edward Pittinger, South Sioux City; and Ronald Hall, Lincoln.

The bride's gown of white peau de soie was patterned with jeweled appliques of Chantilly lace in the rose motif. A high throatline and long sleeves accented the snug basque, and the skirt was caught into back fullness beneath a large rose of the silk and continued into a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was held by a cluster of silk petals traced with pearls, and she carried a cascade of pink sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Lapic will make their home in Lincoln, at 201 So. 30th.

Business Has Lured Women Away From Their Kitchens

The day is long gone when a woman's world is what she can see through her kitchen window. The lady who has the title of wife, mother and homemaker, has a hankering for other titles—in the business world. The number of women who are punching time clocks, dictating to secretaries, or who are comparing debits and credits in their own businesses increased by 5 million between the years of 1950—and 1964.

Mrs. Katherine B. Oettinger, chief of the Children's Bureau, Welfare Administration, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, gives you the following facts and figures.

What would happen if every woman working in the United States suddenly quit her job?

Where would we find enough teachers to see that our children get an adequate education?

What would business and industry do to replace women who are carrying out essential management functions, as well as working in shops and factories?

How would most restaurants manage to serve their patrons? Who would wait on us in the department stores?

How would nursing services be provided in our hospitals?

Who would staff the health and social agencies which look after many needs of our population?

Of course, no one thinks that every woman would or even could quit her job. The fact is, women do work and in ever-increasing numbers. We have passed the point in the history of our great Nation when we can any longer say that woman's place is only in the home.

Since World War II, there has been a quiet revolution underway. The women who entered the labor force during the War to help us win it have stayed on to work at peacetime jobs. What no one realized was that once women entered the labor force they were there to stay, regardless of traditional public attitudes about the need for women to remain in their homes.

Many of these women were working mothers. During the war years, their children received day care under provisions of the Lanham Act, which lapsed once the war effort was over.

But the need of mothers to find adequate day care arrangements for their children not only has continued but is increasing.

The number of working mothers more than doubled between 1950 and 1964, increasing by nearly 5 million. Between 1963 and 1980 we can expect an additional increase of 45 percent in the number of working women—many of them mothers.

Most women work for economic reasons. Many of them head one-parent families where the husband has deserted, where the parents are divorced or where the husband is dead. These women are the sole support of their children. They have a choice: they can go to work and support their children and maintain a home, they can put their children in some kind of foster care, or they can accept public assistance and stay at home to care for their children themselves.

The vast majority prefer to go to work.

There are other mothers who work because they have high aspirations for their children: they want them to go to college and unless the mother works to supplement her husband's salary, college may well be out of the question for their children.

Some mothers work because they think they can play a creative role in making life better for all of us.

Many of these women need day care for their children, especially young children. Nearly four million working mothers have children under 6. Nearly 6 million have children 6 to 17 years of age.

What is happening to these children?

a GAS Range or GAS Dryer

A new gas range or gas dryer is sure to make a hit with the lady of the house who has a practical bent. A modern gas range gives her the kind of help she wants in her kitchen. Automatically controlled burners to do the pot watching...cook and keep oven control to keep foods hot for serving. In the laundry a gas dryer gives her the kind of help she wants...fast, dependable clothes drying. And the lady with a practical bent knows that gas dries clothes at far, far less cost.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	1♦	1♠	Pass
2♠	Pass	3♥	Pass
8♠	Pass	4♠

Opening lead—three of diamonds.

The knack of finding sound solutions to difficult problems is potentially one of declarer's most important assets. The fact that a play is rare or unusual is certainly no bar to its use.

Take this hand where South is in four spades. East cashes two diamonds and returns a heart, taken with the ace. How should South play the hand?

If he cashes the A-K-Q of spades, hoping for a 3-3 trump break, he goes down in the actual hand regardless of what he elects to do next. Thus, if he now leads a trump, the defenders cash their diamonds to inflict a three-trick defeat, while if he attempts to run the clubs instead, West ruffs the third one and South eventually goes down two.

What South should do is try to cover not only the possibility that the trumps are divided 3-3, but also the possibility—the more likely one—that the trumps are divided 4-2.

He can accomplish this quite simply by leading a low trump from his hand at trick four and playing a low one from dummy.

This trump-control play renders the opponents helpless. Regardless of what return East makes, the contract is secure. A diamond play permits declarer to ruff in dummy and this make ten tricks, while a more prosaic heart return allows South to make the contract by scoring three spades, two hearts and five clubs.

Of course the play of a low trump from each hand when declarer's trumps are headed by the A-K-Q is highly unusual, but that is not a good excuse for failing to make the play. Practically everyone tries to win, and if an exceptional play is ever necessary to accomplish this, one must be prepared to use such a play as a matter of self interest.

On the rare occasion when it becomes necessary, it is usually easy enough to execute the required play. The hard part is to think of it.

Luncheon

Mrs. Myrtle Loy Harpham will present a program of colored slides on, "Egypt and the Bible Land," at the meeting of the Hall-In-The-Grove, Friday, following a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at the YWCA.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You have certainly caused me a lot of trouble. Ever since Debbie, my 15-year-old daughter read in your column that YOU, personally had your ears pierced so you wouldn't lose your earrings, she has been after me to let her have her ears pierced. You should realize, Abby, that a lot of young people read your column and hold you up as an example, and for you to put stuff like that in your column which is contrary to a mother's way of thinking, only stirs up trouble. In the future, please be a little more thoughtful.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Unfair! I never have had my ears pierced, nor do I intend to. Your daughter did not read that in MY column. Besides, if there's anything I DON'T need, it's two more holes in my head.

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to HEART-SICK MOTHER, who discovered through some letters she shouldn't have read that her 22-year-old daughter was having pre-marital relations with her boy friend. She said, "She has repeatedly condemned girls who have had to get married, but her sin is worse because we are Catholics and do not believe in birth control, which she apparently has been practicing."

Abby, I wish you would clarify that one sentence to your readers. Catholics ARE allowed to practice birth control, but not by artificial methods. It requires sacrifice on the part of both partners, but isn't that what love is based on?

WIVES
of Cornhuskers plan Christmas 'as usual'

When we say that the wives of the football champions—the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers—are planning Christmas 'as usual'—that is exactly what we mean. This year a post-season Bowl game—last year—a post-season Bowl game—and the year before that—and the year before that.

But always there has been Christmas at home.

This year, as in other years, three isn't too much time to enjoy the entire holiday period on the home front—so, Christmas begins a little early.

On Tuesday evening we found the wives of football team members at the home of Mrs. Mike Kennedy where they spent a major portion of the evening helping Mrs. Kennedy with her home decorating.

There was always time out for a cup of coffee, but it appeared that the 'time outs' came in relays—

While Mrs. Kennedy (seated left) Mrs. Lynn Senkbeil, (center) and Mrs. Kelly Petersen were indulging in a coffee break, the other three wives were serving as quarterbacks—calling the plays for the holiday motif.

Needless to say all six of the young wives will be headed for Miami after Christmas.

Brides-Elect Honored

A surprised honoree last Saturday evening was Miss Linda Suzanne Van Landingham, who has chosen Tuesday, Dec 21, as the date for her marriage to Stephen Douglas Maraman of Bowling Green, Ky

Entertaining at the surprise courtesy for the bride-elect were Mrs Gene Curtis, Mrs Mark Burroughs, Mrs. Don White and Mrs. Bernice Middleton who were hostesses at a party held in the recreation room of the Southview Baptist Church A miscellaneous shower was presented to the honoree during the evening

The wedding of Miss Van Landingham, who is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. C E Van Landingham, and Mr Maraman will take place at a 7 o'clock evening service, to be solemnized at the Southview Baptist Church.

Entertaining recently at a bridal courtesy was Mrs. Lee Bingham who was a luncheon hostess on Saturday, Nov. 27, honoring January bride-elect, Miss Gavlia Ann Casady. The guests, presented a one-gift shower to the honoree

Miss Casady will become the bride of Harold Merle Johnson, Jr., on Jan. 30.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	1♦	1♠	Pass
2♠	Pass	3♥	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠

Opening lead—three of diamonds.

The knack of finding sound solutions to difficult problems is potentially one of declarer's most important assets. The fact that a play is rare or unusual is certainly no bar to its use.

Take this hand where South is in four spades. East cashes two diamonds and returns a heart, taken with the ace. How should South play the hand?

If he cashes the A-K-Q of spades, hoping for a 3-3 trump break, he goes down in the actual hand regardless of what he elects to do next. Thus, if he now leads a trump, the defenders cash their diamonds to inflict a three-trick defeat, while if he attempts to run the clubs instead, West ruffs the third one and South eventually goes down two.

What South should do is try to cover not only the possibility that the trumps are divided 3-3, but also the possibility—the more likely one—that the trumps are divided 4-2.

He can accomplish this quite simply by leading a low trump from his hand at trick four and playing a low one from dummy.

This trump-control play renders the opponents helpless. Regardless of what return East makes, the contract is secure. A diamond play permits declarer to ruff in dummy and this make ten tricks, while a more prosaic heart return allows South to make the contract by scoring three spades, two hearts and five clubs.

Of course the play of a low trump from each hand when declarer's trumps are headed by the A-K-Q is highly unusual, but that is not a good excuse for failing to make the play. Practically everyone tries to win, and if an exceptional play is ever necessary to accomplish this, one must be prepared to use such a play as a matter of self interest.

On the rare occasion when it becomes necessary, it is usually easy enough to execute the required play. The hard part is to think of it.

Luncheon

Mrs. Myrtle Loy Harpham will present a program of colored slides on, "Egypt and the Bible Land," at the meeting of the Hall-In-The-Grove, Friday, following a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at the YWCA.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You have certainly caused me a lot of trouble. Ever since Debbie, my 15-year-old daughter read in your column that YOU, personally had your ears pierced so you wouldn't lose your earrings, she has been after me to let her have her ears pierced. You should realize, Abby, that a lot of young people read your column and hold you up as an example, and for you to put stuff like that in your column which is contrary to a mother's way of thinking, only stirs up trouble. In the future, please be a little more thoughtful.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Unfair! I never have had my ears pierced, nor do I intend to. Your daughter did not read that in MY column. Besides, if there's anything I DON'T need, it's two more holes in my head.

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to HEART-SICK MOTHER, who discovered through some letters she shouldn't have read that her 22-year-old daughter was having pre-marital relations with her boy friend. She said, "She has repeatedly condemned girls who have had to get married, but her sin is worse because we are Catholics and do not believe in birth control, which she apparently has been practicing."

Abby, I wish you would clarify that one sentence to your readers. Catholics ARE allowed to practice birth control, but not by artificial methods. It requires sacrifice on the part of both partners, but isn't that what love is based on?

Sex Orgies Among Young Trainees For Coup Encouraged By PKI's Aidit

Jakarta (UPI) — The official Antara news agency said Wednesday Communist Party chief D. N. Aidit encouraged sex orgies among youthful followers in training for the abortive Oct. 1 coup attempt against President Sukarno.

It said young communist men and women spent more than six months indulging nightly "in delirious sexual orgies which the ancient Romans under Nero would have been jealous of."

Antara cited the "confession" of one of the trainees, a 17-year-old married mother of one child, who said Aidit had encouraged free love among youths at the Lubang Buaja training center outside Jakarta.

'Unbridled'

She claimed 400 communist youths engaged in "unbridled" sex at the camp under what Antara said was the influence of special injections "to promote virility."

Antara said the teen-ager had abandoned her husband and child for training at Lubang Buaja which was the site of the massacre of six Indonesian army generals the night of the coup.

She said she was at the camp when the six generals of the army high command were hauled in by trucks and murdered after being kidnaped before dawn.

West Java military interrogators said the girl claimed Aidit exhorted women to be as daring as men and that during a "home leave" in Tegal, central Java, she joined in the murder of youths blacklisted by the Communist Party and marked for death.

The Antara report concluded with the observation that psychological tests on the girl showed her "to be mentally sound and normal."

New Commander Vows PKI Erasure

Meanwhile the newly-installed Jakarta military commander vowed publicly to destroy the Indonesian Communist Party (PKI) which claimed a membership of about 3 million and another 10 million supporters before the coup attempt.

Brig. Gen. Amir Machmud denounced communist coup elements as enemies of the Indonesian revolution during a meeting with newsmen, politicians and student leaders at a soldiers' club near his headquarters.

Student and religious groups joined in endorsing the outlawing of the Communist Party and its affiliates in Jakarta and neighboring communities and appealed to Sukarno to make the ban nationwide. They also denounced Radio Peking attacks on Indonesia's anti-communist drive.

Space Experts Think Dust Buried Luna 8

Washington (UPI) — U.S. space officials think moon dust may have been the cause of Russia's latest failure to make a soft landing on the lunar surface.

The Luna 8, carrying scientific instruments, crashed and died on the moon late Monday after what had seemed to be a perfect flight from a Soviet launching pad. It was the fourth Russian failure to land working instruments on the moon this year.

The United States will begin trying to do the same thing next May or June. It will launch several Surveyor spacecraft in an effort to find out if the moon's surface is firm enough to support a landing by Apollo astronauts before 1970.

Then why did it crash? The theory of many scientists is that the moon's surface is covered by dust or porous rock that could be inches to yards in depth.

One expert said Wednesday the Russian craft's "radar eyes" may have penetrated the dust clear through to the hard rock. The difference in heights could have triggered the braking rockets seconds too late. As a result, Luna 8 could be buried in dust.

Judge Stops Steel Engines Under Gemini

Corpus Christi, Tex. (AP)—Federal Judge Ben C. Connally Wednesday issued a temporary injunction banning a steel fabricating firm from running internal combustion engines while Gemini 7 orbited over this area.

The government, in asking for the injunction, said machinery at Safety Steel Services, Inc., interfered with radio signals to the U.S. space capsule and "threatened the safety of the astronauts."

A 7-year-old, 2½-ton winch truck was blamed by attorneys for the firm with causing the interference.

Shooting Admitted

Lima, Peru (UPI)—The government admitted officially that shots had been fired at an American tuna boat from a Peruvian navy tug in an incident off the Peruvian coast Monday.

Postal Rate Hike Possible In 1966

Washington (UPI)—Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien indicated Wednesday that he soon might seek an increase in postal rates.

Rate changes are under consideration, O'Brien told the National Press Club, in view of vast and costly improvements planned for the mail service.

He said the Post Office Department would decide by early 1966 whether to ask Congress for new rates.

Uncle, Nephew Born Same Time

Oakland, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Leroy Southard, 44, and her daughter, Mrs. Stanley Prock, 20, each gave birth to a son Tuesday.

Small Cities Will Get Single Zip Codes

Washington (UPI) — New single ZIP Code numbers will be assigned Jan. 15 to 643 small and medium-sized cities that now have more than one, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien announced Wednesday in an efficiency move.

He acknowledged some inconvenience to the 3,000,000 persons involved in the change, but noted it won't mean added headaches during the Christmas rush.

In all cases, the changes will involve only the last numeral in the five-digit code. In nearly all areas, O'Brien said, the code number will be the lowest number originally assigned to the community.

At the beginning of the program in 1963, there were 1,076 cities each covered by more than one number. Of these, 433 will keep the two or more ZIP Codes originally assigned to them.

"I am fully aware that this realignment will be a matter of some inconvenience to our customers in the 643 municipalities, especially those who have ordered stationery and mailing equipment with the old ZIP Code on them," O'Brien said.

The Jan. 15 date was selected to avoid any confusion during the Christmas mailing rush, O'Brien said.

Full Agenda Faces Educators At Meet Here

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Educators attending the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA) Delegate Assembly here Friday and Saturday have a full agenda of recommendations and proposals to consider, in addition to selecting new state officers.

Resolutions dominated by requests for professional recognition and compliance with professional standards and several constitutional amendments are to be acted upon by delegates.

Nominated for the office of president-elect, to be voted on and announced Saturday, are Dr. Edwin Nelson, dean of the college and chairman of the graduate council at Chadron State College, and Robert Christie of Omaha, social studies teacher at South High School for 17 years. Nominations also may be accepted from the floor.

Nelson, the immediate past president of NSEA District VI, has held four superintendencies in the state and was associate professor of education at Kearney State College.

Past President

Christie, executive committee consultant for the NSEA professional rights and responsibilities commission, is a past president of NSEA District II.

Delegates to the annual assembly, numbering more than 200, will be asked to resolve that the NSEA initiate and support a professional practices act in the Legislature which would declare teaching a profession "with all rights, responsibilities, and privileges accorded other legally recognized professions."

Such legislation, according to the resolutions committee, should create a professional teaching practices commission to provide expert testimony and to make recommendations involving suspension and revocation of certificates and should establish procedures whereby personnel may confer with the district school board on matters of salary and professional services.

"Teachers should have not only the implied right, but the legal right, to be heard in good faith on policy decisions of the school district which affects them," the committee report commented.

Others

Other resolutions, constitutional amendments, and committee recommendations facing the delegate assembly, meeting at the Nebraska Center, include:

—Repeal of LB234 providing for the sale of school lands as the leases expire.

—Investment of educational monies in securities other than government bonds.

—Opposition to any form of national curriculum or national testing program.

—Establishment of minimum starting salary at $5,300 for a teacher with four years of college and not less than $8,000 annually after 10 years of successful teaching experience.

—Support for establishment of a retirement income equal to at least half the amount of the average of a teacher's annual salary for the five highest years. To accomplish this, the teacher should contribute five to six per cent of total salary to be matched by the state, according to commission on teacher welfare and services.

—Establishment of baccalaureate degree as a minimum for issuance of an initial teaching certificate.

New Talks Set On LAFB

Mayor Dean Petersen said Wednesday that federal officials will meet with Lincoln officials sometime next week to discuss a re-use plan for Lincoln Air Force Base scheduled for deactivation next June.

The mayor told members of the Lincoln Opportunity Team (LOT) that Don Bradford of the U.S. Office of Economic Adjustment and other representatives of the Defense Department would return to Lincoln, having made another trip here in early November.

Team members were also informed that the government has reviewed the LAFB lease and officials feel that the base could have other military or governmental uses after deactivation.

Meanwhile, University of Nebraska officials said they are still hopeful that part of the base can be set aside for an urban Job Corps center for men.

The University and Northern Natural Gas Co. have proposed that a Job Corps center be started at the base next summer.

"Our application still is getting review and we now have people in Washington reviewing it with federal officials," University Vice Chancellor G. Robert Ross said.

Brochure Discussed

LOT members informally discussed an estimated $10,000 promotion brochure aimed at getting industrial and other prospects interested in the base before June, but no final decision was reached.

Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President John Fraker urged the go-ahead on the brochure and added, "We are going to have to get some prospects now."

Sex Orgies Among Young Trainees For Coup Encouraged By PKI's Aidit

Jakarta (UPI) — The official Antara news agency said Wednesday Communist Party chief D. N. Aidit encouraged sex orgies among youthful followers in training for the abortive Oct. 1 coup attempt against President Sukarno.

It said young communist men and women spent more than six months indulging nightly "in delirious sexual orgies which the ancient Romans under Nero would have been jealous of."

Antara cited the "confession" of one of the trainees, a 17-year-old married mother of one child, who said Aidit had encouraged free love among youths at the Lubang Buaja training center outside Jakarta.

'Unbridled'

She claimed 400 communist youths engaged in "unbridled" sex at the camp under what Antara said was the influence of special injections "to promote virility."

Antara said the teen-ager had abandoned her husband and child for training at Lubang Buaja which was the site of the massacre of six Indonesian army generals the night of the coup.

She said she was at the camp when the six generals of the army high command were hauled in by trucks and murdered after being kidnaped before dawn.

West Java military interrogators said the girl claimed Aidit exhorted women to be as daring as men and that during a "home leave" in Tegal, central Java, she joined in the murder of youths blacklisted by the Communist Party and marked for death.

The Antara report concluded with the observation that psychological tests on the girl showed her "to be mentally sound and normal."

New Commander Vows PKI Erasure

Meanwhile the newly-installed Jakarta military commander vowed publicly to destroy the Indonesian Communist Party (PKI) which claimed a membership of about 3 million and another 10 million supporters before the coup attempt.

Brig. Gen. Amir Machmud denounced communist coup elements as enemies of the Indonesian revolution during a meeting with newsmen, politicians and student leaders at a soldiers' club near his headquarters.

Student and religious groups joined in endorsing the outlawing of the Communist Party and its affiliates in Jakarta and neighboring communities and appealed to Sukarno to make the ban nationwide. They also denounced Radio Peking attacks on Indonesia's anti-communist drive.

Space Experts Think Dust Buried Luna 8

Washington (UPI) — U S space officials think moon dust may have been the cause of Russia's latest failure to make a soft landing on the lunar surface.

The Luna 8, carrying scientific instruments, crashed and died on the moon late Monday after what had seemed to be a perfect flight from a Soviet launching pad. It was the fourth Russian failure to land working instruments on the moon this year.

The United States will begin trying to do the same thing next May or June. It will launch several Surveyor spacecraft in an effort to find out if the moon's surface is firm enough to support a landing by Apollo astronauts before 1970.

Then why did it crash? The theory of many scientists is that the moon's surface is covered by dust or porous rock that could be inches to yards in depth.

One expert said Wednesday the Russian craft's "radar eyes" may have penetrated the dust clear through to the hard rock. The difference in heights could have triggered the braking rockets seconds too late. As a result, Luna 8 could be buried in dust.

Judge Stops Steel Engines Under Gemini

Corpus Christi, Tex. (UPI)—Federal Judge Ben C. Connally Wednesday issued a temporary injunction banning a steel fabricating firm from running internal combustion engines while Gemini 7 orbited over this area.

The government, in asking for the injunction, said machinery at Safety Steel Services, Inc., interfered with radio signals to the U S. space capsule and "threatened the safety of the astronauts."

A 7-year-old, 2½-ton winch truck was blamed by attorneys for the firm with causing the interference.

Shooting Admitted

Lima, Peru (UPI)—The government admitted officially that shots had been fired at an American tuna boat from a Peruvian navy tug in an incident off the Peruvian coast Monday.

Postal Rate Hike Possible In 1966

Washington (UPI)—Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien indicated Wednesday that he soon might seek an increase in postal rates.

Rate changes are under consideration, O'Brien told the National Press Club, in view of vast and costly improvements planned for the mail service.

He said the Post Office Department would decide by early 1966 whether to ask Congress for new rates.

Uncle, Nephew Born Same Time

Oakland, Calif. (UPI)—Mrs. Leroy Southard, 44, and her daughter, Mrs. Stanley Prock, 20, each gave birth to a son Tuesday.

The infant uncle—eight pounds—and his new nephew—nine pounds—were born minutes apart—the uncle at Providence Hospital and the nephew at Kaiser Hospital.

Spain produces a million tons of fish a year, valued at about $166 million.

Small Cities Will Get Single Zip Codes

Washington (UPI) — New single ZIP Code numbers will be assigned Jan. 15 to 643 small and medium-sized cities that now have more than one, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien announced Wednesday in an efficiency move.

He acknowledged some inconvenience to the 3,690,000 persons involved in the change, but noted it won't mean added headaches during the Christmas rush.

In all cases, the changes will involve only the last numeral in the five-digit code. In nearly all areas, O'Brien said, the code number will be the lowest number originally assigned to the community.

At the beginning of the program in 1963, there were 1,076 cities each covered by more than one number. Of these, 433 will keep the two or more ZIP Codes origmally assigned to them.

"I am fully aware that this realignment will be a matter of some inconvenience to our customers in the 643 municipalities, especially those who have ordered stationery and mailing equipment with the old ZIP Code on them," O'Brien said.

The Jan. 15 date was selected to avoid any confusion during the Christmas mailing rush, O'Brien said.

On a clear night the naked eye can see about 5,000 stars. In the "neighborhood" of the earth there are at least 300 billion.

Face Of War Being Changed By McNamara, Viet Cong

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and the Viet Cong are changing the face of war.

The defense chief in a new move to revamp the manner in which a nuclear conflict would be waged, set in motion machinery to slice two-thirds of the ntaion's strategic bomber force away in the next half dozen years. The missile will be the delivery weapon.

The style of war the Viet Cong choose to fight in Viet Nam has led McNamara to make profound changes at the other end of the spectrum. To cope with this bushwhacking war, he made far-reaching revisions in organization, in weapons, in tactics. All of it is shaped to the "little" but perhaps long war.

Formless

What about today's war, the one fought by foot soldiers with tactical air support and helicopter lift in Viet Nam's jungles, mountains and rice paddies—a formless, mixed-up war?

The big, eight-jet, long-range B52s of the Strategic Air Command have been put into the Viet Nam war. But their mission there is tactical, not strategic, intended to disrupt Viet Cong supply systems and scatter troops.

Until 1961, the blueprint for conflicts less than nuclear and general war still was drawn generally for formalized battles on definable fronts. The Viet Cong and their allies in North Viet Nam didn't use the blueprint. They are waging it by a welter of little engagements fought the length and breadth of South Viet Nam, by sudden sharp attacks and disappearance into jungle concealment, by ambush, by gaining control of communities and localities.

Different Mode

Tanks and trucks and jeeps and heavy artillery are weapons for use in a battle zone with a reasonable good highway system. Something had to replace that mode of transportation and battle.

Mobility—getting the soldier to the enemy quickly—was the problem. One of McNamara's answers, proposed by the Army, was the "airmobile division," in which men, weapons and munitions were hustled by air to a suspected enemy position or to a friendly position under attack.

So an experimental organization was hurried into operations form and the 1st Cavalry, airmobile, Division (Airmobile)was formed and sent into Viet Nam.

McNamara, in a visit to Viet Nam last month, expressed himself highly pleased with the new type division. He let it be known that one and possibly more similar divisions might be created by converting existing standard divisions.

Out of World War II had evolved the paratroop division type of battle organization. Like the tank, jeep and truck, the paratroop technique works well in formal, open-country warfare. But soldiers drifting down onto a high jungle canopy get hung up; they have but little value. On the other hand, helicopters can put the fighting man and his weapons, including light and medium artillery, directly down and ready for instant battle.

"Equipped with nearly five times as many helicopters as an ordinary division and ouly half as many land-bound vehicles, (the) "Flying Horsemen" are geared to chase the enemy, hit him on the run and keep him from settling down long enough to reorganize and supply".

Mulligan goes on to say:

"Although field commanders are reluctant to say so for a certainty, such thunderbolt tactics have all but made the paratroopers obsolete. Even in the rolling central planes, good jump country by any standards, no combat jumps have been employed in any battle involving Americans. Helicopters can get them in on the ground faster, safe, in combat-ready formation.

"The advent of helicopter warfare has resulted in a tremendous comeback from Army aviation."

Chopper Versatile

As for the role of the helicopter, Mulligan says they perform a wide variety of missions. He wrote:

"On a single day in a single battle . . . they had flown in the troops, resupplied them with food, ammunition and water, carried out the wounded, hauled heavy weapons, brought in urgently needed parts and medical supplies, provided lethal power, served as radio relay and observation posts and enabled the commander to rescramble his battlefield to best tactical advantage in a matter of minutes, rather than days or even weeks."

There is speculation that the next airmobile division may be one of the two existing airborne divisions—with former paratroopers riding in helicopters and then fighting on the ground like infantrymen.

The next airmobile division, however, could be a converted infantry division. Two infantry divisions are now losing some of their heavy equipment and armor, which would ready them for airmobile operations.

CHOPPERS AT BEN CAT . . . put soldiers on ground, then flit away.

Full Agenda Faces Educators At Meet Here

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Educators attending the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA) Delegate Assembly here Friday and Saturday have a full agenda of recommendations and proposals to consider, in addition to selecting new state officers.

Resolutions dominated by requests for professional recognition and compliance with professional standards and several constitutional amendments are to be acted upon by delegates.

Nominated for the office of president-elect, to be voted on and announced Saturday, are Dr. Edwin Nelson, dean of the college and chairman of the graduate council at Chadron State College, and Robert Christie of Omaha, social studies teacher at South High School for 17 years. Nominations also may be accepted from the floor.

Nelson, the immediate past president of NSEA District VI, has held four superintendencies in the state and was associate professor of education at Kearney State College.

Past President

Christie, executive committee consultant for the NSEA professional rights and responsibilities commission, is a past president of NSEA District II.

Delegates to the annual assembly, numbering more than 200, will be asked to resolve that the NSEA initiate and support a professional practices act in the Legislature which would declare teaching a profession "with all rights, responsibilities, and privileges accorded other legally recognized professions."

Such legislation, according to the resolutions committee, should create a professional teaching practices commission to provide expert testimony and to make recommendations involving suspension and revocation of certificates and should establish procedures whereby personnel may confer with the district school board on matters of salary and professional services.

"Teachers should have not only the implied right, but the legal right, to be heard in good faith on policy decisions of the school district which affects them," the committee report commented.

Others

Other resolutions, constitutional amendments, and committee recommendations facing the delegate assembly, meeting at the Nebraska Center, include:

—Repeal of LB234 providing for the sale of school lands as the leases expire.

—Investment of educational monies in securities other than government bonds.

—Opposition to any form of national curriculum or national testing program.

—Establishment of minimum starting salary at $5,300 for a teacher with four years of college and not less than $8,000 annually after 10 years of successful teaching experience.

—Support for establishment of a retirement income equal to at least half the amount of the average of a teacher's annual salary for the five highest years. To accomplish this, the teacher should contribute five to six per cent of total salary to be matched by the state, according to commission on teacher welfare and services.

—Establishment of baccalaureate degree as a minimum for issuance of an initial teaching certificate.

—Endorsement of index salary schedule.

New Talks Set On LAFB

Mayor Dean Petersen said Wednesday that federal officials will meet with Lincoln officials sometime next week to discuss a re-use plan for Lincoln Air Force Base scheduled for deactivation next June.

The mayor told members of the Lincoln Opportunity Team (LOT) that Don Bradford of the U.S. Office of Economic Adjustment and other representatives of the Defense Department would return to Lincoln, having made another trip here in early November.

Team members were also informed that the government has reviewed the LAFB lease and officials feel that the base could have other military or governmental uses after deactivation.

Meanwhile, University of Nebraska officials said they are still hopeful that part of the base can be set aside for an urban Job Corps center for men.

The University and Northern Natural Gas Co. have proposed that a Job Corps center be started at the base next summer.

"Our application still is getting review and we now have people in Washington reviewing it with federal officials," University Vice Chancellor G. Robert Ross said.

Brochure Discussed

LOT members informally discussed an estimated $10,000 promotion brochure aimed at getting industrial and other prospects interested in the base before June, but no final decision was reached.

Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President John Fraker urged the go-ahead on the brochure and added, "We are going to have to get some prospects now."

NASON ON EDUCATION:

Universities Review Their Teacher Training Programs

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Universities on both the East and West coasts are taking a hard look at their programs for the training of future teachers. Nothing could be more important to the nation.

Education, in terms of money, time and effort expended, is our largest industry.

New attempts to shed light on the long-standing controversy regarding methods courses versus subject matter courses will do much to solve this problem.

In an extraordinary action, Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction has authorized Lehigh University to eliminate all state mandatory courses in its teacher education program for a period of seven years. Working with the Department of Public Instruction Bureau of Teacher Education, Lehigh will conduct extensive experimentation in the elimination or modification of the courses presently required.

Just Sprang Up

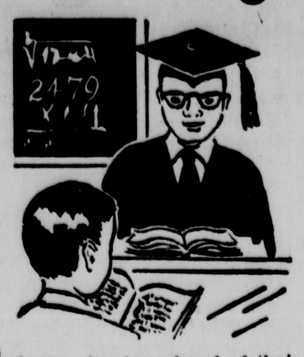
On the other side of the country, the University of California, at its new Irvine campus, is planning a different approach to the improvement of the education of teachers. While this approach is not new, it is unusual for a large university.

The Irvine project is an "Instant University." It leaped into existence this September to a full range of lower division of students. Beginning September, 1966 graduate programs leading to teaching credentials will be offered.

The UCI teacher-education is to be a campuswide endeavor. All academic divisions are to be represented on a council, reporting directly to the Vice Chancellor for academic affairs. Through this body, the University as a whole will assure itself that candidates for teaching credentials are worthy products of the University.

Plan Offers Bonus

Demands on elementary and secondary teachers are increasing. Their pupils are exposed to such a vast range of material through newspapers, magazines, television and travel, the teachers are hard-pressed in some instances to stay ahead of their pupils.



In each area of knowledge, the future teacher needs accurate grounding in fundamentals. Each department—chemistry, biology, English, engineering — will not only be responsible for training experts in its respective field, but for the training in the areas which teachers should receive.

There should be another bonus as an outcome of this plan. Excellence in teaching will in these cases gain recognition that has recently been too often placed on research.

With every department in the university concerned with the development of teachers, it is hoped that the professors will aspire to training through example.

Face Of War Being Changed By McNamara, Viet Cong

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and the Viet Cong are changing the face of war.

The defense chief in a new move to revamp the manner in which a nuclear conflict would be waged, set in motion machinery to slice two-thirds of the ntaion's strategic bomber force away in the next half dozen years. The missile will be the delivery weapon.

The style of war the Viet Cong choose to fight in Viet Nam has led McNamara to make profound changes at the other end of the spectrum. To cope with this bushwhacking war, he made far-reaching revisions in organization, in weapons, in tactics. All of it is shaped to the "little" but perhaps long war.

Formless

What about today's war, the one fought by foot soldiers with tactical air support and helicopter lift in Viet Nam's jungles, mountains and rice paddies—a formless, mixed-up war?

The big, eight-jet, long-range B52s of the Strategic Air Command have been put into the Viet Nam war. But their mission there is tactical, not strategic, intended to disrupt Viet Cong supply systems and scatter troops.

Until 1961, the blueprint for conflicts less than nuclear and general war still was drawn generally for formalized battles on definable fronts. The Viet Cong and their allies in North Viet Nam didn't use the blueprint. They are waging it by a welter of little engagements fought the length and breadth of South Viet Nam, by sudden sharp attacks and disappearance into jungle concealment, by ambush, by gaining control of communities and localities.

Different Mode

Tanks and trucks and jeeps and heavy artillery are weapons for use in a battle zone with a reasonable good highway system. Something had to replace that mode of transportation and battle.

Mobility—getting the soldier to the enemy quickly—was the problem. One of McNamara's answers, proposed by the Army, was the "airmobile division," in which men, weapons and munitions were hustled by air to a suspected enemy position or to a friendly position under attack.

So an experimental organization was hurried into operations form and the 1st Cavalry, airmobile, Division (Airmobile) was formed and sent into Viet Nam.

McNamara, in a visit to Viet Nam last month, expressed himself highly pleased with the new type division. He let it be known that one and possibly more similar divisions might be created by converting existing standard divisions.

Out of World War II had evolved the paratroop division type of battle organization. Like the tank, jeep and truck, the paratroop technique works well in formal, open-country warfare. But soldiers drifting down onto a high jungle canopy get hung up; they have but little value. On the other hand, helicopters can put the fighting man and his weapons, including light and medium artillery, directly down and ready for instant battle.

"Equipped with nearly five times as many helicopters as an ordinary division and only half as many land-bound vehicles, (the) "Flying Horsemen" are geared to chase the enemy, hit him on the run and keep him from settling down long enough to reorganize and supply".

Mulligan goes on to say:

"Although field commanders are reluctant to say so for a certainty, such thunderbolt tactics have all but made the paratroopers obsolete. Even in the rolling central planes, good jump country by any standards, no combat jumps have been employed in any battle involving Americans. Helicopters can get them in on the ground faster, safe, in combat-ready formation.

"The advent of helicopter warfare has resulted in a tremendous comeback from Army aviation."

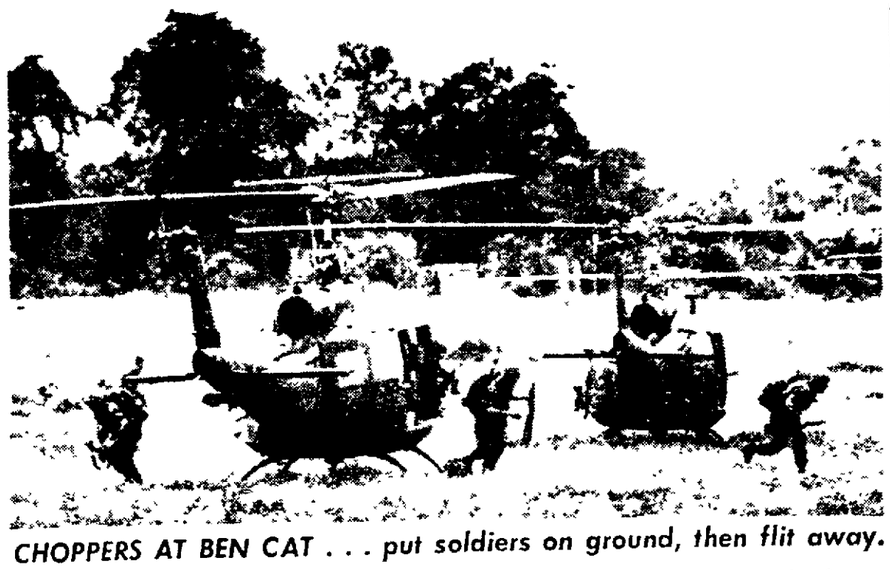
Chopper Versatile

As for the role of the helicopter, Mulligan says they perform a wide variety of missions. He wrote:

"On a single day in a single battle . . . they had flown in the troops, resupplied them with food, ammunition and water, carried out the wounded, hauled heavy weapons, brought in urgently needed parts and medical supplies, provided lethal power, served as radio relay and observation posts and enabled the commander to rescramble his battlefield to best tactical advantage in a matter of minutes, rather than days or even weeks."

There is speculation that the next airmobile division may be one of the two existing airborne divisions—with former paratroopers riding in helicopters and then fighting on the ground like infantrymen.

The next airmobile division, however, could be a converted infantry division. Two infantry divisions are now losing some of their heavy equipment and armor, which would ready them for airmobile operations.



CHOPPERS AT BEN CAT . . . put soldiers on ground, then flit away.

Local Leaders, Solons Fear Military Base Changes

By Associated Press

Plans to close or downgrade 126 U.S. military bases prompted widespread expressions of alarm Wednesday night from political and community leaders in the areas involved.

City officials, senators and congressmen from the affected districts hastened to explore ways of softening the impact — for example, by attracting new industries.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate preparedness subcommittee, said the phaseout of the heavy bomber "is to me an unnecessary and unwarranted gamble with our national security at a time we can ill afford it."

Stennis said the cutbacks are ill-timed because his committee "is in the process of making a thorough analysis of our airlift and sealift requirements and capabilities."

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., a member of the Senate defense appropriations subcommittee, called the cutback "utter folly" and false economy "with no replacement in view" for the bombers."

Another member of the defense appropriations group, Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., said he agrees with Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, that "it is a mistake to put all of our defense in one basket of intercontinental ballistic missiles."

Some small communities—typically Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. — saw the present steady flow of money from adjacent bases as virtually irreplaceable.

Mayor David E. Foster of Sault Ste. Marie said the closing of Kincheloe Air Force Base, with its 4,000 military personnel, 275 civilian workers and $2.5 million annual payroll, would be a catastrophe.

In Roswell, N.M., the Chamber of Commerce set up two emergency committees to form plans to offset the loss of Walker Air Force base. Roswell's population is 35,000 and the base has a payroll of 3,500.

The secretary's statement listed four air bases to be closed: Walker Air Force Base, Roswell, N.M.; Clinton Sherman Air Force Base, Burns Flat, Okla.; Sewart Air Force Base, Smyrna, Tenn.; and Kincheloe Air Force Base, Kinross, Mich.

Turner Air Force Base, Albany, Ga., will be transferred to the Navy and Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, Tex., will shift to the Army.

Among the changes are the closure, consolidation or reduction of 40 Naval Reserve Training Centers and 17 Marine Corps Reserve Training Centers and closing of the Boston Army Base. The Naval Supply Depot at Seattle, Wash., and the Naval Air Station at Sanford, Fla., also will be shut down.

Fewer Squadrons

McNamara did not announce it, but it was learned that air defense changes will result in a cut in interceptor squadrons. Seventeen such squadrons were reported affected, nine of the F101 units, seven F102s and one equipped with F104s.

In telling of reducing activities at Air Force air defense bases, McNamara said there will also be discontinuance of a number of Nike Hercules antiaircraft batteries.

McNamara said that with the exception of the Nike batteries, none of the reductions in air defense forces will result in complete closure or disposal of any military installations.

Annual savings on reducing activities at air defense bases was placed at $64.5 million, discontinuance of Nike sites $30.6 million, discontinuance of the Navy's forces on the DEWline $55.6 million.

McNamara said $28.2 million will be saved because of rapid introduction of C141 transports into the Air Force, and the resultant transfer of the C124 transport to the Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard.

County Okays Walton School District Plan

The Lancaster County School Reorganization Committee has approved a plan to attach the Walton School District to the Waverly District, according to County Superintendent Glenn Turner.

If the state committee, to whom the proposal will be presented Friday, approves the plan, it will be submitted to the Walton District voters.

The combined districts would have a total valuation of $12,617,763 with 586 students attending kindergarten through eighth grade and 205 students in the ninth through 12th grades.

Marsh To Certify Tax Referendum Petitions Monday

Secretary of State Frank Marsh Wednesday announced he will certify the sufficiency of income tax referendum petitions to Gov. Frank Morrison on Monday.

The action will open the way for opponents of the referendum drive to file a law suit contesting the validity of the petitions.

Marsh's office has checked nearly 100,000 signatures on petitions filed during the four-month drive.

Marsh said his office is strictly a filing agency and has no authority to pass upon the validity of the petition. His only job, he said, is to certify there are enough signatures to place the issue on the November, 1966, ballot.

Referendum sponsors have filed enough signatures to suspend the controvesrial tax law passed by the last Legislature until after a popular vote.

Tews Taking Political Poll For A Client

The postcard poll on political candidates and election issues now underway was not sponsored by either political party or by any of the potential candidates listed in the survey, Lincoln attorney David Tews said Wednesday.

The poll is being conducted by Tews for a client, whom he declined to name. Tews said the decision as to whether the survey's results will be publicly disclosed rests with its sponsor.

Tews is a former state senator.

ONLY ONE BID ON NU PROJECT

James Simon Co. of North Platte submitted the only bid received by the University of Nebraska Wednesday for bituminous concrete pavement at the North Platte Experiment Station.

Simon's bid amounted to $2 per square yard for the concrete. The bid did not include curb, seal coat or manipulation.

University engineers will take the bid, which will amount to approximately a $12,000 project, under consideration for recommendation to the Board of Regents at their meeting Friday, according to Richard E. Bennett, director of special business services.

Universities Review Their Teacher Training Programs

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Universities on both the East and West coasts are taking a hard look at their programs for the training of future teachers. Nothing could be more important to the nation.

Education, in terms of money, time and effort expended, is our largest industry.

New attempts to shed light on the long-standing controversy regarding methods courses versus subject matter courses will do much to solve this problem.

In an extraordinary action, Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction has authorized Lehigh University to eliminate all state mandatory courses in its teacher education program for a period of seven years. Working with the Department of Public Instruction Bureau of Teacher Education, Lehigh will conduct extensive experimentation in the elimination or modification of the courses presently required.

Just Sprang Up

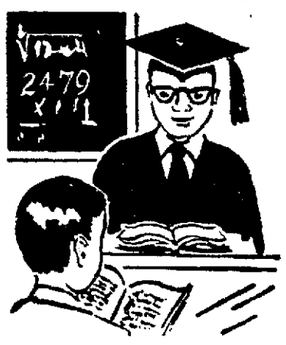
On the other side of the country, the University of California, at its new Irvine campus, is planning a different approach to the improvement of the education of teachers. While this approach is not new, it is unusual for a large university.

The Irvine project is an "Instant University." It leaped into existence this September to a full range of lower division of students. Beginning September, 1966 graduate programs leading to teaching credentials will be offered.

The UCI teacher-education is to be a campuswide endeavor. All academic divisions are to be represented on a council, reporting directly to the Vice Chancellor for academic affairs. Through this body, the University as a whole will assure itself that candidates for teaching credentials are worthy products of the University.

Plan Offers Bonus

Demands on elementary and secondary teachers are increasing. Their pupils are exposed to such a vast range of material through newspapers, magazines, television and travel, the teachers are hard-pressed in some instances to stay ahead of their pupils.



In each area of knowledge, the future teacher needs accurate grounding in fundamentals. Each department—chemistry, biology, English, engineering — will not only be responsible for training experts in its respective field, but for the training in the areas which teachers should receive.

There should be another bonus as an outcome of this plan. Excellence in teaching will in these cases gain recognition that has recently been too often placed on research.

With every department in the university concerned with the development of teachers, it is hoped that the professors will aspire to training through example.

Local Leaders, Solons Fear Military Base Changes

By Associated Press

Plans to close or downgrade 126 U.S. military bases prompted widespread expressions of alarm Wednesday night from political and community leaders in the areas involved.

City officials, senators and congressmen from the affected districts hastened to explore ways of softening the impact — for example, by attracting new industries.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate preparedness subcommittee, said the phaseout of the heavy bomber "is to me an unnecessary and unwarranted gamble with our national security at a time we can ill afford it."

Stennis said the cutbacks are ill-timed because his committee "is in the process of making a thorough analysis of our airlift and sealift requirements and capabilities."

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., a member of the Senate defense appropriations subcommittee, called the cutback "utter folly" and false economy "with no replacement in view" for the bombers."

Another member of the defense appropriations group, Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., said he agrees with Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, that "it is a mistake to put all of our defense in one basket of intercontinental ballistic missiles."

Some small communities—typically Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. — saw the present steady flow of money from adjacent bases as virtually irreplaceable.

Mayor David E. Foster of Sault Ste. Marie said the closing of Kincheloe Air Force Base, with its 4,000 military personnel, 275 civilian workers and $2.5 million annual payroll, would be a catastrophe

In Roswell, N.M., the Chamber of Commerce set up two emergency committees to form plans to offset the loss of Walker Air Force base. Roswell's population is 35,000 and the base has a payroll of 3,500

The secretary's statement listed four air bases to be closed: Walker Air Force Base, Roswell, N.M.; Clinton Sherman Air Force Base, Burns Flat, Okla.; Sewart Air Force Base, Smyrna, Tenn.; and Kincheloe Air Force Base, Kinross, Mich.

Turner Air Force Base, Albany, Ga., will be transferred to the Navy and Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, Tex., will shift to the Army.

Among the changes are the closure, consolidation or reduction of 40 Naval Reserve Training Centers and 17 Marine Corps Reserve Training Centers and closing of the Boston Army Base. The Naval Supply Depot at Seattle, Wash., and the Naval Air Station at Sanford, Fla., also will be shut down.

Fewer Squadrons

McNamara did not announce it, but it was learned that air defense changes will result in a cut in interceptor squadrons. Seventeen such squadrons were reported affected, nine of the F101 units, seven F102s and one equipped with F104s.

In telling of reducing activities at Air Force air defense bases, McNamara said there will also be discontinuance of a number of Nike Hercules antiaircraft batteries.

McNamara said that with the exception of the Nike batteries, none of the reductions in air defense forces will result in complete closure or disposal of any military installations.

Annual savings on reducing activities at air defense bases was placed at $64.5 million, discontinuance of Nike sites $30.6 million, discontinuance of the Navy's forces on the DEWline $55.6 million.

McNamara said $28.2 million will be saved because of rapid introduction of C141 transports into the Air Force, and the resultant transfer of the C124 transport to the Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard.

County Okays Walton School District Plan

The Lancaster County School Reorganization Committee has approved a plan to attach the Walton School District to the Waverly District, according to County Superintendent Glenn Turner.

If the state committee, to whom the proposal will be presented Friday, approves the plan, it will be submitted to the Walton District voters.

The combined districts would have a total valuation of $12,617,763 with 586 students attending kindergarten through eighth grade and 205 students in the ninth through 12th grades.

Marsh To Certify Tax Referendum Petitions Monday

Secretary of State Frank Marsh Wednesday announced he will certify the sufficiency of income tax referendum petitions to Gov. Frank Morrison on Monday

The action will open the way for opponents of the referendum drive to file a law suit contesting the validity of the petitions

Marsh's office has checked nearly 100,000 signatures on petitions filed during the four-month drive.

Marsh said his office is strictly a filing agency and has no authority to pass upon the validity of the petition. His only job, he said, is to certify there are enough signatures to place the issue on the November, 1966, ballot.

Referendum sponsors have filed enough signatures to suspend the controvesrial tax law passed by the last Legislature until after a popular vote.

Tews Taking Political Poll For A Client

The postcard poll on political candidates and election issues now underway was not sponsored by either political party or by any of the potential candidates listed in the survey, Lincoln attorney David Tews said Wednesday.

The poll is being conducted by Tews for a client, whom he declined to name. Tews said the decision as to whether the survey's results will be publicly disclosed rests with its sponsor.

Tews is a former state senator.

ONLY ONE BID ON NU PROJECT

James Simon Co. of North Platte submitted the only bid received by the University of Nebraska Wednesday for bituminous concrete pavement at the North Platte Experiment Station.

Simon's bid amounted to $2 per square yard for the concrete. The bid did not include curb, seal coat or manipulation.

University engineers will take the bid, which will amount to approximately a $12,000 project, under consideration for recommendation to the Board of Regents at their meeting Friday, according to Richard E. Bennett, director of special business services.

Lenin Order Given

Moscow (AP)—The Soviet government conferred the Order of Lenin today on Dolores Ibarruri, "La Passionaria" of the Spanish Civil War. The announcement identified her as still chairman of the Spanish Communist Party although she has lived here more than 25 years.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Langdon's Mat Debut Long Time Coming

. . . HUSKER GRAPPLER WILL COMPETE IN GREAT PLAINS MEET

Jerry Langdon has had a long wait just getting started on his collegiate wrestling career.

"It has been quite awhile" admits the University of Nebraska sophomore from Sidney who will be wrestling for the Huskers at 130 or 123 pounds this winter.

In March of 1964, as a member of the NU freshman team, Langdon suffered a chest injury which separated the ribs from the sternum. The injury kept him out of competition through the end of the first semester of his sophomore year, at which time he dropped out of school because of financial difficulties.

"I went back to Sidney to work in general construction," Langdon says. "I couldn't wrestle, anyway, because of my chest."

Langdon, who wrestled four years as a 120-pound prep at Sidney, winning the Class B state title as a sophomore and finishing second and third in Class A the next two years, didn't stay completely away from the sport during his absence from school.

"I went to California last spring to look for a job," he says. "I couldn't find any, but while I was out there I wrestled in the national AAU meet."

Jerry, who won two matches and lost two at 138.5 pounds in the tournament, figures the experience at Olympic style wrestling will help him in the Great Plains Midwest AAU meet coming up Friday and Saturday at Pershing Auditorium. He figures that this, in turn, will help him later in the collegiate season.

"It will be real good experience," he says. "There's a lot of competition there."

"He'll hold his own," says Nebraska coach Orval Borgialli, who rates Langdon neck-and-neck at 130 pounds with Rick Allgood, considered the top Husker performer.

Langdon, who still is bothered to some extent by his injury, does not figure he is in direct competition with Allgood, however.

"I'm still heavy, but I think I can get down," he says. "I'd like to wrestle at 130 if I can, then get down to 123 later in the season."

Both wrestlers probably will go at 130 in the Great Plains, which opens Friday afternoon. The early rounds continue through Friday evening. The semifinals are scheduled for Saturday afternoon and the finals Saturday evening at Pershing.

This will be the fourth annual Great Plains meet, which each year draws the top competitors from the midwestern area.

State To Get $13,000 In Recreation Funds

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall announced that Nebraska will receive $13,000 to prepare state-wide outdoor recreation plans.

Nebraska's initial plan, partially financed by the grant, has already been found adequate for the state to participate in the land and water conservation fund program until December of 1967.

Cardigan Bay Ends 'Big Season' Today

Westbury, N.Y. (AP) — Cardigan Bay, rated the best pacer ever to come out of New Zealand, seeks to close out another big season Thursday night with victory in the $50,000 Nassau Pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

The 9-year-old gelding can pass the $200,000 mark in earnings for the year by picking up first money of $25,000 in the two-mile event.

Wachholtz Tops Punt Returners

Little Larry Wachholtz of Nebraska was the Big Eight's leading punt returner this season with a 14.6-yards-per-return average.

Wachholtz, a native of North Platte, returned 31 punts for 452 yards during the Cornhuskers' 10 games. He also played defensive halfback in helping Nebraska to a perfect season.

The Big Eight Service Bureau reported that Nebraska's Harry Wilson was fourth in league rushing with 672 yards on 120 carries, for a 5.6-yards-per-carry average.

Charlie Brown, speedy Missouri halfback, won the rushing crown with 937 yards on 174 carries for a 5.4-yards-per-carry average. Fullback Walt Garrison of Oklahoma State was runner-up with 924 yards on 217 carries.

In total offense, quarterback Tim Van Galder of Iowa State was the leader with 1,566 yards, including 1,418 through the air. Bernie McCall of Colorado was second with 1,428 yards. Fred Duda of Nebraska with fourth with 966 yards.

The league's scoring title went to Colorado's place-kicking specialist Frank Rogers. His talented toe tallied 61 points on 13 field goals and 16 conversions. Wachholtz, who did Nebraska's place-kicking, was third with 45 points, including three fielders.

IOWA RIPS CREIGHTON, 103-77

First Defeat For Bluejays

. . . 4TH WIN FOR HAWKEYES

Iowa City, Iowa (AP)—Iowa knocked Creighton out of the undefeated ranks Wednesday night by routing the Bluejays 103-77 for the Hawkeyes fourth straight basketball victory without a loss.

Led by Chris Pervall's 21 points the Hawkeyes zoomed to a 49-37 spread at the halftime and turned their pressing defense against the bewildered Bluejays to go ahead by as much as 28 points near the close.

Iowa had five players in double figures with Gerry Jones adding 20 points and George Peeples contributing 18.

It was the second time this season that the Hawkeyes went over the century mark in scoring. In their opener they hit 111 points against Pepperdine.

Tim Powers was Creighton's top man with 23 points. The Bluejays tied it up twice at 4-4 and 7-7 in the early minutes and then folded.

Iowa hit 42 baskets out of 79 attempts for 53.2%. Creighton was 28 out of 69 for 40.6% but led in rebounds 41-37.

—WEEKEND ACTION HEAVY—

NE, SE Open City Basketball

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

The first game in the city series opens a heavy weekend of basketball action for Capital City high school teams, four of which are hoping to break into the win column for the first time.

Northeast, last year's city pacesetter and the only Lincoln team with a win under its belt to date, tangles with Southeast (0-1) at Pershing Auditorium Thursday night.

The tempo picks up with a pair of games scheduled Friday night and a full schedule of five games Saturday.

Northeast will attempt to lay the groundwork for a lofty spot in the Class A ratings as it meets Southeast and follows up with a Saturday test against Kearney.

The rangy Rockets opened with an easy 62-39 win over North Platte last week. Ed Johnson's club will enjoy a big height advantage over Southeast, but in Kearney will be meeting a team which could challenge it on the boards. The western club has three 6-4 starters.

Southeast, hopeful of tightening up its defense this week, follows up its test against Northeast with a Saturday afternoon performance against Fremont. The Tigers, small like Southeast, opened with a surprisingly easy win over 1965 Class A runnerup McCook last week.

Pius X makes its 1965-66 debut at home Friday night, expecting a stern test from a veteran Bellevue outfit. The Thunderbolts should have an easier time Saturday night at Syracuse.

University High is anxious to break into the win column this week after losing its opener to defending state Class B champion Geneva. The Tutors play host to Omaha Cathedral, which has a top performer in 6-4 John Keim, and Tecumseh at the Coliseum Friday and Saturday nights.

Lincoln High meets it second straight Metropolitan Conference opponent as it entertains Omaha Westside. The Warriors, who have good height again, dumped Hastings and Columbus last week.

The weekend forecast:

THURSDAY

Northeast v. Southeast at Pershing Auditorium — Rockets have too much height, firepower for Knights to handle.

FRIDAY

University High v. O. Cathedral at Coliseum—A tough test, but not as difficult as last week's assignment.

Bellevue at Pius X—Chieftains have a game under their belts, that should be the difference.

SATURDAY

Fremont v. Southeast at Johnson Gym (3 p.m.)—Tigers' Jeff Draemel provides the edge.

Westside v. Lincoln High at Johnson Gym—Warriors will find their size helpful in this one.

Kearney v. Northeast at Wesleyan—Shouldn't make any difference where they play it.

NU Foe Resumes Football Drills

Tuscaloosa, Ala. (AP)—Alabama's Orange Bowl-bound football team, idle since the Auburn game, eased gently into the practice grind Wednesday.

The fourth-ranked Crimson Tide went through loosening up exercises and conditioning drills. Alabama has not practiced since beating Auburn for the Southeastern Conference title last Nov. 27.

Alabama plays Nebraska in the Orange Bowl on New Year's night in Miami.

Two Tie For Lead In 4-Ball

Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. (AP)—A pair of Texas brothers with hot putters and two reformed professionals fired nine-under-par 63s Wednesday and took the lead after the first round of the $125,000 PGA National Four Ball Championship.

Jack Cupit, 27, of Dallas, and his brother, Buster, 38, of Longview, birdied seven holes on the back nine of the 6,948-yard West course to move into the tie.

The team of Paul Bondeson of Palm Springs, Calif., and Larry Mowry of Portland, Ore., collected seven birdies and an eagle in their 32-31-63 round over the same course.

Trailing by one stroke at 64 were Ross Coon Jr. of Newport, R.I., and Bob Crowley of Weston, Mass. Crowley shot a 20-foot eagle putt on the second hole of the West course and made birdie putts of 10 and 30 feet. Coon, 27, birdied three holes.

Six of the 107 two-man teams seeking $20,000 first place money carded 65s. The brother team of Jay and Lionel Hebert of Tubac Valley, Ariz., made its 65 on the East course, toughest of the two new courses at the National PGA layout.

The biggest names in the tournament-Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus-shot a 67. Nicklaus said he and Palmer "just weren't concentrating." Palmer complained of the wind which gusted to 25 miles an hour.

Bondeson shot six birdies. Mowry shot one and added a 10-foot eagle put on the 497-yard 10th hole.

After Thursday's second round, the field will be cut to the 40 low scorers for the final two rounds. On the basis of the first round, it will take better than four under par to make the cutoff.

Creighton Faces Bradley '5' Tonight

Omaha — Creighton, after suffering its first loss of the season in a 103-77 setback to Iowa Wednesday night at Iowa City, returns to the Omaha Civic Auditorium court tonight to face Bradley in an 8 p.m. contest.

LOOKING IT OVER . . . Nicklaus, top, checks putt with partner Palmer.

Creighton will face a Bradley team in which four men are averaging in double figures. Leading the pack is sophomore center Joe Allen, a 6-6½, 230-pounder who has 65 points and a 21.6 average.

Braves coach Joe Stowell is in his first year as head coach.

"Bradley undoubtedly is one of the finest basketball teams in the nation," according to Jay assistant Herb Millard, who scouted the Braves against Northern Michigan. "They're extremely fast, rebound hard, shot well and can put on a terrific press."

Bradley went on the warpath early in battering Wisconsin-Milwaukee 104-68, before subduing stubborn North Michigan 90-78 and thumping New Mexico State 88-78.

Coach Red McManus' Bluejays were tested only in their season-opening 83-75 win over Kansas State. They bounced St. Francis (Pa) 84-69 and then brushed aside South Dakota University 103-58.

Slim Tim Powers, 6-7 junior, was the scoring leader after three games with 63 points and a 21 point average. He was followed by 5-10 Bob Miles who sported a 13.3 point average.

The game will be the third between Creighton and Bradley, with the Braves holding a 2-0 series edge.

—JETER IN SENIOR BOWL—

NU End Will Play With North Squad

Mobile, Ala. (AP) — Nebraska tight end Tony Jeter was a member of the North squad Wednesday to play in the 17th annual Senior Bowl football game here Jan. 8.

Other Big Eight players named to the North team were Butch Allison of Missouri, Francis Peay of Missouri and Charles Harper of Oklahoma State as interior linemen, Gary Lane of Missouri at quarterback, Mike Ringer of Okalahoma and Johnny Roland of Missouri at halfbacks and Walt Garrison of Oklahoma State as a fullback.

The battery is Bill Anderson throwing and Howard Twilley catching. Both set all-time NCAA marks during the regular season.

The 27-member North squad includes seven players picked in the first round of the professional football drafts, plus 11 others chosen in the first five rounds. Every man on the squad was drafted by the pro clubs.

The South squad, announced last Sunday, included six first-round choices and a total of 19 in the first five rounds.

The seven North players picked as No. 1 by the pros are:

Missouri's 6-2, 207-pound halfback Johnny Roland, by the New York Jets; West Virginia's 6-2, 235-pound fullback Dick Leftridge, Pittsburgh Steelers; San Diego State's 6-1, 190-pound end Wry Garrison, San Diego Chargers; Massachusetts' 6-4, 250-pound end Milt Morin, Cleveland Browns.

Indiana's 6-5, 242-pound Randy Beisley, an interior lineman, Philadelphia Eagles; Missouri's 6-5, 245-pound Francis Peay, interior lineman, New York Giants; and Purdue's 6-3, 240-pound Karl Singer, interior lineman, Boston Patriots.

The versatile Roland, Singer and Tulsa's Twilley are North players who were chosen on the first-team All-America.

The fabulous Twilley, who is only 5-10 and 180 pounds, caught 134 passes—55 more than anyone else in major college ranks—and led the nation in scoring with 127 points this season.

Anderson set five major college records and led major college players in total offense and passing. His passing records were 509 attempts, 296 completions and 3,464 yards gained. The Tulsa tosser was drafted by both Los Angeles and Houston as a future last year.

Anderson will share quarterbacking duties with Missouri standout Gary Lane, a second-round draft choice of the Buffalo Bisons; and George Wilson of Xavier of Ohio, also drafted by Buffalo and Detroit.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

Gunpowder, first used in battle in 1346, remained the most deadly military explosive until the introduction of TNT in 1902.

The oceans contain the world's largest store of minerals. As an example, 100 million gallons of sea water hold nearly 150,000 tons of mineral salts.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 5 or more subtract 4. If the number is less than 5, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Royal, 2 Assistants Top Oklahoma List

. . . MACKENZIE, CURTIS MENTIONED

Norman, Okla. (AP)—Former Oklahoma quarterback Darrell Royal, now a successful coach at Texas, and two assistant coachs loomed Wednesday as the top candidates for the Oklahoma football post vacated by Gomer Jones.

Royal, Jim Mackenzie of Arkansas and Chuck Curtis of Southern Methodist were put at the top of the list after Tennessee Coach Doug Dickey said he was "well satisfied" with his present position.

"I see no reason to explore any opportunities elsewhere," the 33-year-old Vol coach said in a prepared statement issued at Knoxville.

Dickey was considered to have the inside track for the post which Jones resigned under fire Monday after the Sooners finished the season with a 3-7 record, worst in the school's modern history.

Dr. George L. Cross, university president, said a seven-member committee, consisting of three OU regents, three athletic council members and himself, would begin screening the list of possible coaches Thursday.

However, the regents must meet and decide whether to accept Jones' conditional resignation, which provided that he quit as coach but remain as athletic director.

Jones had two years remaining on a four-year contract when he resigned.

OU sources say the regents have two choices in considering the resignation:

—They can accept its conditions and allow Jones to remain as athletic director.

—They can refuse to accept and remove Jones from the dual position.

Many feel the latter course would have to be followed before the Sooners would have a chance to attract a big name coach such as Royal, who is both athletic director and head coach.

Cross said he had no idea how many names would be screened originally, but said an elimination process likely would be started immediately.

Cross declined to name everyone on his list, but said Royal, MacKenzie, Curtis, Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder, Washington Coach Jim Owens and Washington State Coach Bert Clark were on it.

Arkansas Aide Interested In OU Coaching Position

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) — Arkansas assistant Coach Jim MacKenzie, mentioned as a prime candidate for the head coaching vacancy at the University of Oklahoma, said Wednesday night he is interested in the job.

"Certainly I'd be interested," MacKenzie said. "I haven't been contacted by anyone but I'm flattered to be among those mentioned.

"At this point, all I know about the situation is what I've read in the newspaper or heard on the radio."

MacKenzie, Arkansas defensive coach, was in Tulsa on a recruiting trip. He has served under Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles since 1957 at Missouri. He came with Broyles in 1958 when Broyles accepted the Razorback post.

Husker Tankers Open Road Trip

The Nebraska swimming team opens its regular season on the road this weekend against Wisconsin State College and the University of Wisconsin.

Friday the Cornhusker tankers will meet State at La Crosse. The next day they travel to Madison to face the Badgers.

Nebraska will make its home debut Jan. 15 against Southern Illinois.

Bears Defensive Back Called Up

Chicago (AP)—One of the long familiar figures of the gridiron—J. C. Caroline—is returning to active duty.

Coach George Halas of the Chicago Bears announced Wednesday that Caroline, who has been held in reserve on the so-called taxi squad this year, has been called up to the regular squad.

This will be the 10th season of National Football League play for Caroline, a defensive back who was an offensive star at the University of Illinois.

Unitas Definitely Out For Season

Baltimore (AP) — The Baltimore Colts made it official Wednesday that injured quarterback John Unitas will not play any more this National Football League season or in the title game by putting him on the reserve list.

Unitas already had been eliminated from playing against the Green Bay Packers Sunday or at Los Angeles the following Saturday when the Colts wind up their regular schedule. Wednesday's action removes any possibility of him appearing in the title playoff, if the Colts make it.

Baltimore Edges 76ers, 129-127

Baltimore (AP)—Bailey Howell's two free throws with four seconds remaining gave the Baltimore Bullets a 129-127 National Basketball Association victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Wednesday night.

The game was played under protest by Philadelphia Coach Dolph Schayes after his star center, Wilt Chamberlain, complained in the first quarter about a sticky substance on the ball provided by the home team.

Arthur Ashe Subdues Stubborn Chilean Foe

Adelaide, Australia (AP) — American star Arthur Ashe, flustered by a baseline decision called against him, met unexpectedly stiff resistance Wednesday before subduing Patricio Rodriguez of Chile 7-5, 5-7, 6-2 in the South Australian Tennis Championships.

Herb FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.Y. also advanced to the men's quarter-finals, but two other U.S. players, Cliff Richey and Jim McManus, and John Newcombe of Australia, the tournament's defending title-holder, were eliminated. Newcombe was ousted by Tom Okker of Holland 6-1, 11-9 in the day's biggest upset.

Alworth Named AFL Player Of The Week

New York (AP) — Lance Alworth showed the New York Jets how the game should be played last week in a performance that earned the San Diego flanker The Associated Press' designation as offensive Player of the Week in the American Football League.

Alworth caught seven passes for 147 yards, including two for touchdowns, in a 38-7 romp over the Jets. The fleet Arkansas athlete leads the AFL in touchdowns with 12 and ranks fifth in the scoring race with his 72 points.

Wisconsin Board Favors Removal Of Head Coach

Madison, Wis., (AP)—The Capital Times of Madison said Wednesday it had learned that half the membership of the University of Wisconsin Athletic board favors removal of Milt Bruhn as football coach.

The board has eight voting members and makes recommendations to the university president, who in turn reports to the Board of Regents.

The Regents meet in Milwaukee Friday.

The newspaper said one unidentified board member reported the group, with one abstention, voted 4-3 to recommend the removal of Bruhn. The last scheduled meeting of the board was held Nov. 23 in Madison. Newsmen then were told the subject of Bruhn's removal was not discussed.

Namath Wouldn't Have Trainers In Army Action

Washington (AP) — The Army concedes "it may seem illogical" that quarterback Joe Namath, whom the New York Jets signed to a $400,000 professional football contract, should be found unfit for military service.

But, says the Army, as a pro football player Namath has doctors and trainers close by at every game and practice.

"In the military service, these conditions would not necessarily be present," the Army says.

Wichita Throttles No. 2 Ranked Michigan, 100-94

Wichita, Kan. (AP) — Wichita avenged last season's defeat at Michigan's hands by thumping the No. 2 ranked Wolverines 100-94 in a basketball thriller Wednesday night.

Cazzie Russell, the 6-foot-5 All America who dunked a last-second basket which won last year's cliffhanger for Michigan, was held to 21 points.

The Wheatshockers took no chances with Russell, assigning as many as three men to defense him under the basket. As a result, John Clawson was the scoring leader for the Wolverines with 28. But Jamie Thompson of Wichita made that up with 28 of his own. He scored every shot that he attempted.

Unbeaten Kentucky Whips Illinois, 86-68

Champaign, Ill. (AP) — Unbeaten Kentucky, led by the 32-point output of Thad Jaracz and 21 by Louis Dampier, grabbed an early lead and never was headed in defeating Illinois 86-68 in intersectional basketball Wednesday night.

Kentucky went ahead 8-7 and padded out a 39-34 halftime edge as Jaracz hit 14 points and Dampier 9. The closest Illinois came after that was 53-49 and 57-53. Then the Wildcats made 11 straight for an overwhelming 84-64 bulge as Jaracz and Pat Riley each netted four points in the surge.

Washburn, Kan., Drops Peru, 97-70

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Twenty-two of 23 players scored Wednesday night as Washburn handed Peru a 97-70 basketball defeat. All 11 Washburn players scored and only one Peru player failed to get a point.

Peru battled the home club to a 38-38 halftime tie but after two minutes of the second half Dave Tenpenny and Sam Shipstead led a Washburn charge that quickly left Peru trailing.

Tenpenny, 5-11, hit 11 field goals and Shipstead had 8. Mike Harmon led Peru with 9 field goals and a total of 22 points.

Site Selected For Missouri Domed Arena

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Selection of a site southeast of the University of Missouri Memorial Stadium for a proposed domed arena, seating from 15,000 to 20,000 persons, was announced Wednesday by the University's Board of Regents.

The proposed multi-purpose auditorium also would serve as a field house.

A request for planning funds for the structure in its capital improvements program has been made by the University and the Commission on Higher Education has asked that the General Assembly allocate $400,000 for that purpose.

Chancellor John W. Schwada said University officials envisage a structure similar to the one at the University of Illinois. That structure of pre-stressed concrete.

North Platte Man Given Non-Pro Baseball Position

Wichita, Kan. — Max Anderson of North Platte has been appointed by the National Baseball Congress as commissioner of non-professional baseball for Nebraska in 1966.

Anderson will supervise the 32nd annual Nebraska State Championship Tournament in late July at a site to be selected later. Cities being considered are Grand Island, North Platte, Holdrege and Hastings.

The Nebraska champion will qualify for the 32nd annual national tournament starting here Aug. 12, NBC president Ray Dumont said. North Platte Gulf Oilers are the defending Nebraska champions.

Langdon's Mat Debut Long Time Coming

. . . HUSKER GRAPPLER WILL COMPETE IN GREAT PLAINS MEET

Jerry Langdon has had a long wait just getting started on his collegiate wrestling career.

"It has been quite awhile" admits the University of Nebraska sophomore from Sidney who will be wrestling for the Huskers at 130 or 123 pounds this winter.

In March of 1964, as a member of the NU freshman team, Langdon suffered a chest injury which separated the ribs from the sternum. The injury kept him out of competition through the end of the first semester of his sophomore year, at which time he dropped out of school because of financial difficulties.

"I went back to Sidney to work in general construction," Langdon says. "I couldn't wrestle, anyway, because of my chest."

Langdon, who wrestled four years as a 120-pound prep at Sidney, winning the Class B state title as a sophomore and finishing second and third in Class A the next two years, didn't stay completely away from the sport during his absence from school.

"I went to California last spring to look for a job," he says. "I couldn't find any, but while I was out there I wrestled in the national AAU meet."

Jerry, who won two matches and lost two at 138.5 pounds in the tournament, figures the experience at Olympic style wrestling will help him in the Great Plains Midwest AAU meet coming up Friday and Saturday at Pershing Auditorium. He figures that this, in turn, will help him later in the collegiate season.

"It will be real good experience," he says. "There's a lot of competition there."

"He'll hold his own," says Nebraska coach Orval Borgialli, who rates Langdon neck-and-neck at 130 pounds with Rick Allgood, considered the top Husker performer.

Langdon, who still is bothered to some extent by his injury, does not figure he is in direct competition with Allgood, however.

"I'm still heavy, but I think I can get down," he says. "I'd like to wrestle at 130 if I can, then get down to 123 later in the season."

Both wrestlers probably will go at 130 in the Great Plains, which opens Friday afternoon. The early rounds continue through Friday evening. The semifinals are scheduled for Saturday afternoon and the finals Saturday evening at Pershing.

This will be the fourth annual Great Plains meet, which each year draws the top competitors from the midwestern area.

Wachholtz Tops Punt Returners

Little Larry Wachholtz of Nebraska was the Big Eight's leading punt returner this season with a 14.6-yards-per-return average.

Wachholtz, a native of North Platte, returned 31 punts for 452 yards during the Cornhuskers' 10 games. He also played defensive halfback in helping Nebraska to a perfect season.

The Big Eight Service Bureau reported that Nebraska's Harry Wilson was fourth in league rushing with 672 yards on 120 carries, for a 5.6-yards-per-carry average.

Charlie Brown, speedy Missouri halfback, won the rushing crown with 937 yards on 174 carries for a 5.4-yards-per-carry average. Fullback Walt Garrison of Oklahoma State was runner-up with 924 yards on 217 carries.

In total offense, quarterback Tim Van Galder of Iowa State was the leader with 1,566 yards, including 1,418 through the air. Bernie McCall of Colorado was second with 1,428 yards. Fred Duda of Nebraska with fourth with 966 yards.

The league's scoring title went to Colorado's place-kicking specialist Frank Rogers. His talented toe tallied 61 points on 13 field goals and 16 conversions. Wachholtz, who did Nebraska's place-kicking, was third with 45 points, including three fielders.

State To Get $13,000 In Recreation Funds

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall announced that Nebraska will receive $13,000 to prepare state-wide outdoor recreation plans.

Nebraska's initial plan, partially financed by the grant, has already been found adequate for the state to participate in the land and water conservation fund program until December of 1967.

Cardigan Bay Ends 'Big Season' Today

Westbury, N.Y. (AP) — Cardigan Bay, rated the best pacer ever to come out of New Zealand, seeks to close out another big season Thursday night with victory in the $50,000 Nassau Pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

The 9-year-old gelding can pass the $200,000 mark in earnings for the year by picking up first money of $25,000 in the two-mile event.

IOWA RIPS CREIGHTON, 103-77

First Defeat For Bluejays

. . . 4TH WIN FOR HAWKEYES

Iowa City, Iowa (AP)—Iowa knocked Creighton out of the undefeated ranks Wednesday night by routing the Bluejays 103-77 for the Hawkeyes fourth straight basketball victory without a loss.

Led by Chris Pervall's 21 points the Hawkeyes zoomed to a 49-37 spread at the halftime and turned their pressing defense against the bewildered Bluejays to go ahead by as much as 28 points near the close.

Iowa had five players in double figures with Gerry Jones adding 20 points and George Peeples contributing 18.

It was the second time this season that the Hawkeyes went over the century mark in scoring. In their opener they hit 111 points against Pepperdine.

Tim Powers was Creighton's top man with 23 points. The Bluejays tied it up twice at 4-4 and 7-7 in the early minutes and then folded.

Iowa hit 42 baskets out of 79 attempts for 53.2%. Creighton was 28 out of 69 for 40.6% but led in rebounds 41-37.

—WEEKEND ACTION HEAVY—

NE, SE Open City Basketball

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

The first game in the city series opens a heavy weekend of basketball action for Capital City high schools, four of which are hoping to break into the win column for the first time.

Northeast, last year's city pacesetter and the only Lincoln team with a win under its belt to date, tangles with Southeast (0-1) at Pershing Auditorium Thursday night.

The tempo picks up with a pair of games scheduled Friday night and a full schedule of five games Saturday.

Northeast will attempt to lay the groundwork for a lofty spot in the Class A ratings as it meets Southeast and follows up with a Saturday test against Kearney.

The rangy Rockets opened with an easy 62-39 win over North Platte last week. Ed Johnson's club will enjoy a big height advantage over Southeast, but in Kearney will be meeting a team which could challenge it on the boards. The western club has three 6-4 starters.

Southeast, hopeful of tightening up its defense this week, follows up its test against Northeast with a Saturday afternoon performance against Fremont. The Tigers, small like Southeast, opened with a surprisingly easy win over 1965 Class A runnerup McCook last week.

Pius X makes its 1965-66 debut at home Friday night, expecting a stern test from a veteran Bellevue outfit. The Thunderbolts should have an easier time Saturday night at Syracuse.

University High is anxious to break into the win column this week after losing its opener to defending state Class B champion Geneva. The Tutors play host to Omaha Cathedral, which has a top performer in 6-4 John Keim, and Tecumseh at the Coliseum Friday and Saturday nights.

Lincoln High meets it second straight Metropolitan Conference opponent as it entertains Omaha Westside. The Warriors, who have good height again, dumped Hastings and Columbus last week.

THURSDAY

FRIDAY

University High v. O. Cathedral at Coliseum—A tough test, but not as difficult as last week's assignment.

SATURDAY

Two Tie For Lead In 4-Ball

Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. (AP)—A pair of Texas brothers with hot putters and two reformed professionals fired nine-under-par 63s Wednesday and took the lead after the first round of the $125,000 PGA National Four Ball Championship.

Jack Cupit, 27, of Dallas, and his brother, Buster, 38, of Longview, birdied seven holes on the back nine of the 6,948-yard West course to move into the tie.

The team of Paul Bondeson of Palm Springs, Calif., and Larry Mowry of Portland, Ore., collected seven birdies and an eagle in their 32-31-63 round over the same course.

Trailing by one stroke at 64 were Ross Coon Jr. of Newport, R.I., and Bob Crowley of Weston, Mass. Crowley shot a 20-foot eagle putt on the second hole of the West course and made birdie putts of 10 and 30 feet. Coon, 27, birdied three holes.

Six of the 107 two-man teams seeking $20,000 first place money carded 65s. The brother team of Jay and Lionel Hebert of Tubac Valley, Ariz., made its 65 on the East course, toughest of the two new courses at the National PGA layout.

The biggest names in the tournament-Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus-shot a 67. Nicklaus said he and Palmer "just weren't concentrating." Palmer complained of the wind which gusted to 25 miles an hour.

Bondeson shot six birdies. Mowry shot one and added a 10-foot eagle put on the 497-yard 10th hole.

After Thursday's second round, the field will be cut to the 40 low scorers for the final two rounds. On the basis of the first round, it will take better than four under par to make the cutoff.

Creighton Faces Bradley '5' Tonight

Omaha — Creighton, after suffering its first loss of the season in a 103-77 setback to Iowa Wednesday night at Iowa City, returns to the Omaha Civic Auditorium court tonight to face Bradley in an 8 p.m. contest.

Creighton will face a Bradley team in which four men are averaging in double figures. Leading the pack is sophomore center Joe Allen, a 6-6½, 230-pounder who has 65 points and a 21.6 average.

"Bradley undoubtedly is one of the finest basketball teams in the nation," according to Jay assistant Herb Millard, who scouted the Braves against Northern Michigan. "They're extremely fast, rebound hard, shot well and can put on a terrific press."

Bradley went on the warpath early in battering Wisconsin-Milwaukee 104-68, before subduing stubborn North Michigan 90-78 and thumping New Mexico State 88-78.

Coach Red McManus' Bluejays were tested only in their season-opening 83-75 win over Kansas State. They bounced St. Francis (Pa) 84-69 and then brushed aside South Dakota University 103-58.

Slim Tim Powers, 6-7 junior, was the scoring leader after three games with 63 points and a 21 point average. He was followed by 5-10 Bob Miles who sported a 13.3 point average.

NU Foe Resumes Football Drills

The fourth-ranked Crimson Tide went through loosening up exercises and conditioning drills. Alabama has not practiced since beating Auburn for the Southeastern Conference title last Nov. 27.

Alabama plays Nebraska in the Orange Bowl on New Year's night in Miami.

—JETER IN SENIOR BOWL—

NU End Will Play With North Squad

Mobile, Ala. (AP) — Nebraska tight end Tony Jeter was a member of the North squad Wednesday to play in the 17th annual Senior Bowl football game here Jan. 8.

Other Big Eight players named to the North team were Butch Allison of Missouri, Francis Peay of Missouri and Charles Harper of Oklahoma State as interior linemen, Gary Lane of Missouri at quarterback, Mike Ringer of Okalahoma and Johnny Roland of Missouri at halfbacks and Walt Garrison of Oklahoma State as a fullback.

The battery is Bill Anderson throwing and Howard Twilley catching. Both set all-time NCAA marks during the regular season.

The 27-member North squad includes seven players picked in the first round of the professional football drafts, plus 11 others chosen in the first five rounds. Every man on the squad was drafted by the pro clubs.

The South squad, announced last Sunday, included six first-round choices and a total of 19 in the first five rounds.

Missouri's 6-2, 207-pound halfback Johnny Roland, by the New York Jets; West Virginia's 6-2, 235-pound fullback Dick Leftridge, Pittsburgh Steelers; San Diego State's 6-1, 190-pound end Wry Garrison, San Diego Chargers; Massachusetts' 6-4, 250-pound end Milt Morin, Cleveland Browns

Indiana's 6-5, 242-pound Randy Beisley, an interior lineman, Philadelphia Eagles; Missouri's 6-5, 245-pound Francis Peay, interior lineman, New York Giants; and Purdue's 6-3, 240-pound Karl Singer, interior lineman, Boston Patriots.

The versatile Roland, Singer and Tulsa's Twilley are North players who were chosen on the first-team All-America.

The fabulous Twilley, who is only 5-10 and 180 pounds, caught 134 passes—55 more than anyone else in major college ranks—and led the nation in scoring with 127 points this season.

Anderson set five major college records and led major college players in total offense and passing. His passing records were 509 attempts, 296 completions and 3,464 yards gained. The Tulsa tosser was drafted by both Los Angeles and Houston as a future last year.

Big 10 Prep Loop Talks Expansion

. . . SCHEDULING PROBLEMS GROW

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Nebraska's Big Ten Conference will study an expansion proposal which would absorb all of the state's non-Metropolitan Conference Class A teams.

Formation of a committee headed by Norfolk's Roger Maxwell to look into a proposed expansion was prompted by a favorable reaction to a letter to the conference by Bill Bogar, principal of Lincoln High School.

"It was just an idea, certainly not original, that I had been mulling over," he indicates.

"I think the problem of scheduling we now have is something we should be concerned with and there are some advantages in guaranteeing an all Class A schedule for all Class A schools," he says.

The letter outlined an all-inclusive, open-end Class A conference that would assure all schools of a solid schedule without having to cross state borders and a conference that would have popular appeal in that it would tie the state together athletically.

Western teams have traditionally had scheduling problems in football and basketball and now the eastern Class A teams are beginning to feel the pressure since the Metropolitan Conference is confining the Omaha schools to their own backyards.

The Big Ten has had no membership changes since being originated in 1945, but several of its members have held spots in other conferences simultaneously.

Hastings, Grand Island and North Platte of the Big Ten are now associated with the three Lincoln Public Schools in the Trans-Nebraska Conference, one of two loops which was formed after the proposed Quin-Cities loop collapsed. Also arising out of the Quin-Cities ashes was the Metropolitan Conference.

Hawks Hammer New York, 104-93

Boston (AP)—Bill Bridges and Zelmo Beaty provided the scoring and rebounding punch that sparked the St. Louis Hawks to a 104-93 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Wednesday night.

St. Louis trailed 62-58 early in the third period, but Bridges scored 10 of the Hawk's next 15 points as they forged into a 73-68 lead. St. Louis never trailed thereafter as Beaty tallied 10 points in the last quarter to insure the win.

South Carolina Fined By ACC

Greensboro, N.C. (AP) — The University of South Carolina has been fined $2,500 for having more than 140 athletes on scholarship and its athletic department has been reprimanded by Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner Jim Weaver.

USC is the second ACC school penalized within the past week. Clemson was assessed a similar fine with an added curtailment of future recruiting for the same violation.

In Columbia, S.C., USC Athletic Director Marvin Bass quoted Weaver as saying South Carolina was five in excess of the 140 grant-in-aid athletes permitted for football and basketball.

Royal, 2 Assistants Top Oklahoma List

. . . MACKENZIE, CURTIS MENTIONED

Norman, Okla. (AP)—Former Oklahoma quarterback Darrell Royal, now a successful coach at Texas, and two assistant coachs loomed Wednesday as the top candidates for the Oklahoma football post vacated by Gomer Jones.

Royal, Jim Mackenzie of Arkansas and Chuck Curtis of Southern Methodist were put at the top of the list after Tennessee Coach Doug Dickey said he was "well satisfied" with his present position.

"I see no reason to explore any opportunities elsewhere," the 33-year-old Vol coach said in a prepared statement issued at Knoxville.

Dickey was considered to have the inside track for the post which Jones resigned under fire Monday after the Sooners finished the season with a 3-7 record, worst in the school's modern history.

Dr. George L. Cross, university president, said a seven-member committee, consisting of three OU regents, three athletic council members and himself, would begin screening the list of possible coaches Thursday.

However, the regents must meet and decide whether to accept Jones' conditional resignation, which provided that he quit as coach but remain as athletic director.

Jones had two years remaining on a four-year contract when he resigned.

OU sources say the regents have two choices in considering the resignation:

—They can accept its conditions and allow Jones to remain as athletic director.

—They can refuse to accept and remove Jones from the dual position.

Many feel the latter course would have to be followed before the Sooners would have a chance to attract a big name coach such as Royal, who is both athletic director and head coach.

Cross said he had no idea how many names would be screened originally, but said an elimination process likely would be started immediately.

Cross declined to name everyone on his list, but said Royal, MacKenzie, Curtis, Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder, Washington Coach Jim Owens and Washington State Coach Bert Clark were on it.

Arkansas Aide Interested In OU Coaching Position

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) — Arkansas assistant Coach Jim MacKenzie, mentioned as a prime candidate for the head coaching vacancy at the University of Oklahoma, said Wednesday night he is interested in the job.

"Certainly I'd be interested," MacKenzie said. "I haven't been contacted by anyone but I'm flattered to be among those mentioned.

"At this point, all I know about the situation is what I've read in the newspaper or heard on the radio."

MacKenzie, Arkansas defensive coach, was in Tulsa on a recruiting trip. He has served under Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles since 1957 at Missouri. He came with Broyles in 1958 when Broyles accepted the Razorback post.

Unitas Definitely Out For Season

Baltimore (AP) — The Baltimore Colts made it official Wednesday that injured quarterback John Unitas will not play any more this National Football League season or in the title game by putting him on the reserve list.

Unitas already had been eliminated from playing against the Green Bay Packers Sunday or at Los Angeles the following Saturday when the Colts wind up their regular schedule. Wednesday's action removes any possibility of him appearing in the title playoff, if the Colts make it.

Baltimore Edges 76ers, 129-127

Baltimore (AP)—Bailey Howell's two free throws with four seconds remaining gave the Baltimore Bullets a 129-127 National Basketball Association victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Wednesday night.

The game was played under protest by Philadelphia Coach Dolph Schayes after his star center, Wilt Chamberlain, complained in the first quarter about a sticky substance on the ball provided by the home team.

Arthur Ashe Subdues Stubborn Chilean Foe

Adelaide, Australia (AP) — American star Arthur Ashe, flustered by a baseline decision called against him, met unexpectedly stiff resistance Wednesday before subduing Patricio Rodriguez of Chile 7-5, 5-7, 6-2 in the South Australian Tennis Championships.

Herb FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.Y. also advanced to the men's quarter-finals, but two other U.S. players, Cliff Richey and Jim McManus, and John Newcombe of Australia, the tournament's defending title-holder, were eliminated. Newcombe was ousted by Tom Okker of Holland 6-1, 11-9 in the day's biggest upset.

Alworth Named AFL Player Of The Week

New York (AP) — Lance Alworth showed the New York Jets how the game should be played last week in a performance that earned the San Diego flanker The Associated Press' designation as offensive Player of the Week in the American Football League.

Alworth caught seven passes for 147 yards, including two for touchdowns, in a 38-7 romp over the Jets. The fleet Arkansas athlete leads the AFL in touchdowns with 12 and ranks fifth in the scoring race with his 72 points.

Wisconsin Board Favors Removal Of Head Coach

Madison, Wis., (AP)—The Capital Times of Madison said Wednesday it had learned that half the membership of the University of Wisconsin Athletic board favors removal of Milt Bruhn as football coach.

The board has eight voting members and makes recommendations to the university president, who in turn reports to the Board of Regents.

The Regents meet in Milwaukee Friday.

The newspaper said one unidentified board member reported the group, with one abstention, voted 4-3 to recommend the removal of Bruhn. The last scheduled meeting of the board was held Nov. 23 in Madison. Newsmen then were told the subject of Bruhn's removal was not discussed.

Wichita Throttles No. 2 Ranked Michigan, 100-94

Wichita, Kan. (AP) — Wichita avenged last season's defeat at Michigan's hands by thumping the No. 2 ranked Wolverines 100-94 in a basketball thriller Wednesday night.

Cazzie Russell, the 6-foot-5 All America who dunked a last-second basket which won last year's cliffhanger for Michigan, was held to 21 points.

The Wheatshockers took no chances with Russell, assigning as many as three men to defense him under the basket. As a result, John Clawson was the scoring leader for the Wolverines with 28. But Jamie Thompson of Wichita made that up with 28 of his own. He scored every shot that he attempted.

Unbeaten Kentucky Whips Illinois, 86-68

Champaign, Ill. (AP) — Unbeaten Kentucky, led by the 32-point output of Thad Jaracz and 21 by Louis Dampier, grabbed an early lead and never was headed in defeating Illinois 86-68 in intersectional basketball Wednesday night.

Kentucky went ahead 8-7 and padded out a 39-34 halftime edge as Jaracz hit 14 points and Dampier 9. The closest Illinois came after that was 53-49 and 57-53. Then the Wildcats made 11 straight for an overwhelming 84-64 bulge as Jaracz and Pat Riley each netted four points in the surge.

Washburn, Kan., Drops Peru, 97-70

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Twenty-two of 23 players scored Wednesday night as Washburn handed Peru a 97-70 basketball defeat. All 11 Washburn players scored and only one Peru player failed to get a point.

Peru battled the home club to a 38-38 halftime tie but after two minutes of the second half Dave Tenpenny and Sam Shipstead led a Washburn charge that quickly left Peru trailing.

Tenpenny, 5-11, hit 11 field goals and Shipstead had 8. Mike Harmon led Peru with 9 field goals and a total of 22 points.

Site Selected For Missouri Domed Arena

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Selection of a site southeast of the University of Missouri Memorial Stadium for a proposed domed arena, seating from 15,000 to 20,000 persons, was announced Wednesday by the University's Board of Regents.

The proposed multi-purpose auditorium also would serve as a field house.

A request for planning funds for the structure in its capital improvements program has been made by the University and the Commission on Higher Education has asked that the General Assembly allocate $400,000 for that purpose.

Chancellor John W. Schwada said University officials envisage a structure similar to the one at the University of Illinois. That structure of pre-stressed concrete.

North Platte Man Given Non-Pro Baseball Position

Wichita, Kan. — Max Anderson of North Platte has been appointed by the National Baseball Congress as commissioner of non-professional baseball for Nebraska in 1966.

Anderson will supervise the 32nd annual Nebraska State Championship Tournament in late July at a site to be selected later. Cities being considered are Grand Island, North Platte, Holdrege and Hastings.

The Nebraska champion will qualify for the 32nd annual national tournament starting here Aug. 12, NBC president Ray Dumont said. North Platte Gulf Oilers are the defending Nebraska champions.

Rights Safety Laws Urged

Washington (UPI) — A White House civil rights panel Wednesday called for new federal legislation to protect "the physical security of all Americans and to replace segregated justice with a true system of justice throughout the land."

The new laws, the panel said, should include:

—Power for federal courts to claim jurisdiction in state criminal matters when "necessary to protect federal rights."

The proposals were contained in a preliminary justice report from delegates to last month's planning session for the White House conference scheduled for next spring.

Other preliminary reports on education, health, jobs, family, voting, community and citizenship were made public Wednesday. A conference spokesman said all the reports have been sent to President Johnson.

President Of NBC Departing

New York (AP)—Three weeks additional duties as board chairman, Robert E. Kintner was reliably reported Wednesday to be leaving as president of the National Broadcasting Co.

The big question was why. Neither NBC nor its parent firm, Radio Corp. of America, would answer. And Kintner could not be reached for comment.

Kintner becomes the second broadcasting company president to vacate his office this year. Last February, James T. Aubrey Jr. suddenly resigned as CBS president at a time when his network was dropping from the lead in the ratings race.

Iowa University Poet Is Honored

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI) — Poetry magazine, a Chicago publication, has awarded its annual Harriet Monroe Memorial Prize to Donald Justice, associate professor of English at the University of Iowa.

Justice was honored for five poems which appeared in the March, 1965, issue of the magazine. He received a similar award from the magazine in 1960.

Justice teaches poetry in the writers workshop at the University of Iowa. He received a Ph. D. from Iowa in 1954 and has been a member of the school's faculty since 1957. His poems have been published in several magazines.

Paratrooper Who Slew Dominican Handed 20 Years

Ft. Bragg, N.C. (AP)—A court-martial board sentenced a paratrooper to 20 years hard labor Wednesday for the fatal shooting of a youth in Santo Domingo.

Pfc. Gene Barbosa, 19, of Providence, R.I., showed no outward emotion when his conviction on a charge of unpremeditated murder was announced and his sentence read. His mother was in the courtroom.

Barbosa had contended he thought Juan Francisco Monte de Oca, a teen-ager, had planted a bomb in the hospital area he was guarding last Oct. 16 while on duty with the 82nd Airborne Division in the Dominican Republic. Barbosa had pleaded innocent.

His sentence, which also indicated a dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of pay and allowances and reduction in rank to private, will be appealed, defense attorneys said.

Two Ask Liberal Homosexuality, Abortion Laws

London (AP)—Bills to liberalize British laws against abortion and homosexuality were introduced Wednesday by two Conservative members in the House of Commons.

The bill for abortion law reform was brought in by Simon Wingfield Digby. His measure would make it legal to terminate a pregnancy within the first 16 weeks when two doctors agree that the health of the mother or the unborn child may be jeopardized otherwise. Rape also would be grounds for abortion.

Margaret Goes To 'Hello Dolly'

Her sister, Queen Elizabeth II and the queen mother attended earlier performances. All were for charity.

World Bank Proposes Fund Aiding Small Country Market

Washington (UPI) — The World Bank Wednesday proposed establishment of a $2 billion fund to help poor countries when their markets go sour.

The bank said the fund would allow developing countries to plan their economic growth.

Many of the developing nations rely heavily on exports of farm or mine products such as coffee or tin to earn the money needed for development.

But prices for these products are subject to wide fluctuations. If most countries have a bumper rice crop, the price of rice can plummet despite crop controls.

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) already has an arrangement for helping poor countries over such short crises. But according to the bank, long-run assistance is needed too.

2 Physicians Resign After 3 Patients Died

Pontiac, Mich. (AP) — Two Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital physicians heve resigned as requested in the aftermath to the postsurgery deaths of three patients, the hospital said Wednesday.

The Oakland County prosecutor's office charged there had been gross negligency but said there was no evidence of criminal wrongdoing.

Beatle Harrison Wants 'Golden' Record Returned

Sheffield, England (AP)—Beatle George Harrison publicly appealed Wednesday night for the return of a "golden" record of one of their hits—"A Hard Day's Night."

"The disc is not actually worth much, but there is a great deal of sentimental value," he said.

Harrison said he had given the record to a girl friend, Patti Boyd, and it was stolen from her London apartment.

Norfolk, Va. (AP) — Anonymous telephone threats have been made to wives whose husbands will return here next week after six months of Viet Nam duty aboard the aircraft carrier Independence.

tension indigestion

Tests at a famous medical center show how one special formula beats even prescription-type products in fighting excess stomach acid, immediate cause of tension indigestion. This special formula is not an expensive drug, not difficult to get, but found in today's TUMS®. Stomach specialists know TUMS is no mere candy mint. In tests, today's TUMS fought stomach acid faster, more completely than even a prescription-type antacid costing six times as much. It is the medicine for tension indigestion. TUMS.

Big 10 Prep Loop Talks Expansion

. . . SCHEDULING PROBLEMS GROW

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Nebraska's Big Ten Conference will study an expansion proposal which would absorb all of the state's non-Metropolitan Conference Class A teams.

Formation of a committee headed by Norfolk's Roger Maxwell to look into a proposed expansion was prompted by a favorable reaction to a letter to the conference by Bill Bogar, principal of Lincoln High School.

Bogar describes his letter to Lester Reid, outgoing president of the Big Ten, as merely a suggestion.

"It was just an idea, certainly not original, that I had been mulling over," he indicates.

"I think the problem of scheduling we now have is something we should be concerned with and there are some advantages in guaranteeing an all Class A schedule for all Class A schools," he says.

The letter outlined an all-inclusive, open-end Class A conference that would assure all schools of a solid schedule without having to cross state borders and a conference that would have popular appeal in that it would tie the state together athletically.

Western teams have traditionally had scheduling problems in football and basketball and now the eastern Class A teams are beginning to feel the pressure since the Metropolitan Conference is confining the Omaha schools to their own backyards.

The Big Ten has had no membership changes since being originated in 1945, but several of its members have held spots in other conferences simultaneously.

Hastings, Grand Island and North Platte of the Big Ten are now associated with the three Lincoln Public Schools in the Trans-Nebraska Conference, one of two loops which was formed after the proposed Quin-Cities loop collapsed. Also arising out of the Quin-Cities ashes was the Metropolitan Conference.

Hawks Hammer New York, 104-93

Boston (AP)—Bill Bridges and Zelmo Beaty provided the scoring and rebounding punch that sparked the St. Louis Hawks to a 104-93 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Wednesday night.

St. Louis trailed 62-58 early in the third period, but Bridges scored 10 of the Hawk's next 15 points as they forged into a 73-68 lead. St. Louis never trailed thereafter as Beaty tallied 10 points in the last quarter to insure the win.

South Carolina Fined By ACC

Greensboro, N.C. (AP) — The University of South Carolina has been fined $2,500 for having more than 140 athletes on scholarship and its athletic department has been reprimanded by Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner Jim Weaver.

USC is the second ACC school penalized within the past week. Clemson was assessed a similar fine with an added curtailment of future recruiting for the same violation.

In Columbia, S.C., USC Athletic Director Marvin Bass quoted Weaver as saying South Carolina was five in excess of the 140 grant-in-aid athletes permitted for football and basketball.

Smith May Deport African Workers

Salisbury, Rhodesia, (UPI) —White-supremacy Premier Ian Smith Wednesday ordered deportation of alien African workers if necessary to create jobs for Rhodesians left unemployed as a result of British economic sanctions. About 400,000 Africans could be affected.

Smith, in a nationwide radio and television speech, branded British Prime Minister Harold Wilson untrustworthy.

Britain imposed severe sanctions against Rhodesia after Smith declared the African colony unilateral independent to perpetuate the rule of the 220,000 white minority over Rhodesia's four million black African majority.

'Embarrassed'

Smith said in his speech the "deceitful Wilsonian actions . . . have temporarily embarrassed" Rhodesia but said he was confident they would be soon overcome by counter-measures.

The United States and most members of the United Nations have joined in the sanctions against Rhodesia. Australia announced Wednesday it was tightening its ban on imports from the rebellious colony.

Smith listed a total of seven measures to protect the California-sized colony, including financial and export restrictions. He warned others were being planned if the situation worsened.

Alien deportation could affect Africans from neighboring countries attracted to Rhodesia by its industry.

Foreign Workers

Latest available figures show that 200,660 Africans from Malawi are employed in Rhodesia. There are 69,740 Zambians and a total of 117,620 from the Portuguese territories of Mozambique and Angola. Another 18,030 workers are from other countries.

The other countermeasures listed by Smith included:

—Prepayment for Rhodesian exports in dollars or hard West European currencies by neighboring Malawi and Zambia.

Reduction of imports from Britain, once worth about $98 million a year, to an insignificant amount.

—An examination of transport costs on the railroad operated jointly with neighboring Zambia. "If it should prove that the greatest costs are incurred in Rhodesia it may be necessary to seek settlement of the balance in currencies other than sterling."

—New financial restrictions, including blocking of debt payments to Britain and the World Bank that might total $302 million.

Rights Safety Laws Urged

Washington (UPI) — A White House civil rights panel Wednesday called for new federal legislation to protect "the physical security of all Americans and to replace segregated justice with a true system of justice throughout the land."

The new laws, the panel said, should include:

—Power for federal courts to claim jurisdiction in state criminal matters when "necessary to protect federal rights."

—Authority for the U.S. attorney general to stop state proceedings "on the basis of denial of civil rights."

—A law making the murder of a person engaged in civil rights activities a federal crime.

The proposals were contained in a preliminary justice report from delegates to last month's planning session for the White House conference scheduled for next spring.

Other preliminary reports on education, health, jobs, family, voting, community and citizenship were made public Wednesday. A conference spokesman said all the reports have been sent to President Johnson.

President Of NBC Departing

New York (AP)—Three weeks additional duties as board chairman, Robert E. Kintner was reliably reported Wednesday to be leaving as president of the National Broadcasting Co.

The big question was why. Neither NBC nor its parent firm, Radio Corp. of America, would answer. And Kintner could not be reached for comment.

The news of Kintner's impending departure leaked out in a report appearing in the New York Times.

Kintner becomes the second broadcasting company president to vacate his office this year. Last February, James T. Aubrey Jr. suddenly resigned as CBS president at a time when his network was dropping from the lead in the ratings race.

Iowa University Poet Is Honored

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI) — Poetry magazine, a Chicago publication, has awarded its annual Harriet Monroe Memorial Prize to Donald Justice, associate professor of English at the University of Iowa.

Justice was honored for five poems which appeared in the March, 1965, issue of the magazine. He received a similar award from the magazine in 1960.

Justice teaches poetry in the writers workshop at the University of Iowa. He received a Ph. D. from Iowa in 1954 and has been a member of the school's faculty since 1957. His poems have been published in several magazines.

Paratrooper Who Slew Dominican Handed 20 Years

Ft. Bragg, N.C. (AP)—A court-martial board sentenced a paratrooper to 20 years hard labor Wednesday for the fatal shooting of a youth in Santo Domingo.

Pfc. Gene Barbosa, 19, of Providence, R.I., showed no outward emotion when his conviction on a charge of unpremeditated murder was announced and his sentence read. His mother was in the courtroom.

Barbosa had contended he thought Juan Francisco Monte de Oca, a teen-ager, had planted a bomb in the hospital area he was guarding last Oct. 16 while on duty with the 82nd Airborne Division in the Dominican Republic. Barbosa had pleaded innocent.

His sentence, which also indicated a dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of pay and allowances and reduction in rank to private, will be appealed, defense attorneys said.

Two Ask Liberal Homosexuality, Abortion Laws

London (AP)—Bills to liberalize British laws against abortion and homosexuality were introduced Wednesday by two Conservative members in the House of Commons.

The bill for abortion law reform was brought in by Simon Wingfield Digby. His measure would make it legal to terminate a pregnancy within the first 16 weeks when two doctors agree that the health of the mother or the unborn child may be jeopardized otherwise. Rape also would be grounds for abortion.

Margaret Goes To 'Hello Dolly'

London (AP)—Princess Margaret went to see "Hello, Dolly" Wednesday and passed up the royal box to friends for a seat in the front row of the balcony.

Wearing a full length turquoise tweed evening coat over a satin gown of deep turquoise, she was accompanied by her husband, Lord Snowdon.

Her sister, Queen Elizabeth II and the queen mother attended earlier performances. All were for charity.

World Bank Proposes Fund Aiding Small Country Market

Washington (UPI) — The World Bank Wednesday proposed establishment of a $2 billion fund to help poor countries when their markets go sour.

The bank said the fund would allow developing countries to plan their economic growth.

Many of the developing nations rely heavily on exports of farm or mine products such as coffee or tin to earn the money needed for development.

But prices for these products are subject to wide fluctuations. If most countries have a bumper rice crop, the price of rice can plummet despite crop controls.

When that happens, export earnings drop enough to seriously disrupt the country's development plan.

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) already has an arrangement for helping poor countries over such short crises. But according to the bank, long-run assistance is needed too.

2 Physicians Resign After 3 Patients Died

Pontiac, Mich. (AP) — Two Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital physicians heve resigned as requested in the aftermath to the postsurgery deaths of three patients, the hospital said Wednesday.

A faulty maxture of anesthetics was blamed for the deaths last month of a young mother and two children.

Dr. Lloyd R. Goodwin, 58, chief anesthesiologist, and Dr. Stanley E. Abrams, 42, an anesthesiologist, resigned in obedience to a request by the hospital's board of directors.

The Oakland County prosecutor's office charged there had been gross negligency but said there was no evidence of criminal wrongdoing.

Beatle Harrison Wants 'Golden' Record Returned

Sheffield, England (AP)—Beatle George Harrison publicly appealed Wednesday night for the return of a "golden" record of one of their hits—"A Hard Day's Night."

"The disc is not actually worth much, but there is a great deal of sentimental value," he said.

Harrison said he had given the record to a girl friend, Patti Boyd, and it was stolen from her London apartment.

Forest Lab Announced

Missoula, Mont. (UPI)—A contract for $379,970 to build a Forest Service laboratory on the University of Montana campus was announced by Sens. Mike Mansfield and Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.

Wives Get Threats

Norfolk, Va. (AP) — Anonymous telephone threats have been made to wives whose husbands will return here next week after six months of Viet Nam duty aboard the aircraft carrier Independence.

Surprising medical facts about

tension indigestion

Tests at a famous medical center show how one special formula beats even prescription-type products in fighting excess stomach acid immediate cause of tension indigestion. This special formula is not an expensive drug, not difficult to get, but found in today's TUMS. Stomach specialists know TUMS is no mere candy mint. In tests, today's TUMS fought stomach acid faster, more completely than even a prescription-type antacid costing six times as much. It is the medicine for tension indigestion. TUMS.

Smith May Deport African Workers

Salisbury, Rhodesia, (UPI) —White-supremacy Premier Ian Smith Wednesday ordered deportation of alien African workers if necessary to create jobs for Rhodesians left unemployed as a result of British economic sanctions. About 400,000 Africans could be affected.

Smith, in a nationwide radio and television speech, branded British Prime Minister Harold Wilson untrustworthy.

He accused Wilson of involving other nations in a "domestic quarrel" and rejected the possibility of "peace overtures" from London.

Britain imposed severe sanctions against Rhodesia after Smith declared the African colony unilateral independent to perpetuate the rule of the 220,000 white minority over Rhodesia's four million black African majority.

'Embarrassed'

Smith said in his speech the "deceitful Wilsonian actions . have temporarily embarrassed" Rhodesia but said he was confident they would be soon overcome by counter-measures.

The United States and most members of the United Nations have joined in the sanctions against Rhodesia. Australia announced Wednesday it was tightening its ban on imports from the rebellious colony.

Smith listed a total of seven measures to protect the California-sized colony, including financial and export restrictions. He warned others were being planned if the situation worsened.

Alien deportation could affect Africans from neighboring countries attracted to Rhodesia by its industry.

Foreign Workers

Latest available figures show that 200,660 Africans from Malawi are employed in Rhodesia. There are 69,740 Zambians and a total of 117,620 from the Portuguese territories of Mozambique and Angola. Another 18,030 workers are from other countries.

The other countermeasures listed by Smith included·

—Prepayment for Rhodesian exports in dollars or hard West European currencies by neighboring Malawi and Zambia

Reduction of imports from Britain, once worth about $98 million a year, to an insignificant amount

—An examination of transport costs on the railroad operated jointly with neighboring Zambia. "If it should prove that the greatest costs are incurred in Rhodesia it may be necessary to seek settlement of the balance in currencies other than sterling."

—New financial restrictions, including blocking of debt payments to Britain and the World Bank that might total $302 million.

—Rearrangement of payment channels to bypass London

Tass Says Evidence Shows Catholic Collusion With Nazis

Moscow (AP)—Tass charged Wednesday that evidence exists which points to collusion between Roman Catholic leaders and the Nazis in the murder of six million Jews during World War II.

"A great number of documents, published recently in different countries, points to an actual collusion between Catholic leaders and Nazis in the physical extermination of six million Jews," the official Soviet news agency declared. It gave no examples.

Tass also commented on the council's document clearing the Jews of deicide in the crucifixion of Christ.

"This 'rehabilitation' of the Jews 20 centuries after such charges — responsibility for the death of Christ—were made came as a result of strong public criticisms of the actions of the Catholic heierarchy with Pius XII at the head during the Second World War," Tass said.

The article, written by Tass commentator Anatoly Krasikov, also said, "The demand of 450 diehards among the bishops 'solemnly to denounce communism' was turned down by an overwhelming majority of this assembly."

"The leaders of modern Catholicism," the news agency commented, "have without doubt drawn conclusions from the fact that in our time ever new millions of people are rallying around the banner of socialism," Tass said.

The agency added that the U.S. bishops suffered a setback on the nuclear issue. As adopted, the war and peace document said legitimate self-defense cannot be denied nations, but warned against dangers to the world of stockpiling nuclear weapons.

"The speeches of a number of American bishops in defense of wars, which the West believes to be just, met with no support of the council, although they were supported by diehard bishops from Italy, Spain and some other countries," Tass said.

"Nearly all members of the council were in favor of banning nuclear weapons and ending the arms race."

Sorensen Asks Clergy To Help

Omaha (AP)— Mayor A. V. Sorensen of Omaha has urged that the clergy become "involved as Christians" in community services.

"I beg for your help," he said to the Omaha Ministerial Union.

The mayor recalled rumors last Labor Day of an impending racial crisis and said he spent a great deal of time with Negro leaders trying to ascertain if there was substance for the rumors.

He said it was with a "sign of relief" that he learned they were false.

Though progress has been in Omaha, he said a need remains for equality of employment and for better housing. City condemnation of substandard housing, he said, has focused attention on the problem.

Noting that the churches could build low-cost housing through the national housing act, Sorensen said "this is the way you can become involved."

Beige-Clad Man Holds Up Bank, Uses Beige Car

San Francisco (AP)—A color-conscious gunman and a girl friend escaped with $3,132 Wednesday after holding up the Bank of America's Balboa Street branch.

George De Barrio, 19, a City College of San Francisco student who followed the two out of the bank, said he saw them leave in a beige automobile of late model. The gunman wore beige slacks and a beige jacket.

Rubenstein Relaxation

Warsaw (AP)—Polish-born pianist Artur Rubenstein has arrived here for a brief rest and to see the new Warsaw Grand Opera House where the opera "King Roger" by his lifelong friend, the late Polish composer Karol Szymanowski, was staged at the ceremonial opening performance. "I have never seen that work on stage," Rubenstein said, "although I was present when Szymanowski wrote it."

Tass Says Evidence Shows Catholic Collusion With Nazis

Moscow (AP)—Tass charged Wednesday that evidence exists which points to collusion between Roman Catholic leaders and the Nazis in the murder of six million Jews during World War II.

The charge was part of a long article on the Catholic Church in connection with the end of the Ecumenical Council.

"A great number of documents, published recently in different countries, points to an actual collusion between Catholic leaders and Nazis in the physical extermination of six million Jews," the official Soviet news agency declared. It gave no examples.

Tass also commented on the council's document clearing the Jews of deicide in the crucifixion of Christ.

"This 'rehabilitation' of the Jews 20 centuries after such charges — responsibility for the death of Christ—were made came as a result of strong public criticisms of the actions of the Catholic heierarchy with Pius XII at the head during the Second World War," Tass said.

The article, written by Tass commentator Anatoly Krasikov, also said, "The demand of 450 diehards among the bishops 'solemnly to denounce communism' was turned down by an overwhelming majority of this assembly."

"The leaders of modern Catholicism," the news agency commented, "have without doubt drawn conclusions from the fact that in our time ever new millions of people are rallying around the banner of socialism," Tass said.

The agency added that the U.S. bishops suffered a setback on the nuclear issue. As adopted, the war and peace document said legitimate self-defense cannot be denied nations, but warned against dangers to the world of stockpiling nuclear weapons.

"The speeches of a number of American bishops in defense of wars, which the West believes to be just, met with no support of the council, although they were supported by diehard bishops from Italy, Spain and some other countries," Tass said.

"Nearly all members of the council were in favor of banning nuclear weapons and ending the arms race."

Sorensen Asks Clergy To Help

Omaha (AP)— Mayor A. V. Sorensen of Omaha has urged that the clergy become "involved as Christians" in community services.

"I beg for your help," he said to the Omaha Ministerial Union.

The mayor recalled rumors last Labor Day of an impending racial crisis and said he spent a great deal of time with Negro leaders trying to ascertain if there was substance for the rumors.

He said it was with a "sign of relief" that he learned they were false.

Though progress has been in Omaha, he said a need remains for equality of employment and for better housing. City condemnation of substandard housing, he said, has focused attention on the problem.

Noting that the churches could build low-cost housing through the national housing act, Sorensen said "this is the way you can become involved."

Beige-Clad Man Holds Up Bank, Uses Beige Car

San Francisco (AP)—A color-conscious gunman and a girl friend escaped with $3,132 Wednesday after holding up the Bank of America's Balboa Street branch.

George De Barrio, 19, a City College of San Francisco student who followed the two out of the bank, said he saw them leave in a beige automobile of late model. The gunman wore beige slacks and a beige jacket.

Rubenstein Relaxation

Warsaw (AP)—Polish-born pianist Artur Rubenstein has arrived here for a brief rest and to see the new Warsaw Grand Opera House where the opera "King Roger" by his lifelong friend, the late Polish composer Karol Szymanowski, was staged at the ceremonial opening performance. "I have never seen that work on stage," Rubenstein said, "although I was present when Szymanowski wrote it."

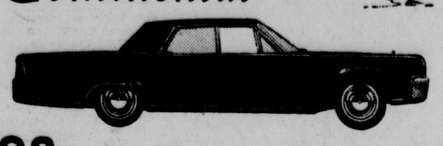
This is a
Lincoln Continental



'62? '63? '64? '65? ONLY YOU KNOW FOR SURE!

You and your checkbook, that is! And, that's why a previously owned Lincoln Continental is such a great investment. You're getting a brilliantly engineered car . . . more satisfying than most new cars . . . and one that's had the kind of care that only Continentals tend to get! And, best of all, only you and I and your checkbook will know how little you paid for it. Call me to see what I have in stock currently; you stand to save thousands of dollars!

HARVEY TAYLOR 434-2935

Not too early to think about the Christmas Office Party. Nor too late to get off the merry-go-round before it's too late. However —.

"The type of Office Party one attends classifies the person among his fellow workers," reports a Dr. Allberg—he's with an Eastern university. Possibly in charge of Office Parties. He's a psychologist, a brain.

He said: "The large office building is similar to any colony. The person in offices of lesser importance seeks to join the social groups in offices of higher status."

I'll break that down for you: the Doctor means the wren working in "accounts receivable," Flashy Novelties, Inc. tries to get invited to "bookkeeping" in Haymarket, Fiddlefaff and Whetstone, Adv. Consultants.

The latter firm has the Hold-fast Glue Company account. (Whetstone, the account executive, will pirate it next year and open his own agency. But no matter for now.)

The Office Party therefore has come a long way. At one time we sought offices with older gin and younger girls. Now we look for higher status.

Status reaches into all parts of our lives these tiptoe days. And while it puts us on chandeliers and tranquilizers, we really couldn't get along without it.

Status is not just keeping up with the Joneses. It's getting ahead of the Joneses. Bug Jones but good. And you've got status.

After studying these Christmas brawls, Dr. Allberg — (and what a job he's got!)— reported:

"The Office Party is no longer a spontaneous affair and certain cautionary attitudes have developed.

"Stenographers anticipate the affair by wearing their best costumes. In their anticipation, they begin to consider aftermaths and consequences — (or rewards) — of their behavior."

This is not good news. So we may maintain our status level, it seems we'll have to attend duller conventions. With chicks already considering the future.

Ah, Christmas of other years? I can remember — but who wants to trip down memory lane.

☆ ☆ ☆

Anyway, we now know why we're going to Office Parties. And which parties to go to. It's a scientific approach.

It's no longer an affair of lushing it up. Brother to brother. Old pal to old pal. It's the status struggle. The law of fang and claw. Merry Christmas, old pal. I just got your job.

It makes the Office Party understandable — up the ladder ahead of the next guy. Whereas in those old, foggy, ginny days, we really didn't know why we were at the Party. And often enough didn't know which Party. Or even which building.

The best Office Party you can attend (says the Doctor) is the one where the firm makes the most money. There is no status symbol like money.

Thus the financial district is high on your list. In these days, Scrooge has plenty of status. And Bob Cratchit could buy his own goose on the credit he derived from working for such a financier.

I imagine a good, solid bank would have plenty of status at its Office Party. Everybody nipping around the cages and vice presidents pinching one and all. Jolly Noel!

Not too early to think about the Christmas Office Party. Nor too late to get off the merry-go-round before it's too late. However —.

"The type of Office Party one attends classifies the person among his fellow workers," reports a Dr. Allberg—he's with an Eastern university. Possibly in charge of Office Parties. He's a psychologist, a brain.

He said: "The large office building is similar to any colony. The person in offices of lesser importance seeks to join the social groups in offices of higher status."

I'll break that down for you. the Doctor means the wren working in "accounts receivable." Flashy Novelties, Inc. tries to get invited to "bookkeeping" in Haymarket, Fiddlefaff and Whetstone, Adv. Consultants.

The latter firm has the Hold-fast Glue Company account. (Whetstone, the account executive, will pirate it next year and open his own agency. But no matter for now.)

The Office Party therefore has come a long way. At one time we sought offices with older gin and younger girls. Now we look for higher status.

Status reaches into all parts of our lives these tiptoe days. And while it puts us on chandeliers and tranquilizers, we really couldn't get along without it.

Status is not just keeping up with the Joneses. It's getting ahead of the Joneses. Bug Jones but good. And you've got status.

After studying these Christmas brawls, Dr. Allberg — (and what a job he's got!)— reported:

"The Office Party is no longer a spontaneous affair and certain cautionary attitudes have developed.

"Stenographers anticipate the affair by wearing their best costumes. In their anticipation, they begin to consider aftermaths and consequences — (or rewards) — of their behavior."

This is not good news. So we may maintain our status level, it seems we'll have to attend duller conventions. With chicks already considering the future.

A certain spirit goes out of Christmas, when ladies keep their eyes on the sugar plums of good behavior.

Ah, Christmas of other years? I can remember — but who wants to trip down memory lane.

Anyway, we now know why we're going to Office Parties. And which parties to go to It's a scientific approach.

It's no longer an affair of lushing it up. Brother to brother. Old pal to old pal It's the status struggle. The law of fang and claw. Merry Christmas, old pal. I just got your job.

It makes the Office Party understandable — up the ladder ahead of the next guy. Whereas in those old, foggy, ginny days, we really didn't know why we were at the Party. And often enough didn't know which Party. Or even which building.

The best Office Party you can attend (says the Doctor) is the one where the firm makes the most money There is no status symbol like money.

Thus the financial district is high on your list. In these days, Scrooge has plenty of status. And Bob Cratchit could buy his own goose on the credit he derived from working for such a financier.

I imagine a good, solid bank would have plenty of status at its Office Party. Everybody nipping around the cages and vice presidents pinching one and all. Jolly Noel!
